SPEAKER PLANS COLOR NEWTON CALL ON GARNER

Hoover Capital Liaison Agent Visits Texan in His Office.

TALK OF POLITICAL TRUCE IS RIDICULED

Democrat Moves Withheld to See Trend Taken by President's Message.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Walter H. Newton, Secretary to President Hoover and the liaison between the White House and the Capitol, held a fifteen-minute conference with Representative John N. Garner (Democrat), of Texas, late yesterday.

The two men, close friends since Newton came here as a young representative from Minnesota in 1918, have held conferences in the past without creating the slightest stir. Yesterday, however, it was different.

With the big Republican majority in the House wiped out and Jack Garner destined to be the Democratic Speaker of the House, it is a matter of vital moment to President Hoover to know how the Texan feels about the future.

Greetings Are Intimate.

Newton and Garner had a chat of the most cordial nature.

"Hello, Walter, you old son-of-a-gun!" roared Garner as he charged out of his private office to find the White House secretary in an outer room.

"Hello, Jack," said Newton.

"How is 'the Chief?'" asked Garner.

"He's well," replied Newton.

"Well," said Garner, "you tell him I send him my regards. Tell him I wish him health and happiness—everything but success in the 1932 election."

The two men then talked on a variety of subjects. Afterward, Garner said that Newton had not extended him an invitation to call on President Hoover. Naturally, he added, if such an invitation were proffered he would accept.

Garner Withholds Plans.

His face even ruddier than usual as a result of a hunting trip, Representative Garner arrived in Washington yesterday morning. In the course of the day he talked for sound pictures, greeted well-wishers and held two lively press conferences.

He said that the Democrats would have a legislative program to offer when Congress convenes, but he would not discuss what kind of a program it might be.

"Under the Constitution," he said, "the President is obliged to send Congress a message outlining the state of the Union. I want to know what he is going to recommend before I start talking."

Garner Scoffs at Truce.

Questioned about reports that President Hoover might suggest a political truce for the duration of the next Congress, Garner scoffed at the idea.

"I would be glad to have President Hoover support our Democratic measures," he said, "and I hope that we will be able to support some of his, but as for a truce—that's out of the question."

Both Garner and Representative John Q. Tilson (Republican), of Connecticut, majority leader in the last Congress, agreed that whichever party organizes the House at the outset should remain in control throughout the Congress.

"For either party to be constantly threatened with a change," Garner said, "would not be beneficial to the country."

Tilson expressed the same opinion, but with a reservation. He said

Veteran Kills Self On Armistice Eve

Dr. C. S. Fleming Shoots Himself While on Way to Walter Reed.

A former Army medical officer, veteran of the World War, who had come to Washington to enter Walter Reed Hospital, ended his life on the eve of the thirteenth anniversary of the war's end as he sat in his automobile in front of the home of Manuel I. Walter, 1316 Iris street northwest. The man, Dr. Carter S. Fleming, 40 years old, of Fairmont, W. Va., placed the muzzle of a .38-caliber revolver in his mouth and pulled the trigger.

Dr. Fleming died about an hour after he had been taken to Walter Reed by Mr. Walter and William Lydic, a brother-in-law. He left no notes and would give no reason for his act before death intervened.

He was to have entered the hospital yesterday morning for treatment of tuberculosis, according to police, but called and asked if it would be all right for him to enter today. Last night, however, Mr. Walter, with whom he was visiting, and Mr. Lydic decided to take him to the hospital at once. When the trio reached the street, Dr. Fleming got into the car, police were told, and as the others prepared to follow him, he asked that they wait while he got a cigarette. He pulled the pistol from his medical bag and shot himself before his friends could stop him.

Capital Area to Honor Its War Heroes Today

Armistice Celebrations Will be Held in District and Nearby Towns; Memorials to be Unveiled; Veterans Will Stage Party.

As war clouds in the Orient broke with deadly hail of machine gun bullets, the city and the Nation prepared to celebrate Armistice Day.

While President Hoover and Secretary Stimson deliberate over possible plans for quashing the Japan-China struggle, Washington will honor its World War dead, celebrate again with joy the day which thirteen years ago closed the "War to End War," and strive toward the furtherance of international peace.

At 11 o'clock, the historic hour when guns were silenced on November 11, 1918, the President will dedicate the Doric marble temple in West Potomac Park, which residents of the National Capital have erected in memory of their veterans of the World War.

To the ceremony have been invited the leaders of the Nation and the surviving veterans of the war, whose memory is to be honored thus. The ceremony will be vivid with the colors under which residents of the city died in heroic battle, and stirring with the martial strains to which they marched.

Dedication of the memorial will be preceded and followed by other rites at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington and at the tomb of Woodrow Wilson in Washington Cathedral.

The Marine Band will open the exercises at the temple. John Philip Sousa, famous conductor, will lead the playing of his immortal march, "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

The entire program will be broadcast to the Nation over both the National and the Columbia systems. Prominence is being given to leaders

FARM BOARD DEAD, OPINION OF BECK

Member of House Delivers 'Funeral Oration' at Trade Dinner in Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, delivered "a funeral oration" over the Federal Farm Board tonight and sought to "derive from the unhappy experiences of the dead, some useful lessons for the living."

Beck spoke on "The Menace of Bureaucracy" at the Chicago Board of Trade's dinner to business and industry.

"The farm relief scheme is dead," Beck said. "It may be that Congress, to save the faces of the farm relief lobby and its political advocates in Congress, may continue its functions for a little time for purposes of liquidation, for even a corpse needs embalming; but the coming Congress should bury the present experiment in governmental socialism beyond the possibility of resurrection. However, I am none too confident. When a new bureau once fastens its tentacles on the Treasury, its hold is that of a dead hand.

"The Seventy-first Congress vainly proceeded at a stupendous expenditure of the public money's to mop up the inflowing tide of grain and cotton, which had been probed by our farmers in excess of any possible consumption. The world knows the result and the Farm Board confessed its abject failure when it announced that it would not repeat the experiment this year. Therefore, I have come to bury Caesar, not to praise him. The best justification for a funeral oration is to derive from the unhappy experiences of the dead some useful lessons for the living; and it is my purpose to discuss the serious menace which such socialistic legislation has for the future of our Government and the freedom and prosperity of the American people.

"Tried by the arduous test of experience, this essay in socialism has failed. The Farm Board sought to minimize speculation and became the greatest speculator in grain and cotton; it sought to stabilize prices and it drove them downward, far below the cost of production; it sought to prevent a surplus and only increased

Akron Leaves Lakehurst For Visit to Pittsburgh

Lakehurst, N. J., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—The Navy's dirigible Akron departed at 7:05 o'clock tonight for Pittsburgh, where it will fly over the city during Armistice Day celebrations. It will return to the hangar tomorrow night.

The Los Angeles also is scheduled to fly tomorrow. No definite objective has been set for the smaller craft, but it is expected it will be seen over New York and Philadelphia.

PAPER-FAKING TALE TOLD IN PITTS CASE

Process of Chemical Aging of Documents Related in Contempt Trial.

By testimony of John H. Edwards, former vice president of the F. H. Smith Co., now serving a three-year sentence, Government prosecutors yesterday showed how several score "authorizations" were prepared at G. Bryan Pitts' palatial home at Palm Beach. Pitts is now on trial on a charge of criminal contempt of court.

Edwards' testimony showed that he, Henry O. Hart, an accountant; Miss Helen L. Schneider, Pitts and others were associated in varying degrees in preparing the authorizations and treating them with a chemical to make them appear old. He said the documents were changed somewhat when the bill of particulars, furnished the defense after a spirited court battle, showed the Government's intention of slightly altering its expected course in the trial.

Edwards was followed to the stand by Emory L. Coblentz, who described himself, among other things, as a "former banker." His chain of banks in Maryland recently failed.

Coblentz admitted signing many of the authorizations, but claimed he had signed the papers only after he had been assured they were to be used in completing records in corporations in which he was formerly connected. At one time, he said, Frank C. Raichele, chief defense counsel, went with him to remonstrate with Pitts against using authorizations signed by him in Pitts defense.

He quoted Raichele as telling Pitts that the authorizations were not to be used. The latter directly contradicted Coblentz on this, however, when he was placed on the stand later. Raichele said that he had never questioned the authenticity of the authorizations and that he was still of the opinion they were legitimate. He said that he had not seen

Millionaire Fur Dealer Liberated by Kidnapers

St. Louis, Nov. 11, Wednesday (A.P.).—Alexander Berg, millionaire fur dealer, who was kidnaped last Friday night, was returned to his home early today.

A statement handed to newspaper reporters by Morris G. Levinson, one of the attorneys for the Berg family, said:

"Mr. Berg has returned safely to his home. This was brought about through information furnished by John T. Rogers of the Post-Dispatch and the aid of the police. No ransom has been paid."

HOOVER BALKS STAGGER PLAN FOR WORKERS

Rejects Gifford Idea of Clerks Sharing Jobs With Idle.

PROPOSES GENEROUS DONATIONS INSTEAD

Chest Contributions to Aid Unemployed Urged, but Not Compulsory.

By J. B. M'DONNELL.

President Hoover yesterday rejected the proposal of the Gifford employment commission to compel Government workers to divide their jobs with persons having none, and substituted for this scheme a plea that Government workers in Washington and throughout the country voluntarily give a part of their earnings for unemployment relief.

The Gifford staggered employment plan for Government workers was characterized as impracticable under the present law.

Announcement of the President's decision on the Gifford committee plan relieved a growing tension among Government workers, and although this tension was, for a brief moment, replaced by a fear that it was proposed to force employes to give up a definite part of their salaries, this fear soon was dissipated.

No Coercion Planned.

Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission, and chairman of the special committee named by the President to study the Gifford plan, declared that there would be absolutely no effort to coerce any Government worker to contribute to the Community Chest fund for relief of distress.

Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, received public announcement of the plan with obvious pleasure. Asked if there might be any unfair coercion used against employes Mr. Steward said there would not be.

The sum of $1,000,000 has been fixed as the amount which should be contributed to the $2,601,000 budget of the Community Chest.

It is proposed that each Government employe contribute one day's pay each month for three months during the winter to raise this amount or more.

Statement by Steward.

"The Government employes will now, as they have in the past, do more than they are asked to do toward the relief of distress," Mr. Steward said. "I am sure that every Government employe will welcome President Hoover's decision against the staggered employment plan and will respond generously to the plea voluntarily to help within the limits of their hearts and pocketbooks. We shall do everything in our power to make the plan a success."

The $1,000,000 quota is for employes in Washington only. The plan has not been extended throughout the country, Mr. Campbell said, but added that it was expected the example set in the National Capital would inspire similar action elsewhere.

Not only did the committee headed by Mr. Campbell unanimously disapprove the Gifford committee's staggered work proposal, but it gave no consideration to the additional pro-

Brother-in-Law Of Hoover Held

"I Grabbed the Bag and Now I'm Holding It," He Says of Rum Case.

Santa Monica, Calif., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Charged with possession of a gunny sack containing nineteen pints of liquor, C. Van Ness Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover, was at liberty today under bail of $250.

Leavitt, who is 57, was arrested late yesterday as he attempted to leave a grocery store owned by a friend, C. R. Dailey, 43, also accused and released under similar bond.

The two men appeared in Police Court today, pleaded not guilty and were ordered to stand trial on November 16 for alleged violation of the Wright act, California's liquor statute.

"I grabbed the bag, and now I'm holding it," Leavitt said tonight. "I was in the store weighing myself when some one shouted 'Here comes Tommy Carr.' A minute later Dailey, or some one, handed me a sack and said, 'get rid of this.'"

(United Press.)

The White House had no comment to make last night on the arrest.

Viscount Eiichi Is Dead In Japan At Age of 91

Tokyo, Nov. 11 (Wednesday) (A.P.).—Viscount Eiichi Shirusawa, Japan's "grand old man" of business, died today.

He was 91 years old, but until a few years ago was still one of the country's most active business men. The people called him the "people's foreign minister" because he made so many trips to the United States, especially when the Japanese immigration question was under discussion.

SHELL STRIKES U. S. MISSION IN NEW TIENTSIN FIGHTING; DEBUCHI VISITS STIMSON

Ambassador Gives Reply to U. S. Reminder of Treaty Terms.

TOKYO WILL MOVE GOLD TO NEW YORK

Envoy Says Nation Is Willing to Waive Some of Rights to Gain Peace.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi delivered to Secretary Stimson yesterday the reply of Baron Shidehara to the American "aide-memoire" of November 2 reminding Japan of her obligations under the Nine-Power Treaty. The Japanese reply was not made public, although the Secretary of State may reveal the dipolmatic correspondence if Japan consents. The reply of the Japanese foreign office was said to be conciliatory and candid and reaffirmed the Japanese contention that she has not violated the terms of the Nine-Power Treaty.

At the same time the Japanese message was delivered to the State Department, financial cables were announcing a most important gold movement of $30,000,000 from Tokyo to Wall street within the next few days. It was believed here that Japan is preparing for any eventuality and her financial credit, which would suffer severe withdrawals if purchases of war material and equipment on a large scale are initiated, will be able to maintain the gold standard and her high credit rating with this considerable gold shipment.

Would Waive Rights.

The Japanese Ambassador talked with correspondents for some time after his visit to Secretary Stimson. Japan, he said, will not demand of China anything which is not already agreed to in the various treaties which bind the two countries. Furthermore, he said Japan was even willing to waive some of her rights in the 300-odd points now at issue to bring about a more conciliatory attitude on the part of the Chinese government. The ambassador insisted:

"My government has not the remotest idea of insisting upon final and complete adjustment of all pending questions between China and Japan before withdrawing her troops from Manchuria. But we must have security, security for our lives and our property in that part of the country."

The representations which have been the basis of American Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes' demarches to the Japanese foreign office have been on the authority of the Nine-Power Treaty. This was the international agreement entered into by the United States, Japan, England, Portugal, Holland, Belgium, France, Italy and China in 1922. At that time Japan formally recognized the principle of the "open-door" policy for the equitable development of Chinese trade with all the nations, without favoring any particular one or group. However, the important clause which looms so largely now concerns the matter of Chinese territorial integrity. The Japanese approval to the following clause was full and frank and there has never been any question about it. Therefore the United

Mechanic Is Fatally Crushed by Big Bus

A. P. O'Connor, 30, Pinned Against Wall When Machine Starts.

Crushed against a garage wall by a huge Greyhound Bus, A. P. O'Connor, 30 years of age, of 417 I street northeast, was almost instantly killed yesterday afternoon. He was hurried to Emergency Hospital by members of the Fire Rescue Squad, but was pronounced dead on his arrival.

O'Connor, a mechanic for the Greyhound Co. at its garage at 66 Hanover street northwest, had just finished the job of greasing the 33-passenger vehicle. He was standing in front of the bus looking over the job.

Dewey B. Futrell, 30 years old, of 17 L street northwest, another employe of the company, got in the machine to back it off the grease pit. Instead of backing, however, the heavy vehicle suddenly lunged forward, pinning O'Connor against the wall. His body was badly crushed. Futrell was held at the Second Precinct pending action of the coroner.

Official Denies Report Curtis Will Be Oil Czar

Chicago, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute, denied tonight that directors of the organization had offered Vice President Charles Curtis the post of dictator for the petroleum industry or "have ever considered such an action."

At the same time, Reeser said he himself had been offered a position as "coordinator" in California by that State's petroleum industry.

Manchurian Situation

Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi called at the State Department yesterday to deliver the reply of the Japanese foreign office to Secretary Stimson's "aide-memoire" of last Tuesday. Secretary Stimson is "hopeful" that the Manchurian disturbance can be settled.

Other developments were:

A Chinese mob clashed with police in Tientsin, and a shell was reported to have fallen on the American Methodist mission as Japanese exchanged shots with the police also.

The Japanese and Chinese generals in the region of Anganchi were reported last night to be withdrawing their troops so as to consolidate their forces in preparation for the greatest military offensive so far attempted when the Chinese, under Gen. Mah Chan-shan, with approximately 20,000 men, will try to retake the bridgehead at the Nonni River.

All Japanese women and children were ordered at once to flee from Manchuli and Hailar to Harbin for protection.

Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese representative at the League of Nations, announced that China will begin a program of militarism to repel "any external aggression" unless the league settles the Manchurian question.

Financial reports announced that Japan is making an important gold shipment of $30,000,000 to the United States, which may be used as a credit for the purchase of arms and ammunition and other war supplies if the Manchurian fighting flames into war.

GREEN GOES DIRECT TO CLERKS IN FIGHT

A. F. of L. Chief Calls Local Unions to Meeting Over Heads of Officials.

Fighting against withdrawal of the National Federation of Federal Employes from the American Federation of Labor, President William Green, of the latter organization, last night appealed directly to officers of local employes unions in the District to vote against the withdrawal recommendation made by their national officers and executive committee.

Mr. Green's appeal was made at a meeting held behind closed doors in the council room in the American Federation of Labor Building, at which about 40 persons were present, including Frank Morrison, secretary of the Federation of Labor, and J. Frank Coleman, of the executive committee of the District Central Labor Union, through whom the call for the meeting was said to have been issued.

Although the federation of employes still is affiliated with the Federation of Labor and business between the American Federation and its affiliated organizations usually is handled through national officers of affiliated organizations, Luther C. Steward, president of the employes federation, said last night that he had not been invited to attend the meeting.

His direct appeal to officers of the local unions apparently was decided on by Mr. Green after an exchange of correspondence with Mr. Steward, which Mr. Green read to the meeting last night.

Urging reconsideration of the withdrawal recommendation, Mr. Green, in letters to Mr. Steward, promised that despite formal action of the Federation of Labor at its recent convention opposing reclassification leg-

Insull Reported Denied Plea as C. & A. Director

(United Press.)

The Interstate Commerce Commission was understood yesterday to have refused to authorize Samuel Insull, Chicago utilities magnate, to serve as a director of the Chicago & Alton Railroad. A similar application by Silas H. Strawn, of Chicago, was approved.

The Insull application was rejected because he is a director of the Chicago & Illinois Midland, a road which competes with the Alton.

STORM-TOSSED SHIP SINKS; TWO ASK AID

Eight on Greek Boat Saved; Gales Sweep Coasts of Three Nations.

(Associated Press.)

Gales whipping the coasts of Spain, Italy and England last night brought S O S calls from three ships, one of which sank, and caused severe damage to property. Heavy seas were reported over the North Atlantic and in the Bay of Biscay.

The Greek steamer Gregorios M. sank in the Bay of Biscay. Eight of her crew of 18 were taken off by a French vessel, L. M. 22, which had answered S O S calls.

Distress signals also were sent out by the Norwegian freighter Romulus. Her position was given as "in the vicinity of Gibraltar" and she asked "urgent assistance."

Another S O S was reported from the Spanish steamer Durango, apparently in the same part of the Atlantic.

Heavy winds and high seas wrecked numerous houses on the English coast and Italian rains flooded Naples and Genoa.

The gale along the English coast increased to 70 miles an hour last night, while an abnormal tide of 20 feet swept the beaches fronting Rye and Winchelsea, wrecking dwellings, flooding streets and causing the people of Rye to move out their furniture in anticipation of a worse storm.

Shoreham-by-the-Sea and Sandgate were other places that suffered severely from 40-foot waves that battered houses along the shore.

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—As high temperatures belied the date along the Atlantic Seaboard today, ocean liners a few hundred miles to the

Successor to Morrow To Be Named Tuesday

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Gov. Morgan F. Larson said today he probably would make an appointment next Tuesday to fill the vacancy in the United States Senate caused by the death of Dwight W. Morrow. Gov. Larson said he was "not a candidate" for the office.

The governor would not comment upon reports that he was considering Harold G. Hoffman, commissioner of motor vehicles.

Mob Battles Police Near College as Situation Grows Worse.

LARGE CHINESE ARMY MOVES ON JAPANESE

(Copyright, 1931, by Associated Press.)

Peiping (Wednesday), Nov. 11 (A.P.).—A mob of 250 ruffians clashed with police in the vicinity of Nankai University at Tientsin early today, says a telephone message to Manchurian headquarters here.

A shell fell on the Keen's Girls School in the American Methodist Mission in Tientsin, the report said. The fighting began at 2 a. m. and the situation was reported growing worse.

Several shells, believed to have been thrown from Japanese trench mortars, fell near the American Methodist Mission in Tientsin shortly after 2 o'clock, additional reports said.

An armored car appearing from the Japanese concession exchanged fire with Chinese police about an hour later.

Near Nankai University.

The firing appeared to have started at about 9 o'clock last night, when gangs of between 30 and 50 Chinese gunmen began shooting within the 300-meter limit around the Japanese concession. Larger groups appeared near Nankai University at 1:45 this morning and began attacking the police.

French troops were called out of the French concession.

Firing, in which it was believed that artillery was being used, continued at 3 o'clock and the armored car rolled out of the Japanese concession 20 minutes later to exchange shots with the Chinese police.

The American Methodist Mission maintains at Tientsin a "middle grade" school, known in Chinese as Cheng-Mei Hsueh-Kuan, to which is attached a primary course and a girls' school.

Chinese Army Advances.

Tokyo (Wednesday), Nov. 11 (U.P.).—Warnings that a renewal of fighting between Chinese and Japanese in the Nonni River Valley might be expected shortly were received here today.

Japanese scouting planes reported that a large Chinese army was advancing toward territory occupied by Japanese troops, which have been well reinforced since the serious battle last week.

The Chinese legation protested to Baron Hijiro Shidehara, Japanese foreign minister, that Japanese airplanes were bombing the Heilungkiang soldiers north of the Nonni River, despite the fact that the troops have obeyed the Japanese command to keep their lines six miles north of the Nonni River bridge.

(Associated Press.)

China massed sufficient troops at Anganchi yesterday to outnumber the Japanese 20 to 1. This force is within striking distance of the Nonni bridgehead, from which the Chinese were driven in the hardest-fought engagement of the Manchurian conflict.

In Tientsin 400 rebels who took part in rioting Sunday and Monday were arrested by Chinese police, who summarily beheaded some of them.

The war office in Tokyo received dispatches from Mukden saying the Chinese were preparing to attack the Japanese-controlled South Manchurian Railway.

Eugene Chen, former foreign minister of the Canton government (the opposition government to Nanking, which is involved against Japan) proposed unity with Japan to drive out the "greedy and meddlesome war lords" from Manchuria.

Alarmed by Feeling.

Japanese women and children were ordered out of two Manchurian towns by Japanese authorities, alarmed by

300 Periled, 6 Firemen Hurt In Broadway Theater Blaze

Traffic Tangled Hopelessly and Police Reserves Are Rushed to Scene; Three Investigations Begun; Women Saved From Burning Building.

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—A spectacular fire which momentarily imperiled between 300 and 400 theater patrons, mostly children, caused injury to six firemen and damage estimated at $25,000, tore through two floors of the Lincoln Square Theater Building, Broadway at Sixty-sixth street, late today.

Its immediate sequel was the launching of three investigations into its cause and the condition of the structure, which last January was the scene of a $1,000,000 fire in which a score of firemen were injured and 190 families made homeless. The building had been reconstructed within its old walls and reopened for occupancy about three months ago.

The fire spread such dense clouds of smoke that northbound traffic in broadway, at its evening peak, was tangled hopelessly and police reserves were rushed to the scene. A passing police detective, off duty, rushed into the theater and, with the help of ushers, escorted the audience to the street.

Several women were rescued from the blazing building by police, some of them by way of a fire escape which, after they had descended three of its levels, refused to work at the second floor. A half-dozen firemen were treated for injuries and the effects of smoke. About 250 tenants, most of whom escaped unaided, were housed in a hotel across the street.

City investigators traced the fire to a bowling alley, from which it spread to a store on the street level and up into the higher floors. Much of the actual damage was done by water in the theater.

Building Commissioner William F. Deegan said he had instigated two in-

Plane Circles Over 13 Adrift In Wind-Tossed Caribbean

Flier Sees Castaways, 80 Miles Off Colombia, Clinging to Lifeboat, Raft and Fuel Drum; Two Ships Hunt for Victims.

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—A new and touching picture of ten persons—one apparently a woman—drifting in a lifeboat, two men clinging to a makeshift raft and another floating on a fuel drum in the storm-whipped Caribbean Sea while an airplane circled helplessly overhead was radioed here tonight.

The revised information was given Pan-American Airways by its pilot, Capt. Frank Ormsbee, who sighted the castaways yesterday as he flew from Cristobal, Canal Zone, to Barranquilla, Colombia.

A rag fashioned into a distress signal flew from an oar held aloft in the lifeboat. A ship's hatchway converted into a raft carried the two men just behind the boat. Another lifeboat—empty—was nearby. From 50 to 100 fuel drums littered the vicinity. On one was perched the thirteenth castaway. A 25-mile wind, the tail of a Panama storm, tossed all the objects about at will.

From the confusion, the drift and the small area in which the debris floated, Ormsbee concluded that the castaways were the survivors of a vessel which had unexpectedly exploded.

Again and again he circled the position. But he had two passengers and mail aboard and the churning sea would not permit his seaplane to alight and take off again with a cargo as heavy as the combined weight of the castaways.

Quickly he tapped out a distress message on the radio of his plane. When he reached Barranquilla yesterday afternoon he supplemented the message, broadcast for the benefit of

SAN DOMINGO JOINS LATIN MORATORIUM

Republic to Pay Interest; U. S. Will Permit Breach of Loan Treaty.

(Associated Press.)

The Dominican Republic has joined other Latin-American governments which have been compelled to suspend a part of their payments on foreign loans.

An announcement from the State Department yesterday said the island government had decided to divert certain customs revenues which had been applied on foreign loans to its own maintenance.

The department said the republic would continue, however, to pay the interest on foreign loans, adding that although the Dominican action was a violation of obligations to the holders of its securities, the United States planned no action for the present.

The department said also that the "drastic emergency step" was a violation of the "convention" of the treaty between the United States and the republic.

By a treaty agreement, increases in the Dominican national indebtedness must be approved by the United States, and a customs receiver is kept there by the United States to protect the interests of foreign bondholders.

The Commerce Department estimated at the end of 1930 that American long-term investments in Dominican governmental securities were $17,367,000.

The Dominican government recently fixed its outstanding foreign debt at $17,283,000. Private American direct investments in the republic at the end of last year were placed by the Commerce Department at $69,822,000.

Failure of the Dominican Republic to negotiate further loans from American bankers is held responsible in official circles for the deferment of amortization payments.

Latins to Meet Today On Gran Chaco Dispute

(Associated Press.)

Armistice Day in Washington will find representatives of Bolivia and Paraguay meeting in the Pan American Union in the presence of their neighbors from the Latin American diplomatic corps to discuss peace in the most sensitive spot in South America—the Great Chaco.

This triangle region, bounded by the Paraguay and Pilcomayo Rivers and by Bolivia, is somewhat smaller than the State of Texas, larger than California. Along the Paraguay River, on the east, it is settled and civilized. Along the Pilcomayo River there are only forts—literally, small adobe fortifications generally large enough to accommodate a couple of dozen soldiers and perhaps a machine gun or two.

Between these rivers is an almost unknown hinterland. Adventurers who have penetrated it have brought out pictures and stories of strange rivers that flood their banks in certain seasons and disappear, leaving deserts in others. There are swamps, infested with alligators, enormous snakes and other wild life. Some of the most primitive Indians extant are in the Gran Chaco, which takes its name from an Indian word for hunting ground.

The meeting today will be a formality, since only two of the four negotiators are in Washington. A representative of the United States State Department will open the meeting in the Hall of the Americas of the union. The plan is for replies by Juan Jose Soler, Paraguayan minister to Mexico and delegate to the negotiations, and by Dr. Eduardo Diez de Medina, former Bolivian minister and delegate to the negotiations. The meeting will then adjourn until November 18, by which time Enrique Finot, second Bolivian delegate, and Mr. Cesar Vasconcellos, the other Paraguayan delegate, will be in Washington. Both are en route.

Capt. H. A. Baldridge, Naval Officer, Missing

Capt. Henry A. Baldridge, 52 years old, of the Intelligence Division of the U. S. Navy, was reported missing from his home at 3602 Newark street northwest, last night by his son, Henry A. Baldridge, jr.

Police were asked to aid in a search for him. Mrs. Baldridge said the naval officer left his home about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon to go for a short walk and had not returned home at an early hour this morning. The Navy Department said that Capt Baldridge had been on sick leave for some time, and at the Naval Hospital it was reported he had received treatment last fall.

Winter Weather Brings Snow to Western States

Denver, Colo., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Winter weather, long delayed by a mild autumn, came to various parts of the West today. The Pacific Northwest and northern California had rain or snow and colder temperatures. Snow fell in Washington and Oregon.

Snow covered all passes over the Cascade Mountains with men at work trying to clear the roads. Stevens Pass, in the Cascades, was blocked with a 15-inch fall. A new blanket of white settled on Idaho's highlands and in some places reached into the valleys. Snow fell at Helena, Livingston and Great Falls, Mont., accompanied with a sharp drop in temperature.

Garner, of Texas, to talk over the prospects of organizing the next Congress a short time after the prospective Speaker reached Washington. NEW YORK GIVES UP GRANDI FETE PLANS

Statesman to Be Rushed in Closed Car Through City Monday.

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Through the windows of a closed car, amply guarded by police, Dino Grandi, Italy's foreign minister, will obtain his first view of New York's streets after he arrives Monday.

Although Mayor James J. Walker denied antifascist threats of disturbance had anything to do with it, tentative plans for an official reception for the Italian statesman were abandoned today.

"I don't want anyone to think for a brief moment that any disturbance will be tolerated," the mayor said, "or that Signor Grandi will be in danger for a moment."

Signor Grandi will be met at Pier 55 when the steamer Conte Grande docks. He will be escorted at once in a closed car to the Pennsylvania station, where he will board a train for Washington for a series of conferences with President Hoover.

When he returns to New York, however, a civic welcome is planned. Signor Grandi is expected to sail for home about November 23 and will return here several days before that.

Referring to the reception at that time the mayor said, "If the minister of foreign affairs gets hurt I will get hurt, too, for I will be at his side."

The decision to transfer Signor Grandi immediately from his ship to a Washington-bound train was reached at a conference between William F Deegan, chairman of the mayor's committee on reception of distinguished guests; Warren Delano Robbins, chief of the State Department's protocol division, and Capt. Eugene Regnier, military aid to Secretary of State Stimson.

The group later conferred at City Hall with Mayor Walker, who said the curtailed program represented the wishes of Signor Grandi as interpreted by the State Department. He said the foreign minister desired first of all upon his arrival in this country to see President Hoover.

(Associated Press.)

The Italian Embassy announced last night it concurred in all plans made by the American Government for the entertainment of Foreign Minister Grandi.

"Misunderstandings having arisen regarding the date of the reception of Signor Grandi at the City Hall of New York," a statement by the embassy said, "The Italian Embassy states that it was prepared to favor that reception either on the day of arrival or on the return of Signor Grandi from Washington.

"Of course, the formulation of the program for the visit is entirely in the hands of the government acting as host. Therefore, the embassy is ready to concur in all plans of the State Department."

(United Press.)

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), Idaho, whose interviews with Premier Laval and French newspapermen created an international furore, will see Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy on his visit here next week. Borah is invited to Secretary of State Stimson's home to an affair in Grandi's honor.

Mrs. Garner Parries Query on Speakership

(Associated Press.)

The wife of Representative Garner, of Texas, Democratic Speakership choice, was asked yesterday how she would like being Mrs. Speaker.

Laughingly, she replied:

"I am not building a chicken house until I find out what the eggs hatch."

Mrs. Garner returned to Washington yesterday with her husband after spending the summer at Uvalde, Texas, their home.

FRIEND OF POWERS FOUND DEAD ON HILL

Discovery Is Simultaneous With Indictment on Murder Charges.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—The first step in the State's effort to convict Harry F. Powers of slaying five persons came today with his indictment on charges of murder by a Harrison County grand jury. This development in the sensational Quiet Dell garage killings of last July came almost simultaneously with the finding of the body of Stamatos Sfikas, 40, shoe shining parlor proprietor and friend of Powers, who disappeared last June.

The body, with a bullet in the head and the skull fractured, was discovered on a hillside near Clarksburg and Coroner L. C. Goff said he believed it was a case of murder.

Powers, said by police to have been frequently in the company of Sfikas previous to his disappearance, will be questioned later regarding his knowledge of the shoe shiner.

The indictments charge Powers, alias Herman Drenth, alias Cornelius O. Pierson, with the slayings of Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke, Northboro, Mass., divorcee, and Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher, a widow, and her three children, Annabelle, 9; Harry, 12, and Greta, 14, of Park Ridge, Ill.

The bodies were found on Powers' garage property after relatives of Mrs. Eicher, apprehensive over the absence of the widow and her children, asked police to investigate their whereabouts and that of a man they knew as Cornelius O. Pierson, who met Mrs. Eicher through a matrimonial bureau.

The action of the grand jury was taken after only a few local witnesses had been heard. No witnesses were summoned at this time from either Massachusetts or Illinois. They will come here, however, for the trial which will be called late this month or early in December.

Identification of Sfikas' body was definitely established, county authorities announced, through a lodge membership card found in an examination of the clothing.

Sfikas was said by friends to have had two $100 Liberty bonds and $30 in cash in his pockets the last time he was seen by them June 10. Several hundred dollars deposited in a local bank in his name remains there.

HOOVER'S AID CALLS AT GARNER'S OFFICE

Newton Spends 15 Minutes With Texan Expected to Be Speaker.

it would be unwise for one party to try and overthrow the other in the midst of a Congress unless it appeared that the party doing the overthrowing was convinced that its majority would be permanent.

The paper line-up of the House at present is Democrats, 217; Republicans, 214, and Farmer-Labor, 1. There are three vacancies, all three in normally Republican districts in New Hampshire, New Jersey and Texas.

Only one—the vacancy in the New Jersey district—is to be filled before Congress meets December 7. Because of the smashing victory of A. Harry Moore in the gubernatorial race recently, the Democrats are hopeful of capturing the New Jersey seat, and thus strengthening their grip on the House.

Representative Garner said yesterday that he was confident that a Democrat would be elected to succeed the late Representative Harry M. Wurzbach in the Fourteenth Texas District. Mr. Wurzbach was the only Republican in the Texas delegation.

Republicans Are Divided.

Representative Tilson said yesterday that the House Republicans plan to nominate a candidate for Speaker, despite the majority held by the Democrats.

This would be in accordance with custom. In the last thirteen years the Democrats always nominated a man for Speaker, even though they knew that his election was hopeless.

The Democrats are all lined up behind Representative Garner for the Speakership. The Republicans, however, are divided into three or more factions. Representative Tilson and Representative Bertrand Snell, of New York, both have their supporters, while there is another element that favors a compromise candidate—a man like Carl E. Mapes, of Michigan, for example.

Representative Tilson said yesterday that, regardless of what happens, the Republicans would present the administration's program and would seek to have it translated into actual legislation.

Bank Revision Foreseen.

He pointed out that a considerable number of the members, both Republicans and Democrats, already are pledged to support the President's one-year moratorium on debts and reparations, and also his plan for revising the Federal Reserve act so as to make more paper eligible for rediscount.

Tilson said he thought it would be harmful to revise the tariff at this time. Such a revision, he said, would tend to hurt, rather than help, business.

He said he also was opposed to a tax increase, and for the same reason. The President, he said, has plenty of leeway to raise needed money through the issuance of Government bonds.

Garner Seen as Wet.

How does Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, stand on prohibition? Is he wet or dry, this scrappy little fellow who is likely to be the next Speaker?

Strange to say, there are few people at the Capitol who can answer this question offhand. Garner himself always refers questioners to the Congressional Record.

The Record shows that Garner voted against the resolution to submit the eighteenth amendment to the States. Thus, it is concluded, he must be in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The last Speaker, the late Nicholas Longworth, also was a wet, as was the Speaker before him, Frederick H. Gillette, of Massachusetts.

(Associated Press.)

Democrats were warned yesterday by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, to nominate Gov. Roosevelt of New York "or some other Liberal" for President, or face the possibility of a third party.

The Montanan asserted that "Eastern bosses" already were out to stop the nomination of Roosevelt and "if they succeed there would be no more chance for success at the polls than there was in 1928."

Senator Wheeler's warning of a third party was the first to be heard in high political circles and it was duly noted, for Wheeler joined the late Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, in a third party movement in 1924, running as vice presidential candidate.

"The Democrats can win with Roosevelt or lose without him," he said. "They can take their choice. If they fail to nominate Roosevelt or some other Liberal they can rest assured a third party will spring up embracing the Progressive element in both major parties. If it does it will take more votes from the Democrats than from the Republicans, as was demonstrated when La Follette ran in 1924."

SUICIDE OF 2 BOYS AND GIRL IS PUZZLE

Texas Authorities Believe, However, Cases Are Not Related.

Elkhart, Anderson County, Tex., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—The suicide of a girl and two boys, strangely almost coincident as to time but lacking evidence of any connection in motives, puzzled their families and friends in this community tonight.

The dead:

Ernest Miller, jr., 16, senior student and football player at the Elkhart High School and member of the Elkhart Band.

Doris McCann, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McCann, who live on a farm three miles south of Elkhart.

B. Clyde Kennedy, 19, native of Elkhart, who had lived for the last year in Oakwood, 14 miles distant.

Note of Farewell.

The three were only slightly acquainted, relatives and friends said.

Kennedy, who operated an ice substation at Oakwood, was found dead in his hotel room there at 3 p. m. yesterday from poison.

He left a note saying, "Good-by and good luck to my family and friends.—Clyde." There was no other explanation.

Miss McCann, after a visit to the high school yesterday morning purchased poison at a drug store on the pretext it was to be used in killing cats. She went home and drank it and died without revealing her motive.

Worried Over Graduation.

Miller left school when classes were over yesterday, but did not return to his home until 7 p. m. Not long afterward he shot himself through the head.

In a farewell note to his parents he said, "It's better for me to die now than to disappoint you in life."

A schoolmate said Ernest told him Saturday that if he was not graduated from school next spring he would kill himself.

Suicide verdicts were returned in all three deaths.

Warner Brothers Lose $7,918,604 on Films

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., today reported for the fiscal year ended August 29 total net loss for the company and subsidiaries amounting to $7,918,604 after deducting all charges. For the preceding fiscal year the company reported net income of $7,074,621.

H. M. Warner, president, in his report to stockholders, said that net loss from operations in the production, distribution and exhibition of pictures was $2,146,074. The operations of the radio, record and music divisions showed a loss of $2,399,161, in addition to which a special write-down of $3,373,368 was made in respect to inventories and accounts receivable of the radio and record division.

GRAND JURY INDICTS DREISER AND WOMAN

Misconduct Charged in Kentucky Termed "Frame-Up" by Inquiry Backers.

Pineville, Ky., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Indictments against Theodore Dreiser and Marie Pergain charging improper relationship at a hotel here during the novelist's investigation in the southeastern Kentucky coal fields were returned by the Bell County grand jury here today.

The offense, a misdemeanor under Kentucky laws, carriers a fine of $20 to $50 upon conviction. Bond was fixed at $200 each. The offense is not extraditable and officials indicated no attempt would be made to serve the warrants unless Dreiser or the young woman returned to this State.

The young woman was not identified save by the name given in the indictment. It charged adultery. Circuit Judge D. C. Jones explained in answer to a question that since the grand jurors held that the couple was not married, it was the usual form to return such an indictment.

Dreiser, whose trip with a committee of writers was sponsored by the New York office of the national committee for the defense of political prisoners, issued a statement last night denying the charge and asserting it was impossible for him to have committed it.

The New York office of the national committee issued a statement today saying the indictment was a "frame up" to fight Dreiser's efforts to "expose the real issues of starvation and terrorism in Harlan and Bell counties," where fatal clashes in a labor controversy drew the attention of the committee.

Judge Jones declined to make any comment on Dreiser's charges or on the case, beyond saying that when he arrived in Pineville Monday morning he was advised that warrants had been issued against Dreiser and the young woman but not served and that he put the matter before the grand jury that day.

Dreiser had left Pineville before then and the woman also was understood to have left. Judge Jones also directed the grand jury to return indictments against any persons who may have violated the Kentucky criminal syndicalism law during the mass meetings held by the Dreiser committee in the coal fields.

Two National Guard officers went with the committee and Gov. Flem D. Sampson appointed two members of the Kentucky Bar Association, A. A. Bablitz and Smith Hays, to investigate the coal fields situation and report to him. No reports had been made today.

A score of miners are under murder indictments as a result of clashes with deputy sheriffs and mine guards. Jim Burnett, first one called for trial, is due to face a jury the week of November 16 at Mount Sterling.

Pepper's Big Order Calls For Ethics in the Senate

By JOHN J. DALY

As 96 United States senators take their togas from cedar closets and prepare to ascend Capitoline Hill, they find that one who formerly sat amongst them has launched a complaint against the patricians of the Upper House, finding fault with the fault-finding habits of the Senate.

Former Senator George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania, has written a book; and in his ruminations he advocates a code of ethics for the guidance of senatorial conduct, especially as it applies to congressional investigations.

Professional baseball players, says the commentator, have standards of conduct—"worthy standards of conduct. We are hopeful of a similar evolution in the case of prize fighters. It would be lamentable if only senators were to be classed as invincibly barbarous."

Why, Mr. Pepper? Wherever did you get such notions?

Next, some one will suggest an Overlord of the Senate—just as the big leagues are ruled by Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, and the movie magnates are kept under control by Will Hays.

* * * *

Ever since the dawn of republican government, after Tarquin was expelled from the kingship of Rome and 300 senators, patricians, began to legislate for the plebeians, there has been a sort of sacred halo surrounding the Senate in all countries, including the Scandinavian.

America is no exception. For nearly a century and a half the Senate has done pretty much what it pleased. Senators have strutted up and down the aisles, mounted the desks, stood on the chairs, shooting off forensic fireworks, shouting down the opposition, starting investigations without limit, immune from arrest, free to say anything that came into their heads and have had a grand old time generally.

Now comes one who sat in the forum and he says, in effect, "The time has come to put bridles on these tongues—to harness the senatorial horses and wild jackasses—to strap the drivers in their seats with a code of ethics."

Mr. Pepper, you have thrown a pepperpot!

The American people will resent this cruel suggestion; will have none of it. Something along this line might work for the House of Representatives, cause for public concern on many occasions; but the old Senate must have its fun, backed by tradition.

Tullus, when Alba was destroyed and its people were given Roman citizenship, called the enlarged Senate-house Hostilia, and the American Senate has been, at times, the scene of hostilities. It will be again, in all probability, especially if some one takes this theme seriously and actually proposes a code of ethics. The Sergeant of Arms will have to call the Corporal's Guard to quiet the boys.

* * * *

A code of ethics? With such an instrument in force, the senators would be apologizing to each other at the beginning, in the middle, and at the end of all sessions, a bothersome ceremony at best or, what is worse, they would be fined for talking back to the Vice President, sitting on his dais, as baseball players are rebuked for sassing the umpire.

* * * *

No! A code of ethics, in one day, would destroy all the carefree abandon of the Senate, rob it of a glorious glamour, and steal from it the magnetic personalities that draw overflow crowds to the visitors' gallery. Some of the sons of thunder who have made the groundlings shudder would find themselves reduced to the status of wall flowers.

A code of ethics may be all right for the movies, baseball and football players, prize fighters, wrestlers, and jockeys at the race track—but the good old United States Senate, with 141 years of unsullied freedom back of it, must needs have all the elbow-room it can get—and more.

Senators must be free to come and go as they please, hop on anything, say anything about everything, and investigate to their heart's content. The Senate is, after all, the only aristocracy we have in a democratic government.

WASHINGTON GUILD FACES THEATER ROW

Appeal Will Be Made to Trade Commission in New York Demand.

An off-stage drama is about to be presented by the Drama Guild of Washington and the Theater Guild of New York City, with the possibility that the Federal Trade Commission will act as critic.

The theme of the drama will be "to guild or not to guild," and many exciting and humorous situations are promised before the final curtain descends. Decision to stage "the production" was reached by the local guild after the New York Theater Guild announced its refusal to sell its production rights on any play to the local organization unless the latter changes its name to omit the word "guild."

Besides claiming a monopoly on the use of the word "guild," the New York organization holds the production rights on all of the new works of Bernard Shaw and has exclusive right to release the plays of Eugene O'Neill as well as of many other prominent writers.

The Washington Guild was ordered to change its name after it had sought the production rights for "The Devil's Disciple," by Bernard Shaw, and "Ned McCobb's Daughter," by Sidney Howard.

Unless "a big business wrong" is remedied within the next week, the local guild will file a complaint of "unfair discrimination" to the Federal Trade Commission, it was announced by Robert D. Chase, chairman of the administrative council of the Washington Players. Mr. Chase points out that as the Theater Guild has refused to do business with a customer it must be prepared to furnish a reason.

The New York organization, in requesting the local group to change its name, complained that the similarity in names might result in its activities being confused with those of amateurs. Mr. Chase referred to this fear as "flattering, but palpably absurd."

The Drama Guild of Washington will present its first play of the winter season at the Wardman Park Theater on November 20 and 21. It will be "The Trial of Mary Dugan."

When Washington Was Younger—No. 102

LONG resident cave dwellers of Washington no doubt reminesce wistfully over the days when a trip to Woodward & Lothrop's new store to purchase crinolines and bustles to wear to a party was a gala event in their lives. Here is a picture of Woodward & Lothrop's taken in the days when one waltzed to the dreamy lilt of the "Blue Danube" and whispered sweet nothings to one's beloved under a silvery moon, while faithful Dobbin discreetly munched four-leaf clovers.

The small white building at the extreme right of the picture at Tenth and F streets was formerly occupied by the Corcoran Life Insurance Co. before it finally became the site of Rich's Shoe Store. Next door on F street stood the Equitable Building, where many a struggling young attorney pored over his Blackstone and dreamed of empire building. Flanking this building may be seen the upper stories of Whelan's Corset Emporium, where many a perspiring damsel defied all laws of physics by attempting to encase a pleasantly plump 42 in a prison of whalebone originally destined to grace the form of a 36. The next two buildings housed the Mertz & Co., tailors, where the Beau Brummels of the day were wont to deal long before the days of Oxford bags and "bell-bottomed" trousers. A few years later this site was occupied by the Goldsmith Co., which supplied thrifty housewives with high-grade china and rosy-cheeked children with toy swords and guns. Flanking these buildings may be seen the upper stories of Prince's Dry Cleaning Establishment followed by the men's furnishing department of Woodward & Lothrop's and the store proper. The building seen in the far left of the picture on Eleventh street was occupied by one "Doc" Palmer, a gentleman of undetermined occupation.

However, since the snapping of this photograph in the "Gay Nineties," all of the above buildings have succumbed to the merciless march of progress, until only Rich's Store stands to remind "old-timers" that stockings were once 25 cents a pair, and a men's suit could be purchased for $8. The entire block is now occupied by Woodward & Lothrop's Store.

METROPOLITAN AREA TO HONOR WAR DEAD

Armistice Day Celebrations to Be Held in District and Nearby Towns.

of the World War, among whom will be Gen. John J. Pershing.

The temple can be reached by driving down Seventeenth street to the John Paul Jones statue and then turning right over the road which runs just to the north of the West Potomac Golf Links. This road will be one-way from east to west, Park Police announced. Angle parking will be allowed and the general public will be asked to leave their automobiles west of the Memorial as the eastern portion of the road will be reserved for the cars of invited guests.

Another radio feature of the day will be speeches by Gen. Pershing and Commander Harry Stevens of the American legion, over the National Broadcasting Co., at 8:30 p. m.

At Bethlehem Chapel, several local posts of the American Legion will lay wreaths on the tomb of Woodrow Wilson, during the annual commemoration service in front of the former President's resting place.

The memorial address will be delivered by Bishop James E. Freeman. Relatives and associates of President Wilson during his administration will be among those who gather for this impressive ceremony.

At 9 o'clock this morning National Commander Stevens will place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, accompanied by Fred Fraser, department commander of the District.

A pilgrimage already traditional will be made by President Hoover when at 10:40 he, with Secretaries Hurley and Adams, will visit Arlington and lay wreaths upon the plain white slab of the Unknown Soldier's Tomb.

Marching beside them will be Gen. Pershing, who picked up a telephone in a French chateau thirteen years ago and relayed the cease firing command to half a million doughboys.

At 3:45 o'clock in the afternoon the Washington Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles will honor the Unknown Soldier with a wreath and service.

K. of C. to Hold Service.

The traditional service of the National Order of the Knights of Columbus will take place at Arlington when a wreath will be placed on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier by William G. Feely, State deputy for the District. This ceremony has been observed every Armistice Day since the burial of the Unknown Soldier.

Sick veterans at Walter Reed Hospital will have an Armistice Day program arranged for them by Gen. Pershing. The motion picture, "Way Back Home," will be shown.

Further honor to the Unknown Soldier will be paid by the Boy Scouts. They will place a wreath on his tomb in behalf of a million boys throughout the country. This service will be at 10:30 o'clock in the morning.

Veterans Will Stage Party.

Armistice Night in Paris, 1918, will be reproduced by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in their gigantic party in the Washington Auditorium.

There will be the Cafe de Paris, the American Bar, Montmartre, doughboys in uniform, and thousands of reprints of the Paris edition of the New York Herald of November 12, 1918.

Admission of $1 will be charged and francs will be sold at the door. No American money will be good inside. The show begins at 8 in the evening.

At 8:15 p. m. a peace program will be held at the Jewish Community Center in conjunction with the formal opening of the National Forum. Mrs. George Hyman, president of the Washington Branch, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, will discuss proposed reductions in armaments.

Solemn High Mass Planned.

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, wartime chaplain of the cruiser Charleston, will conduct solemn high mass at the Immaculate Conception Church at 12:15 p. m.

The Carnegie Endowment for International Peace will hold a meeting in the auditorium of the National Press Club at 8 p. m. Addresses will be made by Huston Thompson, former chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, and Frederick R. Coudert, of New York City.

Flag presentations head the day's ceremonies in Prince Georges County. Senator Ashurst, of Arizona, will speak at the presentation of the Maryland State flag to the R. O. T. C. at College Park. The flag will be given by the county's Federation of Women's Clubs, at 11 o'clock in the Ritchie Gymnasium.

Flag to Be Returned.

The Marlboro exercises, scheduled for 3 p. m., will feature the return of an American Flag carried through many battles of the World War by Harry O. Harvey, of Bladensburg. It will be placed in the courthouse. It was the gift of school children to county troops in 1917.

The most impressive Armistice Day program in the history of Arlington County will take place when Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion, will dedicate a memorial recently erected in the center of Clarendon Square to the memory of county citizens who gave their lives in the World War.

Starting at 2:30 in the afternoon, a program of music and dedicatory addresses will be heard. The actual unveiling of the memorial will be done by Katherine Bruce, 13-year-old daughter of Robert J. Bruce, whose name appears on the tablet.

Takoma Park Program.

The American Legion Post of Takoma Park, Md., is sponsoring a program to be held in the firehouse at 8:30 o'clock this evening. The principal speaker will be Col. A. L. Conger, U. S. A., retired, who will tell of "Reminiscences of a Brigade Commander in the Argonne."

The Alexandria High School Cadets will be reviewed by the War Mothers and other patriotic organizations of the Virginia city at 2 p. m. Mrs. John Leadbetter, Mrs. T. C. Howard and Mrs. George Pettitt will represent the War Mothers of America at the review, which will be held on the high school terrace.

The District Commissioners issued orders that all World War veterans would be excused today to participate in Armistice exercises.

Maryland Will Observe Holiday and Celebrate

Armistice Day is a legal holiday in Maryland and all banks in the Free State will be closed today.

Special Armistice Day ceremonies will be held tonight at the Takoma Park Volunteer Fire Department hall on Carroll and Derwood avenues, Takoma Park, Md., under the auspices of the Takoma Park Post of the American Legion. Mayor Ben G. Davis has issued a proclamation calling upon the citizens of the town to observe the day.

3 GANGMEN GUILTY OF KILLING 3 RIVALS

Members of Once Powerful Purple Gang to Hear Sentence Next Week.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Three members of the once powerful Purple gang were convicted of first degree murder today for the slaying of three rival gangsters.

Those convicted are Ray Bernstein, Harry Keywell and Irving Milberg, named by police as three of the four gunmen who on September 16, killed Joseph Sutker, Hymie Paul and Joe Lebovitz in an apartment in Collingwood avenue. Harry Fleisher, the fourth man named, has not been arrested.

The verdict against the men was returned by a recorder's court jury at noon today after less than two hours of deliberation. The men will be sentenced by Judge Donald Van Zile next week. Defense counsel said they would appeal.

The defense rested its case in recorder's court yesterday without presenting any testimony. The bulk of the State's case was based on the testimony of Solomon Levine, friend and business associate of the victims and an eyewitness of the slaying. Levine identified the defendants and Fleisher as the men who shot his friends after calling them to the apartment for a conference which was expected to iron out certain underworld differences.

The defendants were convicted specifically for the slaying of Sutker.

Chamber's Stand On Silver Scored

Senators King and Wheeler Say Body Is Wrong on Facts.

(Associated Press.)

Two Western senators who have been working to make silver live up to its reputation as a precious metal, yesterday criticized International Chamber of Commerce suggestions for handling the problem. King of Utah, and Wheeler of Montana, Democrats, struck at the chamber's committee of experts for doubting the practicability of an international silver conference. Both senators have been urging a return to bimetallism. King said the findings of the committee were filled with "inconsistencies, wrong facts and mistaken deductions to the point of being valueless."

Wheeler, at first favorably impressed by reports of the chamber's action, joined in the attack after he studied its text. He said the report was particularly unfortunate because the chamber had it in its power to induce the leading nations to come together for a conference on the stabilization of silver.

Edison Memorial Site Is Considered

Hains Point Is Tentatively Chosen as Spot; Bill in Congress Planned.

Hains Point was tentatively decided upon as a site for the proposed national memorial to Thomas A. Edison here, at a meeting of the Edison Memorial Committee yesterday in the offices of the Fine Arts Commission in the Interior Department Building.

This site was originally proposed by Fairfax Nauity, project engineer, and a member of the commtitee. An alternate location on Sixteenth street hill, above Alaska avenue, was suggested by Chairman Charles Moore, of the commission.

Arrangements were made for drafting a bill for allotment of the Hains Point location, in line with the axis of the War College Building, in the next session of Congress. Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, Edison's birthplace, will be asked to introduce it. The memorial will probably take the form of a doric column, projecting a shaft of light into the sky, or of a bronze globe.

Girl Suspect Swallows Tablet Before Police

A girl being booked on a charge of investigation at Police Headquarters last night swallowed a tablet of poison and was hurried to Emergency Hospital for treatment and was later taken to Gallinger Hospital for observation. Her condition is not believed to be serious.

The girl, who gave her name as Miss Jackie M. Simmons, 19 years old, a waitress, had been brought in from Rosslyn, Va., and was being booked by Robert Frazier, headquarters station clerk. She suddenly produced the capsule and swallowed it. Frazier called the Fire Rescue Squad and she was hurried to the hospital. Police said she was to be questioned in connection with the blackjacking of Frank Hahmle, of New York, in Georgetown, several weeks ago.

October Weather Favors Big Crops

Improvement Is Chiefly Noted in Seven Late Products.

(Associated Press.)

Warm October weather with a notable absence of frost improved the prospects of late American crops.

The Agriculture Department said yesterday the improvement was chiefly in cotton, potatoes, beans, buckwheat, sugar beets, peanuts and rice. The yields per acre of 23 principal crops were estimated by the department at 11.4 per cent above last year and slightly less than 1 per cent above average for the last ten years.

The corn crop was forecast at 2,674,369,000 bushels as compared with 2,094,000,000 a year ago and a five-year average of 2,761,000,000. This estimate, however, was 28,383,000 bushels below last month's figures.

The corn yield per acre was estimated at 25.3 bushels against 20.6 last year and a ten-year average of 8.

The department made no change in the forecast of 884,000,000 bushels for 1931 wheat production, including both winter and spring varieties. Both wheat and corn prices have advanced in the last month.

MONROE IS LAUDED AT BUST UNVEILING

Representative Montague Is Speaker at Ceremony in Virginia Capitol.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Representative Andrew Jackson Montague, of Richmond, today delivered the principal address at ceremonies attending the unveiling of a bust of James Monroe in Virginia's Hall of the Presidents, in the capitol.

The bust of Monroe, the fifth President of the United States and Virginia's fourth contribution to the Presidency, is the seventh of a series of eight honoring Virginia-born Presidents.

The eighth and last, that of Woodrow Wilson, will be unveiled next week. A number of the war President's Cabinet members are expected to attend.

The Monroe bust, the work of Attilo Piccirilli, New York sculptor, is the gift of Jay W. Johns, present owner of Ash Lawn, the old home of Monroe. Laurence Gouverneur Hoes, of Washington, great-great-grandson of the fifth President, was named to unveil the memorial.

Representative Montague outlined the life of Monroe from the time of his birth, in Westmoreland County in 1758, until his death at the home of his daughter, in New York, July 4, 1831, at the age of 73. His body remained buried in New York until 1858, when it was removed to the Hollywood Cemetery, here, with impressive ceremonies.

"What an incomparable career was Monroe's," the speaker said.

"Lieutenent in the Continental Army and lieutenant colonel before he was 21; military commissioner to the Southern Army; member of the General Assembly of Virginia; member of the executive council; member of the Continental Congress; member again of the General Assembly; member of the Virginia convention to ratify the Federal Constitution; United States senator; member of a commission for revising the laws of Virginia; Minister to France; four times Governor of Virginia; Minister to England and Spain; signer of the treaty acquiring Louisiana; third time member of the General Assembly of Virginia; Secretary of State; Secretary of War; twice President of the United States; author of the Monroe Doctrine, visitor of the University of Virginia; member and president of the Virginia constitutional convention of 1829-30, and justice of the peace."

Woman Head Dissatisfied by Progress in Talk With Rover.

A three-hour conference with United States Attorney Leo A. Rover brought "no satisfactory understanding" on her complaint that the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment violated the corrupt practices act, Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, president of the National Women's Democratic Law Enforcement League, said yesterday.

Mrs. Nicholson went to Mr. Rover's office under subpena after she had refused to talk over the matter with him at his invitation. She based her charges against the association on sworn testimony before the Senate lobby committee.

The statute of limitations may have run in the case, she admitted, but she said she asked John Wilson, assistant district attorney, to subpena Irenee DuPont and William Stayton, of the association, "just as he subpenaed me." Mr. Wilson declined to discuss the case until he has conferred with Mr. Rover. Mrs. Nicholson joined with Bishop Cannon in opposing Alfred E. Smith in the last election.

Association Commends Police Brutality Probe

A letter of commendation for action taken in the matter of police brutality and third degree methods was directed sent to Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderftr last night by the Bloomingdale Civic Association, which met in the Tabor Presbyterian Church. The association recommended installation of traffic lights at First street and Florida avenue northwest.

A resolution seeking a limitation on the number of taxicabs in the District of Columbia was passed, and J. E. Hall, W. E. Tucker and V. D. Harris named as a committee to study the question and report in December. Delegates to the Federation of Civic Associations were given secret instructions with reference to the candidate for the executive committee and advisory council for whom they shall vote at the next federation meeting.

SHELL HITS U. S. MISSION IN NEW TIENTSIN FIGHTING

fast-growing feeling against their nationals on the part of Chinese.

In Mukden Yuan Chin-Kai, president of the Mukden Peace Preservation Society which is assuming authority over provincial affairs, was inaugurated.

China informed the League of Nations that, unless the league succeeds in establishing peace, she will build up her arms to a point where she can withstand external aggression.

In a memorandum delivered to Secretary of State Stimson by Ambassador Debuchi, Japan reiterated that before withdrawing her troops from Manchuria the security of Japanese lives and property would have to be assured and normal Japanese-Chinese relations restored.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Mukden, Manchuria, Nov. 10.—Chinese troops sufficient to outnumber the Japanese twenty to one were massing today at Anganchi, near the Nonni Bridgehead, from which Gen. Mah Chan-Shan was driven last week.

The two forces were separated by a no-man's land about 15 miles wide.

The Japanese refused to make public any figures about their strength, but it was learned on good authority that they have from 1,500 to 2,000 men intrenched against the far superior force of Gen. Mah.

Behind this trench line, Japanese pioneers were hurrying with their repairs on the Nonni bridge. It was to repair that bridge that Japan avowedly made the incursion.

At Least 10,000 Men.

The Japanese military intelligence reported that the Chinese have at least 70,000 men at Anganchi and immediately to the south. Meanwhile, trains of the Chinese Eastern Railway were bearing reinforcements from both the east and west.

Among the reinforcements were three battalions originally from Kirin, which came from Changchun. The main force of the railway guard also arrived.

The Japanese command reiterated that Japan's troops would be withdrawn as soon as the bridge repairs are completed. That, it is estimated, will take about a week.

No reinforcements will be moved in, the Japanese authorities declared, unless they are required to meet a Chinese attack.

The Japanese professed to have heard nothing of Gen. Mah's reported declaration of war.

But throughout north Manchuria, it was said, anti-Japanese feeling is strong. Attempts are being made to incite the Chinese troops to attack.

The Japanese headquarters made public a long list of purported attacks by roving bands on railway property controlled by Japan. The statement is advanced that these excursions have resulted from the "wearing down" policy of Gen. Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed governor of Manchuria.

Almost daily during the last two weeks there has been an attack by guerrillas, the Japanese say.

Many of these gangs are old-style Manchurian. Hunghutzes, or "Red Beards," under such picturesquely named chieftains as Flying Dragon, White Wolf and Golden Butterfly. Others are allowed to be composed largely of soldiers formerly belonging to the Manchurian regular forces which the Japanese shattered late in September.

Unenthusiastic Ceremony.

There was a dismal unenthusiastic ceremony today when Yuan Chin-Kai, chairman of the Mukden peace preservation committee since shortly after the Japanese occupation, assumed charge of the Liaoning provincial headquarters.

The Japanese asserted this marked the establishment of a new independent regime for the province containing Mukden, declaring that there was no more connection with Chang Hsueh-Liang, or with Nanking—but European observers expressed opinion that Yuan Chin Kai was acting unwillingly under Japanese pressure.

About 70 persons—half Chinese and half Japanese—attended the ceremony, as well as a handful of American reporters who were unable to understand the speeches. The addresses were all in Chinese and Japanese and were not interpreted for the benefit of the foreigners who, however, were told that each speaker had assailed the iniquities of the Chang Hsueh-Liang regime.

Tientsin, China, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Four hundred rebels who took part in yesterday's bloody riots were captured today by Chinese police, who summarily beheaded a number of them.

Several Leaders Escape.

The round-up was made in the native city. Estimates at the height of the rioting were that at least 2,000 men were involved. Among those who escaped, police reported, were several of the leaders.

Strong police action coupled with the aid of armed civilians brought quiet to Tientsin today, but the authorities continued their vigilance, fearing another outbreak.

Harbin, Manchuria, Nov. 10 (A.P.). All Japanese women and children were ordered out of Manchuli and Hailar today by the Japanese authorities.

Anti-Japanese feeling has risen to such heights that it was believed necessary for purposes of safety to bring them to Harbin.

Would Build Up Forces.

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 10 (A.P.). Sounding a note of proud self-reliance for the first time since she appealed to the League of Nations in the Manchurian conflict, China notified the league tonight that if the league covenant and the Kellogg pact fail she will build up her fighting forces to protect herself against Japan.

Dr. Alfred Sze, representing the Nanking government on the league council, made this declaration in a note to the league secretariat tonight, and its publication was a sensation of this Armistice Eve.

The note was a conditional acceptance of the league's proposed one-year arms holiday, asserting that China's adherence to the truce depends upon the "issue of the present Manchurian conflict before the league."

Accuse Japanese.

Japanese authorities, said Dr. Sze, are "suborning the dregs of the population" at Tientsin to foment revolt against the Chinese government, while China relies on the league covenant and the Kellogg pact as "bulwarks of peace."

Should these bulwarks fail her, he said, the Chinese government would be obliged to "put above all other tasks the creation of a national defense strong enough to secure respect and preserve the independence of China."

His assertion that China would prepare, if necessary, to take care of herself, was couched in the phraseology of Article X of the covenant, which says: "Members of the league undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members * * *"

Thus, he served notice that if the league can not enforce that article, China with her 400,000,000 is ready to execute its terms herself.

Envoy Tells Stimson Nation Is Willing to Waive Some of Rights.

States invoked it in reminding Japan of her remissness in carrying it out.

The contracting powers agreed:

"To respect the sovereignty, the independence, and the territorial and administrative integrity of China; to provide the fullest and most unembarrassed opportunity for China to develop and maintain for herself an effective and stable government, and to refrain from taking advantage of conditions in China in order to seek special rights or privileges which would abridge the rights of subjects or citizens of friendly states."

In view of Japanese occupation of considerable area in Manchuria at the present time, Secretary Stimson pointedly made reference to the last part of the clause.

The Japanese Ambassador explained the presence of such large bodies of troops in Manchuria outside the railway zone, to which the Japanese are entitled by treaty provisions, as a "protection," not as an attacking force. The River Nonni, where the sharpest fighting has been reported, is in the hands of the Japanese, and this is only because their presence there will assure the rapid construction of the bridge itself, which was dynamited by Chinese marauding irregulars under Gen. Mah Chan-shan. This threat of war by Gen. Mah was not to be taken seriously, the ambassador declared. He added:

Some Are Withdrawn.

"Even the Chinese representative at the League of Nations said that there is no voice of authority in China outside the Nanking government. Part of the reinforcements that were rushed to the bridgehead in the last few days have actually been withdrawn, and I do not believe the government at Nanking can find evidence of our farther advance."

"I can freely say it is the honest desire of my government to withdraw its troops to the railway zone but the withdrawal can not be expedited unless China assures Japan freely, through direct negotiation or conversation, that the security of our lives and property is assured."

The situation at Tientsin, which caused considerable concern here yesterday, has remained calm. The Japanese Ambassador gave his version of what happened there as follows:

Political Factions.

"The troubles at Tientsin were merely the result of clashes between certain political factions of Chinese. They brought their quarrel to the point of firing and as their shots threatened to hit some of the inhabitants of the Japanese concession, which happened to be nearby, it was necessary for the Japanese troops on duty there to protect their own nationals. They merely acted in self defense."

The possibility of Soviet Russia being drawn into the conflict did not seem very real to the ambassador. He said, "I am sure there will be no serious complications between Soviet Russia and Japan."

Secretary Stimson conveyed the import of the Japanese reply to President Hoover and there will be further conversations at the White House, probably today, before it will be decided whether the United States will send a further "aide-memoire" to the Japanese before the meeting of the league council scheduled for next Tuesday.

WALSH HITS CRITICS OF HOOVER'S POLICY

Democratic Senate Leader and Ruth Owen Speak to Good-Will Congress.

Chicago, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, tonight attacked the critics of President Hoover's intervention into the Sino-Japanese dispute.

The Democratic leader in the Senate told the "disarmament banquet" of the Good-Will Congress that "these critics have poured their vials of wrath upon the President's head because he joined with the council of the League of Nations to compose the differences that have resulted in a state of war in Manchuria."

One was led to believe, Senator Walsh said, that "in their unrestrained venom toward the league, this bloc would rather that open warfare, involving all the resources in men and money of the orientals, should ensue than that the league should be credited with a part in averting it."

Representative Ruth Bryan Owen and Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, commander of the Twenty-seventh division of the A. E. F., were other speakers before the Congress, sponsored by the world alliance for international friendship through the churches.

The "let 'em fight" policy was not very strong in America, Senator Walsh said, and "the whole course of history demonstrates the futility of the isolationists' program for insuring peace.

"While conceding the high-mindedness of the isolationists, those of us who do not concur in the do-nothing policy modestly maintain that ours is the more effective the more Christian policy and it has the approval, as I believe, of the vast majority of the American people."

Gen. O'Ryan said: "All the world is armed to the teeth," and that "we are drifting steadily and surely into a bigger and more evil war than the last."

Sound Business Policies—
Inherently a Part of Banking

Never in the history of banking were sound principles and policies more vital than today. Nor today are they more essential than in the years gone by. In fact, they should always be inseparably linked with the operations of a banking business.

Soundness of business policies through good times and bad, has been carefully guarded by the American Security & Trust Company ever since its organization in 1889. And as a result the Company has gained in favorable experience, in strength and in reputation.

These attributes are shared equally by the five banking offices of this Company, and as each office is equipped to render complete service to depositors, the choice between them would be merely one of convenience of location.

junction proceedings against owners and operators of the property, asserting the premises were unsuitable for family occupancy. He said he had obtained a writ ordering families living in studio apartments to vacate on five days' notice. The writ was effective as of last Friday, but the owners had obtained a supreme court stay which is yet to be argued.

The premises were not more than 10 per cent occupied.

Joseph Fosso, fireman, collapsed after rescuing six young women from a dance studio on the fifth floor. He was off duty and passing by when he heard screams for help and ran up the stairs.

He first aided three down a fire escape, then returned for the others. On a third trip, he reached only the second floor before collapsing and being dragged out by other firemen, who treated him and sent him home.

PAPER FAKING TALE TOLD IN PITTS CASE

any of the authorizations before the trial.

Pitts' former counsel said he had sent for a New York writing expert and asked him to examine the papers after the Government prosecutors, Nugent Dodds, Assistant Attorney General, and Neil Burkinshaw, special assistant, had implied they were not legitimate.

This expert, Raichele said, verified what he had thought, that the papers appeared to be genuine.

John R. Thomas, brother-in-law of Pitts, in a brief stay on the witness stand, admitted that he had signed a number of authorizations when he was told that he was an officer of a corporation. Later on, he said, he asked for these papers, and when he received them he burned them in the Pitts home in Florida.

C. Elbert Annadale, who, like Edwards, was a former vice president and is now serving seven years, was on the stand when Justice F. D. Letts adjourned court for the day. Annadale said he had never been informed as to the nature of the defense to be used in the first case. He said Pitts and two attorneys told him not to worry.

When Annadale suggested, he said, that character witnesses be called in his behalf, he was told by attorneys for Pitts that if he did that the Government would retaliate with prosecution witnesses for each character witness.

Several attorneys were called by the Government, but none put in an appearance. They are expected to attend today, as will also typewriter experts, handwriting experts and some former F. H. Smith Co. employes.

PLANE VICTIM

MAJ. STUART G. WILDER.

CRASH INJURIES KILL MAJ. STUART WILDER

Aid to Hawaiian Governor Dies in Walter Reed Hospital of Hurts in Plane.

Maj. Stuart Gardiner Wilder, 41, military aid to Gov. Lawrence M. Judd, of Hawaii, died yesterday at Walter Reed Hospital from injuries received eight years ago, when a test plane in which he was flying as a passenger, crashed at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

Maj. Wilder, who was admitted to the hospital about two weeks ago when the old injury began to give trouble again, was formerly stationed in Washington, serving for several years in the office of the chief of engineers of the Army, and had been in Hawaii about a year. During the World War he was cited for gallantry three times, and he received his commission while overseas. The crash of the bombing plane that injured him at the Proving Grounds, killed the pilot and hurt several others. It was at first thought that Maj. Wilder would not recover but he regained his strength and returned to duty and apparently was in good health until recently.

He was ordered to the Army War College here in January, 1928, and served in the research section and as assistant to the officer in charge of First Division documentation. In September of that year he was appointed a major in the Infantry. He was stationed at the War College until September, 1929, when he was transferred to Fort Benning, Ga.

Besides his widow, the former Miss Helenor Campbell, of Baltimore, Maj. Wilder is survived by his mother, Mrs. Clara Burt Wilder, of 2349 Ashmead place northwest; a sister, Mrs. Charles W. Bailey, of San Francisco, and two brothers, Maj. Cyrus Wilder, stationed in the West, and Beverly Burt Wilder, of San Francisco.

The body is at the Taber funeral parlors, 928 M street northwest. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning in the chapel at Arlington Memorial Cemetery. Maj. Wilder will be accorded full military honors. Interment will follow in Arlington.

FARM BOARD DEAD, IS BECK'S OPINION

the surplus; it sought to decrease the planting acreage and only increased it; it sought to secure orderly marketing and, with the Government as the biggest speculator in wheat and cotton, with unlimited means, the orderly marketing became disorderly past precedent. It sought to prevent depression in agriculture and it has brought about the greatest depression in our history; it sought to prevent wasteful methods of distribution and only succeeded in imposing upon the people of the United States at least one-half of the present governmental deficit."

Position of Individualism.

Beck then described the paramount position of individualism as an element in the Constitution. "It's founders," he said, "believed that government was a necessary evil and that its only function was to do for the individual what the individual could not do for himself. Under this policy, noninterference by Government with the self-development of the individual, our country became the greatest Nation in the world."

Nearly 50 years ago, with the creation of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Pennsylvania member of Congress said: "Individualism began to yield to Government collectivism. This spirit grew until war time, when governmental operation of railroads for 32 months left a deficit of $1,600,000,000 and the Shipping Board one of $600,000,000.

Today there were 150 governmental agencies regulating the life of the individual, "and the scope of their activities ranges from the cradle to the grave."

Golden Spike Links 2 Lines in California

Bieber, Calif., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—A golden spike was driven today, symbolizing the joining of the Western Pacific and Great Northern Railways, in a new line through this northern California lumber-producing region.

The old West turned out to lend color, cowboys and Indians mingling with business and industrial leaders. They encountered snow, rain and sunshine. Building of the 200-mile extension joining the two systems required fourteen months, $14,500,000 and 1,400 men.

"Excuse Me, I'm a New Bellboy"

"Excuse Me, I'm a New Maid"

"Excuse Me, I'm a New Waiter"

IN the hotel changing help constantly, this is what is heard very often, when a new employee explains his error.

OUR theory is that you are best served by a staff carefully employed, who know you, and they can only know you by staying at the Lee House a long time.

IT is most valuable to you that the bell boys, the maids, the waiters, telephone operators and the mail and room clerks know you. Through a constant contact they learn your preferences, and their familiarity, with your customs makes possible such service that your stay at the Lee House is like living in your own home.

all ships in the vicinity, with dispatches to his company.

A few hours later two vessels—the Geisha and the Costa Rica—started toward the position given by Ormsbee, about 80 miles off the coast of Colombia. The progress of the Geisha was not known, but it was presumed that like the Costa Rica she was prevented by turbulent seas today from reaching the spot.

Ormsbee calculated that the high seas running would carry the castaways far to the north and west of where he sighted them yesterday. Visibility was extremely poor, and the Costa Rica put in tonight at Cartagena.

Tomorrow the Costa Rica will try again. North and south bound planes of Pan-American Airways also will be on the alert for the castaways tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the Navy Department in Washington disclosed that the mine sweeper Swan left the Canal Zone this morning to take up the search. Two airplanes from the fleet air base at Coco Solo, the Navy said, would be sent out either late today or tomorrow, weather permitting.

No reports of any wrecks at sea have been received, and the identity of the men remained a mystery.

4 Hoover Friends To Visit Capital

Members of '94 Stanford Football Team to Reunite Here.

Chicago, Nov. 10 (A.P.). — Four members of the '94 Stanford University football team, whose finances President Hoover managed in their college days, paused long enough today to go into a huddle and disclose some interesting items concerning their former team treasurer and campus laundry agent, who grew up to be the Nation's leader.

The four, all from the West, were en route to Washington for a White House reunion at the President's invitation. It was the first meeting for the team since they split up 37 years ago.

The quartet has graying locks today. There was P. M. Downing, captain of the '94 team, now vice president of a San Francisco gas company and Dr. Hules Frankenheimer, also of San Francisco, who was the star half back. From Buhl, Idaho, came W. C. Hazard, a towering 221-pound center, who the other three had not seen since their school days until he met them at Ogden, Utah. Also there was William A. Harrelson, who was a 5½ foot 150-pound quarter back and is now a 5½ foot 150-pound San Francisco banker.

Plans for the memorial have not been decided upon, but it is expected that its central feature will be a huge tower, surmounted by an ever-burning light to serve the entire metropolitan area as an aviation beacon.

Corsican Bandits Plan Last Stand

Spada's Sweetheart Seized by Soldiers, Closing In on Chieftain.

Ajaccio, Corsica, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—Hemmed in by an ever-tightening ring of steel, the notorious bandit leader, Andre Spada, was reported tonight in an attempt to organize the shattered rival robber bands of Corsica into a unified army for a last stand against the French forces that have invaded his mountain stronghold.

Travelers returning from the hills thorugh the advanced outposts of the French troops, report a number of bandit chiefs ready to sink their vendettas in order to present a united front to the common enemy—the law. Meanwhile, one wing of the advancing army closed in upon Spada's headquarters, captured the chieftain's sweetheart, together with her mother and brother.

Two battalions of mounted police, supported by an armored car, made a surprise attack on Spada's strongly guarded fortress, but the wily leader escaped, with some of his followers.

Gun With Elastic Fails To Cloak Man's Suicide

North Attleboro, Mass., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—An ingenious attempt of Dr. Frederick J. Carley, 53, to make his death appear other than a suicide failed today under the scrutiny of State detectives.

The pistol with which Dr. Carley took his life in his garage was found at a considerable distance from his body, whither it had been snapped by a long elastic cord he had attached to it and then tied in the cellar.

ARMISTICE DAY.

Thirteen troubled years have intervened since the World War armies ceased fighting. The peace that succeeded war was botch-work. Like an ill-sheathed sword, it has cut the hand of its defenders. The peace of Europe is really postponed war. France has been preparing against war ever since the Treaty of Versailles was signed. Germany will fight when she dares. The nations of Europe talk peace and prepare for war. They have more men under arms than when they last fought.

This day will be devoted largely to memorials of the dead. It should be devoted partly to questions of national safety and security. Many of the boys who lie under the Stars and Stripes would not have died if the United States had been better equipped to annihilate the enemy. When war comes, life is saved by dispatching the enemy without delay.

Many are the inventions designed to prevent war. Not one of them is effective. All of them seem to enfeeble the American will and puzzle the American brain. They are based upon idealities and not upon brute facts of human nature. After thirteen years of experiment it ought to be evident to any American that the security of his country rests upon its own strength and ability to conquer, and not upon scraps of paper.

After having made sure that the United States is prepared to destroy any power that attacks it, the next best means of maintaining peace is to avoid entrance into foreign quarrels. Very few nations have a grievance that could be blown into a cause of war against this country, but every one of them will develop a grievance if the United States enters into their quarrels.

It is not for America to sit as umpire among nations. Its Government is not required to go forth as the champion of the oppressed or a chastiser of the strong. No administration has ever held a mandate from the people directing it to award territory here or indemnities there, or to join with some powers to exact justice from others. When this course was pursued by an administration in defiance of American tradition it was repudiated and swept out of power.

The fact that wars are brewing is undeniable. Nature itself is thrusting some nations into war. Human nature is doing still more to stir up strife. The period since the armistice will be known hereafter as the recess between wars. Little as mankind knew how to make a good peace after the World War, much was learned of the causes and beginnings of war, and it is now incumbent upon Americans to profit by what was learned in order to avoid entrance into another war among foreign nations.

NO SILVER MIRACLE.

The most reasonable suggestions with regard to silver that have appeared during the current discussion come from the committee of experts delegated by the International Chamber of Commerce to study the question. There is little consolation in the report for the Senate subcommittee that has been endeavoring for a year to have an international silver conference called, or for those who demand remonetization, the establishment of a fixed parity with gold, or the pegging of silver prices.

The experts note "that national governments have made no move toward convening an international conference on silver and we are also unanimously agreed that proposals for the establishment of bimetallism systems of currency, or alternatively, the remonetization of silver, stand no chance of early application in practice." The experts will not even allow the contention of the senators that the fall in the price of silver has been the main cause of the financial and economic troubles of China. "Indeed," says the report, "China is the one country where prices in daily life have varied least."

The international committee does not leave the silverites hopeless, but instead of price inflation it recommends more extensive use of the white metal. Primarily it is proposed that American silver producers, and those of other nations as well, investigate the possibility of entering into a sales agreement with India. American antitrust laws would not interfere with such a combination to promote export trade. This, the experts believe, is the most practical step that can be taken to ameliorate the silver situation.

Three further recommendations come from the experts: First, that governments suffering from a scarcity of gold might be shown the advantage of utilizing silver as a backing for currency notes of smaller denomination but without attempting to fix a ratio between gold and silver. Second, governments might be induced to restore subsidiary coinage to prewar fineness as an aid to reviving confidence in the value of silver throughout the world. Third, the silver producers should, on their own account, organize research work to devise new uses for silver.

This independent committee has performed a useful work, particularly in its elucidation of China's relation to silver. Instead of doubling or trebling the price of silver as an aid to China, the experts advised that "China could bear a moderate and gradual rise in the gold value of its currency, but not a heavy or rapid one."

The report sees no miracle by which the price of silver can be artificially restored to its old value. Silver found its natural place among the commodities, suffered a heavy decline in the world markets along with them, and now as commodity prices recover silver is going up. It is hard for the silverites to give up the illusion of a mystical quality for their metal. They should find some consolation in the fact that 65 per cent of the silver produced is simply a by-product in the mining of other and still baser metals.

FEDERAL WORKERS TO HELP.

The generosity of Federal employes in Washington has been proved before now, and the President's faith in their response to the necessities of this unusual year will be justified. The various plans suggested for staggered hours or part-time service has been fully considered and found to be impracticable. The complications encountered in connection with the many lines of highly classified and expert work and the regulations of the civil service make it impossible for Government workers to share their jobs with the unemployed.

The president of the Civil Service Commission, Thomas E. Campbell, explains that every Washington employe of the Federal and District governments will be asked to contribute one day's pay a month for three months. This plan, it is hoped, will be an example, not only for Government employes throughout the country, but for those in private industry as well. Certainly it is not an onerous request and so far as Capital workers are concerned it doubtless will be cheerfully met.

The share of Washington's relief fund for the coming winter to be raised among Federal employes has been set at $1,000,000, and it is estimated that with three days' pay contributed by the 82,000 employes in the District that figure will be reached. Records of past contributions justify the expectation that Uncle Sam's official family will do its part. Upon previous occasions oversubscriptions to the Community Chest have been secured as a result of the generous contributions received from Federal employes. There is every reason to believe that they will appreciate the exceptional requirements during this year of depression.

MEXICO'S AMBASSADOR.

With the presentation of his credentials to President Hoover, Dr. Jose Manuel Puig Casaurane becomes Mexico's Ambassador to the United States. Recalling the former dean of the corps in Washington, Don Manuel Tellez, to make him minister of the interior, Mexico sends another distinguished son to take his place. Ambassador Puig has filled important posts both in Mexico and abroad.

Dr. Puig's professional title is due to his degree of M. D. from the University of Mexico. He acquired prominence as a practicing surgeon before he gave up the profession to devote himself to journalism and take an active part in the political life of his country. Following his election to the Chamber of Deputies he served in the cabinet of President Calles as secretary of industry, commerce and labor and later twice occupied the post of secretary of education. During the regimes of President Portes Gil and also under President Ortiz Rubio, he was Ambassador to Italy. He has also served as Mayor of Mexico City and governor of the federal district.

While still a young man, the new Mexican Ambassador has had a varied experience in official life. His high character and scholarly attainments assure him a welcome to diplomatic circles in Washington and qualify him to maintain the friendly relations that exist between the two nations.

STATE REAPPORTIONMENT.

Reapportionment difficulties in several States threaten seriously to complicate the 1932 election. Where the new congressional districts have not been definitely mapped out States will be unable to select delegates to the national conventions on a satisfactory basis, as congressional districts serve as a unit of representation in most States. Furthermore, a number of States may find it necessary to elect all their congressmen at large in 1932, which would give rise to further complications.

In New York the fear is growing that the State may not be able to elect any representatives in 1932. The State supreme court has declared invalid the redistricting resolution passed by the Legislature without the signature of Gov. Roosevelt. Fearing that the Democratic governor would veto the measure, the Republican Legislature acted upon the reapportionment bill as a joint resolution instead of a regular bill. If the United States Supreme Court finds that this does not meet the requirements of the Constitution the Legislature will have to enact a new law before a congressional election can be held. New York's election law provides that representatives must be elected from congressional districts. Election of congressmen at large would probably be illegal. The existing congressional districts, 43 in number, could not be used because, under the reapportionment act passed by Congress two years ago, New York is entitled to 45 representatives.

In Minnesota the courts have held that a reapportionment law passed by the Legislature is valid in spite of the fact that it was vetoed by the governor. In Illinois the reapportionment act was invalidated by the courts on the ground that it was incomplete and that it did not accomplish an equitable distribution of the seats allotted to that State. Both of these cases probably will be carried to the Supreme Court. Efforts are being made to facilitate hearing of the appeals so that these tangles can be straightened out before next spring's primaries take place.

It is highly important that redistricting be completed before the 1932 election takes place. States may discover that the authority of their representatives would be tainted if they should be elected at large. Under any circumstances the selection of representatives by the entire population of a State is unsatisfactory. Metropolitan centers would probably wield an undue influence over the entire group. The membership in the House is designed to give representation to every locality. When the States fail to provide for such representation they run the risk of upsetting their political equilibrium.

When we laid our cards on the table Ramsay MacDonald promptly came for the king and Laval to play his ace; and now Grandi is on the way for the Duce.

MENACE OF BUREAUCRACY

From an Address by Representative JAMES M. BECK Before the Chicago Board of Trade.

Nearly 50 years ago a portentous change marked the political philosophy of the American people. Individualism began to yield slowly but surely to governmental collectivism. The change was partly the result of the Civil War and partly the result of an economic depression, such as that through which we are now passing. War and bad times are always destructive of governments. For the first time in our history, the people of the United States began to look to their Government to save them, rather than to themselves; for the first time, Americans accepted a policy which assumed that Government bureaus in Washington could much more wisely shape the welfare of the individual than the individual himself.

This marked change in the spirit of our people began with the creation of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Then followed a long series of statutes to create governmental agencies to regulate the business, and even the life, of the individual, until today there are 150 such bureaus in the Federal Government and the scope of their activities ranges from the cradle to the grave. It is true that, in most instances, this mischievous intervention is persuasive and not coercive, but it is none the less humiliating for the American people to be treated as children and told what they should or should not do in the ordinary affairs of life.

We have a Maternity Bureau and a Home Economics Bureau, which tell the American housewife how to bear her children, regulate her kitchen or cut her boy's trousers. Fourteen bureaus in three departments deal with the subject of education, while six bureaus in four departments deal with that of health. Thus child welfare is the concern of the Bureau of Public Health, the Children's Bureau, the Bureau of Home Economics, the Bureau of Education and the Maternity Bureau—five bureaus all trying to tell the American mother how she ought to bring up her child, and I am inclined to think that the average American mother knows far more on the subject than the amiable spinsters who conduct some of these bureaus.

If the evils of socialistic government were restricted merely to unnecessary burdens on the taxpayer, the result would be astounding, for the cost of government, Federal, State and municipal, has increased in the last decade fifteen times as fast as population, or, expressed in different form, the average income of our people during the last fifteen years has increased 92 per cent and yet the demands of government upon that income have increased 240 per cent.

The coming Congress will be one of the most critical in the history of our country and it remains to be seen whether our representatives will continue on the steady march in the direction of Moscow.

What can save America from this fate? Only an awakened sense of constitutionalism in the hearts of the American people. They should look to themselves and not to governmental agencies for salvation. Without such awakened sentiment, it is idle to expect Congress to return to the beaten paths of the fathers, for Congress is no longer a restraining influence in preserving the Constitution. One who pleads for the sanctity of its provisions, as I have tried to do in the short time I have been in Congress, finds himself as "one crying in the wilderness."

Upon every living American rests the solemn duty of passing on the torch of constitutional liberty to the next generation and we must bravely struggle to defend the Union of our fathers, for which Washington fought and Lincoln died.

"War's a game which, were their subjects wise, kings would not play at."

Some actions speak louder than declarations of war.

A Progressive in reverse, Senator Norris hibernates all summer and now appears in a bullish world still a bear.

King George opens Parliament with all the brief authority of the butler who opens the front door.

Much Democratic talk of lowering tariffs! Since Great Britain intends to close the open doors that ruined her industries, an American dumping ground would be greatly appreciated by nations with lower standards of living.

Pat Harrison threatens that the Democrats will take over the Senate organization, too, if Providence gives them a majority. Give us war in Manchuria!

Probably King Carol is consistent in trying to prevent Prince Nick from marrying a commoner.

There was no declaration of war in the Russo-Japanese "disorder" until after the Japanese had taken Port Arthur, and the present "disturbance" has not reached that importance.

Gandhi is enough of a politician to know that a cable calling him home was the surest way to speed up the revolutions of the round table.

The saddest spectacle in the moving picture of politics is that of the Progressive members of the House who now find themselves, not a minority group exercising the balance of power within the majority, but an impotent minority within the minority and scorned by the majority.

Of all the congealed situations there seems to be least worry about the frozen condition of congressional politics.

By the time the Reichstag meets the Hitlerites may relieve the financiers of their worries about Germany's debts.

Ireland is restless. Well, this country might stand a 17 per cent income tax, but what would happen with a 14-cent gasoline tax?

Did the example of British cooperation in a national crisis mean anything to Gandhi and the other Indian delegates in London?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

ARMISTICE DAY.

Was it for just a day the guns were stilled,
A breathing spell to rest their weary men?
Was it for just a whim their blood was spilled?
Or why this talk of war so soon again?

Have we no memory of the tears we shed?
No living recollections of our pain?
Have we forgotten how we mourned our dead
That we can blithely speak of war again?

This was the day—just thirteen years ago!
We thought the guns were stilled forevermore.
I wonder if those brave dead soldiers know
How soon again we heard the talk of war?

The Strange Error of a Gentleman From Mars.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A GENTLEMAN from the planet called Mars came down to earth and employed one of America's best minds to serve him as guide.

As the two sped hither and yon in the Marsman's machine, they passed thousands of trucks loaded with kegs and bottles and at innumerable places they saw people drinking from these containers.

"What is this popular beverage?" asked the Marsman.

"It is called hootch," said the Best Mind. "The people regard it as an evil and some years ago its manufacture, transportation and sale was forbidden by law."

The two traveled on, about town and country, and saw beneath them two groups of people equally ragged and woe-begone and yet strangely different.

"That is a strange sight," said the Marsman. "All of these people seem destitute and despondent, yet one group is thin with hunger and the other is well-fed. How is that?"

"The thin and ragged are that way," said the Best Mind, "because they are unable to obtain flour and cloth."

"Crop failures are dreadful," said the Marsman, "but what of the other group."

"They are that way," said the Best Mind, "because they raised too much wheat and cotton."

For some time the Marsman studied the scene beneath them in silence and then pointed to a group in front of a store window.

"I see many wistful groups like that," said he. "What is the explanation?"

"Those are window shoppers," said the Best Mind. "They are longing for the things they see displayed—automobiles, radios, rugs, clothing, crockery, hardware, jewelry and all such manufactured articles."

"Then why don't they buy?"

"Because they are jobless and have no money."

"But why are they jobless?"

"Because their job is to manufacture the things mentioned, and there is no demand for the things they make."

Just then the two flew above a great crowd whose members howled strange, conflicting words. The Marsman was puzzled again.

"What are they howling for?" he asked.

"They are howling for the Government to spend more tax money for their benefit."

"But they are howling something else," said the Marsman. "What is that?"

"They are howling," said the Best Mind, "for lower taxes. By the way, what do you think of our country?"

"Your lunatic asylum is a fine large place," said the Marsman. "Now show me where your sane people live."

"Al Smith Repudiated."

Houston Post-Dispatch.

Republican leaders who viewed the disagreement between the Democratic leaders with satisfaction realize now that Gov. Roosevelt's smoothly moving presidential boom picked up speed when the voters approved his reforestation program by a heavy majority, overriding the opposition of Alfred E. Smith and Tammany Hall.

The results of the election indicate that Gov. Roosevelt probably can count on the almost unanimous support of the New York delegation at the Democratic national convention next year and that he will carry the State if he is nominated. The people, in effect, repudiated Smith and placed themselves on record as backing their governor at a time when rejection of his legislative program would have struck a serious blow at his presidential aspirations.

Another "Truce."

New York Times.

On the authority of certain Republican senators it is said that the President may ask Congress for two moratoriums when it meets. The second is a political truce on legislation designed to correct the country's economic conditions. Mr. Hoover may ask it, and the party leaders may promise it. But in such a Congress, with presidential year around the corner, he will scarcely get it. The truce would be shattered at both ends of Pennsylvania avenue before the invisible ink on the imaginary document was dry.

Signor Grandi's Visit.

Christian Science Monitor.

The United States in welcoming Signor Grandi, the foreign minister of Italy, who has just sailed from Naples, will pay a deserved tribute to the rejuvenated country which he represents. It is no more necessary in this connection to express views for or against Fascism than to express views on French Radicalism or British Laborism. Each country is entitled to the system of government which suits it best, and it should not be judged by British or American standards. Those who applaud Fascism do so because of its apparent efficiency, its insistence on discipline and unity. Those who condemn Fascism do so because it involves some sacrifice of liberty and runs counter to democratic ideas. One's opinion will lean toward this or that side in accordance with whether he attaches more importance to one set of virtues or the other. The real concern, internationally, is only with the foreign policy of Italy.

The death of Representative Wurzbach, of Texas, the only Republican member from that State, is noteworthy for more reasons than that it probably assures Democratic organization of the new House. Wurzbach was elected for five successive terms.

Ducks Suffer Severe Losses From Drought, Disease and Gunners—Game Wardens Should Strictly Enforce Regulations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Last year's drought greatly depleted the number of wild ducks. Now it has been discovered that a disease in the form of a one-celled organism is taking further toll upon young ducks. Dr. Earl C. O'Roke, of the school of forestry and conservation, of the University of Michigan, has been studying this disease for two years. He has found the parasite in wild mallards, black ducks, pintails and several varieties of domestic ducks. During the course of his study of this disease Dr. O'Roke found that the loss of life varied from 35 per cent to 85 per cent. Some flocks were entirely free of the disease, while other flocks were 100 per cent infected.

The ducks seem to be having a very hard time surviving these days. When drought or disease is not thinning them out they face the annual thinning-out process of the gunners. Federal regulations reduced the season for gunning ducks this fall and winter by two weeks. That will greatly help in preserving the flocks. With conditions as they are, the game wardens throughout the United States should strictly enforce the regulations for protecting ducks and geese. Those persons caught violating these regulations, such as hunting out of season and exceeding the daily bag limit, should be severely punished. No one wants to see these wild fowls become extinct.

ALFRED SANDBOY.

A Wet Offers a Few Pointers to the Next Democratic Presidential Candidate.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The other day in New York City Mayor Cermak of Chicago made a remark that indicated that wetness was the only qualification needed to be a Democratic candidate for President. The slogan, "It is better to have bread than booze" (why not have both?), which is today being broadcast to catch the votes of the nitwits and unwashed, are sentiments that are both noble and grand in theory, but political bunk in practice.

Mayor Cermak lays great stress on the majority that he and J. Ham Lewis received at the last election in Illinois and Cook County. Why, even an 8-year-old child knows that if they had been running on a dry ticket and their opponents on a 100 per cent wet ticket, the majority would have been reversed. Gov. Ritchie and Al Smith were wet when J. Ham Lewis was giving "pink teas." Gov. Ritchie and Al Smith have always been consistent. The man who is needed for President is the man who will indorse John Quincy Adams' sentiment, which was: "If the people wish me to be President, I shall not refuse the office, but I ask nothing from any man or from any body of men." Is the man of the hour going to appear? What the country needs today is less evidence but more convictions, also a lot of Maxim silencers for Congress, political writers and predictors.

Democratic Party Put Eighteenth Amendment in Constitution—Alfred Smith Original Bolter of 1928.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In reply to a letter in your paper of October 29, written by one who hasn't the nerve to sign his name to his sputterings, but prefers to use the misnomer, "Virginia Democrat," I'd like to say that I am one who gave Mr. Beauchamp, of Dallas, Tex., a letter of appreciation for his clear and scholarly statement of the Democratic position relative to the 1932 situation.

I must remind "Virginia Democrat" that the Democratic party put the eighteenth amendment in the Federal Constitution, and it takes full responsibility for it and shall endeavor to see that it stays there.

The Democratic party is a dry party. It is and always has been the enemy of vice dens and organized crime, notwithstanding the periodic usurpation of leadership by black sheep.

I must also remind "Virginia Democrat" that his idol, Alfred E. Smith, was the original bolter of 1928, when he bolted the party platform in his speech of acceptance.

As to his generosity in taking us bolters back into the party, we shall say that we do not give a cent whether he does or not. Democracy is a principle that is not altered by spurious leadership.

Backed by Majority, Prime Minister Faces First Full Session.

London, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Backed by an unprecedented majority, Prime Minister MacDonald faced the first full session of the House of Commons today and pledged the national government's efforts to produce remedies for the world economic crisis acceptable to all nations.

He bitterly criticized a system of "crazy economy" on reparations and war debts which, he said, had brought about the distressing economic situation into which the world has fallen since the World War. "As long as the will of man forces an unnatural economic adjustment upon the world," he said, "the world will never succeed or prosper."

The leader of the Labor opposition, George Lansbury, lashed the new government for what he termed the vagueness of its program and flayed the prime minister personally for the role he was playing. The members gasped as he waved a copy of King George's inaugural address and said "this innocuous document known as the king's speech is full of emptiness from beginning to end."

King Reads Address.

The king had read his address from the throne amid medieval pomp and ceremony in the House of Lords. "My people have given you an emphatic mandate and we expect you to achieve success," he said in a voice which rang through the chamber.

Pursuing his comments on reparations, Mr. MacDonald said "it is impossible to decree that without regard to circumstances certain blocks of gold shall be transferred from one nation to another without resulting in impoverishment of the nation which hands out the gold and ultimately of that which receives it.

"It is necessary to get into contact at once—and this is already being done—with the nations chiefly concerned, so that we may extricate ourselves from this absurd entanglement of the impossible."

Points to Laval Visit.

Premier Laval's visit to the United States was of the highest importance, he said, and it was hoped that it would lead first of all to an understanding between France and Germany.

"In the full and final understanding, however," he continued, "every nation involved must be a party to the agreement. That is the policy of this government."

He promised that the new cabinet would govern the nation precisely as was outlined in the election manifesto. He said there were signs of improvement in industry and pledged that if instances of dumping were found steps would be taken to correct it. He did not touch on the Sino-Japanese conflict, but he declared that the Indian round table conference would continue.

His administration was completed with the announcement of the names of 32 new ministers outside the cabinet. The appointments consist of nineteen Conservatives, eight National Liberals and five National Laborites, including his son Malcolm as undersecretary for dominions, but taking in no women members.

Latin-Talking Waiter Is Sought at Harvard

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 10 (U.P.). A waiter who can speak Latin was sought at Harvard today.

Harvard's Classical Club will dine at Leverett House tomorrow night and conversation will be confined to the ancient tongue of Virgil. Dr. A. H. Chase, president of the club, admitted that the difficulty of ordering in Latin had occurred to him.

"I doubt if we can find a waiter who speaks Latin," he said, "and if we can't we'll have to order in English. Perhaps we can observe the rule that no tongue but Latin be spoken by writing our orders in English."

And so, ex necessitate rei, members of the Classical Club probably will speak, or at least write, some English at dinner tomorrow night.

ALLIES PLAN HONORS TO WAR DEAD TODAY

Armistice Day Celebrations to Occupy Britain and European Nations.

London, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Great Britain, Belgium and France will commemorate tomorrow the thirteenth anniversary of the signing of the armistice with new honors for their soldier dead.

In Germany the occasion will more than ever be a day of bitter protest against what is criticized as the "war guilt lie." In Austria and much of the Balkans it will be a day of restrainted, contemptuous silence. In Russia it will be just November 11, with the treadmills of industry humming as usual.

Weather permitting, King George will be present at a ceremony of remembrance at the Cenotaph Monument to the "glorious dead," which has been placed at Whitehall near the foot of Downing street. He will stand with head bared inside a hollow square of British fighting men, place a personal wreath on the monument and remain motionless during two minutes of silence.

Queen Mary will watch the ceremony from the Whitehall windows, not without anxiety, for it was while standing bareheaded at the cenotaph in 1928 that the king contracted his serious illness. The royal family will attend a service at Royal Albert Hall in the evening.

President Doumer, of France, who lost three sons in battle and had a fourth die of wounds, will lead his country's severe military armistice ritual

In Brussels a group of veterans from remote sections of Belgium will rekindle the bluish flame which burns at the foot of the Columne du Congress, Belgium's national monument commemorating the attainment of freedom in 1830.

Italy celebrates the sixty-second birthday of King Emmanuel, having observed Armistice Day a week ago, and commemorative exercises are scheduled in Bucharest and Lisbon.

FRANCES M'DONALD

What We Think of Men.

WELL, here goes. It will probably mean the end of our usefulness as a column writer, but what of that? There were columns before we were born and there will be columns when we are sitting on a pink cloud counting rainbows. Besides, we have been wanting to tear loose for a long time now and tell the truth, and now some 20-odd letters have come in one mail asking us why we do not answer the men who criticize the girls they take out, and why we do not come out and tell what we think of men that are floating around today with one suit and important opinions. So here goes! We feel perfectly poisonously peppy this morning anyway, with sun streaming in every window, our Corona champing at the bit, and our fingers just rearing to go, so let the ballroom Romeos prepare to take the truth and stop their subscriptions.

To begin at the beginning, we will state that if we were 18 instead of twice that, we would prepare to make a nice interesting life for ourself without the aid of male companionship of the sort that is in circulation today for girls of 18 to 25. We do not take counterfeit money and we would not wish counterfeit he-men decorating our vicinity. And fully 80 per cent of the men under 30 today are COUNTERFEIT. And that does not mean that those over 30 are all up to test either. But of them anon. We are now considering the smart-aleck who calls on Martha tonight and Mabel tomorrow night, and Patty the next night and so forth—collecting free kisses from each, and doing the heavy lover while discussing the futility of marriage, the advantages of free love and the catch in the Einstein theory.

We will call him Exhibit A. And if we malign him, overdo him, or libel him in any way let him speak up. He is 25 and has the mental development of an intelligent boy of 12. He makes 35 a week and will never make more, Although he does not know it. He has a contempt for the boss and all women. The boss is a big frog face who just happened to get the breaks, and women—well everyone knows what women are. Of course, a man has got to have some love interest in his life. But if anyone thinks he is going to saddle himself with a woman to hold him back all the days of his life they are just simple, that's all. Besides, girls are easy these days. Martha for instance. Why, Martha would fall for him at the drop of a hat. Hot-stuff, Martha. But at 40 she will be fat as her mother, and her mother is some fat. Besides Martha has no class. A man can marry class if he has to go and marry at all. And money. Any man is a fool who marries some little nobody without a friend in the world to fall back upon if the breaks don't happen to come. Now Mabel would make the grade there. They have some swell little dump there in that $20,000 outfit they call home. But Mabel is no bargain at that. A girl that has no looks ought to know enough to doll up in the last word instead of looking homemade or leftover. What's the use of having money if you can't spend it? And are they close? Six months and not a dinner even to show for it. Even poor old Martha in her kitchenette room comes up with the eats. But over to Mabel's it's 6:30, not 6:30, for dates. Just close.

Patty is the nearest to the works. But Patty is too old-fashioned. The sort who should have lived in the gay nineties, when a kiss was a proposal or an insult. Patty has got a lot to learn. A fellow isn't going to be made to feel like a criminal over a few kisses. A man can't live without life. What are women for? If she can't be regular that's just too bad for her. Lots of kisses without being made uncomfortbale to get 'em. And that always wanting to go out somewhere. It keeps a fellow on the ragged edge trying to dodge the "Where are we going?" that seems just floating in the air at Patty's. Thus far coming a bit too late for the show has worked, but it makes a fellow feel like a fool when a girl acts as if he should be taking her out somewhere. Time to drop Patty anyway. Too darn serious. Awful pretty and cuddly—but one of these marry-and-settle-down types. A man can't be bothered. Tied to a ball and chain. Probably getting fat. And always sick or something. Doctor's bills. Hospital bills. A fellow can love without all the mess of bills and trouble. Women are the bunk, anyhow. What do they care about but getting married? Let 'em. Always plenty left. A man wants fun, not trouble. Daisy has the right idea. Broad-minded. Fifty-fifty. Good fellow. But Daisy sort of makes a fellow sick. And Goldie. Got to get rid of Goldie. She must be 30 if she's a day. Getting old, Goldie. Be trying to nail a meal ticket. Yep, Goldie is out. What a bunch of trouble women are, anyway you look at 'em. Trouble if they get married; trouble if they don't. The ones that are fun cost you money. And the ones that don't cost you money are only laying off so you can save it to marry them. Fat chance. A fellow has a better time on the loose. Here tonight, there tomorrow night, and no questions asked. Then when he wants to settle down there's always plenty to pick from, plenty left on the Christmas tree, with plenty of jack to make life pleasant. So we need to confuse kisses with marriage or get all hot and bothered because some little dame believes in Santa Claus. So, perhaps it's all off with the date tonight with Patty. Just ease out and let her down easy. Too stingy with the kisses. She will learn. If she listens to reason after a few nights of waiting for the phone to ring, well and good. Otherwise, well, plenty of girls everywhere you go and plenty of kisses, too. Pretty soft if you know your line. And if you don't, why, it's just too bad for you.

There he is, girls, as we see him. Line forms on the left. And no rain checks. Take him as he is, or leave him. And, as we said at the beginning of this little rampage, we would leave him. And how! And the foregoing is a cross-section of the nearmental processes of what passes today for a young man of 25 of the type who knows just where he is going—in his one suit.

And he never lacks for kisses, either. Do not forget that, girls, as you slip him under the microscope and watch him squirm. What is the answer to that one?

Jane Interprets the Mode

This sports suit is of heavy sage green and gray tweed, with a chartreuse crepe de chine blouse. (A New York model.)

New York, Nov. 10.

B-R-R-R-R, isn't it getting cold? Beautifully cold, maybe, in a way to bring roses to pale cheeks and cause us much effort to keep roses from our noses. And isn't it just like Paris to send over to us a boatload of beautiful, frosty, cold colors just when the weather made us expect an influx of warm, tawny shades?

But they are very lovely, these cold blues and blue whites, so we'll forgive the Haute Couture for heaping chill on chill. These ice colors range from white with a very faint blue cast, through pile cold blues, up to slate, a combination of gray and blue—all colors being without the slightest warmth, and therefore demanding a color and vividness of personality on the part of the wearer. Almost invariably these ice fabrics are made up in a way that suggests the slender, aloof coldness of an icicle, this fashion being helped out by the use of bias cutting applied in a twisting line, and by twistingly incrusted trains.

And the trimmings and accessories, my deahs! All the crystal and silver one could wish—very delicate silver lace being an attractive and intimate way of relieving too great severity of cut. When rhinestones are used, they are used sparingly, as if to give us a picture of a sunbeam touching some scattered points on a serene field of ice! 'N' the jewel chosen by those who know how to accompany coldly tinted costumes is the aquamarine, that delicate, faintly blue-green gem of great clarity So, who can regret Paris' decision for bigger and better coldness?

Heavy tweed is being woven nowadays to protect Miladi Moderne from the cold, the while it's supple enough to tailor beautifully and without any hint of heaviness or bulk. The suit illustrated today is of this heavy tweed, in a sage green and gray mixture, very trimly tailored. The skirt has a pointed hip yoke and a deep inverted pleat in front, and the jacket has novel little revers and slanting pockets. And it's quite heavy enough to wear on the streets in the very coldest weather, with the addition, perhaps, of your favorite fur scarf!

But if you decide to buy a suit of this heavy tweed, don't attempt to have it made fussily, for then it can't help being bulky.

And the blouse to this suit deserves a word for itself too. It is of chartreuse crepe de chine, with a tied collar—'n' I couldn't resist sketching it for you today to show how the tab was an extension of the shoulder yoke.

* * * *

What place is there in the modern office for always-clean collars and cuffs, for fresh, well-kept complexions and hair, for smartly manicured finger nails? The top place—no foolin', it's the girl who pays constant attention to these and all the other little details who gets raise after raise, no matter how hard times are! They are the things you should do, too, being easy, economical and sensible, not only for the office itself, but for those occasions when dates spring up right after 5 o'clock. Imagine how simple it is to be always prepared—all you have to do is to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope off right away to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's leaflet. It'll pay you dividends, my deahs!

Au revoir.

A SLIP AND A SLAM.

LAPSUS linguae, or in the vernacular "a slip of the tongue," is responsible for many odd happenings in the relations between human beings. Recently, I was told of a Grand Slam bid by reason of a slip of the tongue and the making of it required nothing except the taking of three finesses and the shortening of the long trump hand twice in order to establish the coup position.

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.
East and West not vulnerable.

	♠ K 6 ♡ A Q 10 2 ◇ A J 9 ♣ A Q 9 6
♠ J ♡ K J 6 5 ◇ 8 7 6 3 ♣ K 8 7 5	N W E S	♠ Q 7 3 2 ♡ 9 7 3 ◇ 4 2 ♣ J 10 3 2
	♠ A 10 9 8 5 4 ♡ 8 4 ◇ K Q 10 5 ♣ 4

When West passed South's opening bid of one spade, North, who had an extremely strong hand, one that appeared plenty big enough to guarantee a Slam in some declarations, mentally reviewed the possibilities. "If," he thought, "South's spade suit is solid save for the King, which I hold, then a Slam should be made in spades." North was a true conservative. He hated to force with a four-card suit, and then he considered the possibilities of a bid in no trump, but there was no possibility of making a force in no trump.

Meanwhile East impatiently turned to North and said:

"Did you bid?"

North's trend of thought was interrupted.

"Seven spades," was the immediate answer, and East passed, confident that the contract would prove difficult through his length in spades. South and West also passed, and, when West opened the diamond, South, taking stock of his resources, saw that he faced a well-nigh impossible contract.

The diamond trick was taken with the Ace, South playing on it his King in order to retain two diamond entries in the North hand if they should later prove to be of value. The King of spades was then led and, when West's Knave fell, South decided to finesse. The finesse was almost obligatory at this point, both because South held only eight spades in the combined hands and for the further reason that West, if he held Queen-Knave alone, would be quite likely to false-card by playing the Queen. The finesse held and South saw that to make the contract he must find the King of clubs and the King-Knave of hearts in the West hand, and that East must hold at least three cards in each of these suits. He now led his Singleton club and finessed the Queen, which, of course, held. A small club was led and trumped in the closed hand. South thus got rid of one of his two surplus trumps. He must dispose of another before leading from the Dummy Hand on the eleventh round of play. He now led heart Four and finessed the Ten. This finesse also held. The Ace of clubs was then played and on this South discarded the Queen of diamonds. The last club was then led from the Dummy and trumped in the closed hand. The coup position had now been established. South now led his last heart and took the Queen finesse. On the Ace of hearts he discarded another diamond in the closed hand. Now the Ace of diamonds was led and when East followed suit, South breathed a sigh of relief. The coup position had been established and East's Queen and Seven were worthless for trick-taking purposes against South's Ace and Ten.

"What on earth made you bid seven, partner?" South asked as the score was jotted down.

"I was considering the possibilities of the hand and East's question registered just as I was reviewing the chances of a spade Slam. It was a pure slip of the tongue," North replied.

"A fortunate slip," snorted West, as he jotted down the bonus for a vulnerable Grand Slam.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question—Why may Declarer not count ruffs?

Answer—Because he counts his long trumps as full tricks and no card can take more than one trick.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF November 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 7:40 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8:35 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 3:40 p. m.

The planetary aspects are powerful on November 11, and will promote very strong feelings and impulsive actions. Curb your tongue, guard your correspondence, and be careful to what you sign your name! Any dealings with those of the opposite sex should be entered into with caution.

Considerable determination is shown in the character of the child born on this November 11. Outwardly it will be seen to be both reserved and intellectual; but at heart, it will be emotional and will be guided by its feelings rather than by reason. It will have a sweet and cheerful disposition.

If you were born on November 11, the legacy of life should bring you much more than it has, because you expect too much from luck, and have never shown to the world your own true, unadulterated self-value. You feel your own importance, and you want the world to accept you at your own economic value, without further proof of your true merit. What you lack is not luck, but the same word with the letter "p" in front of it. You are afraid to gamble with life, and you shrink from hardships. You are afraid to set up your own faith against the world's seeming indifference.

Your business assets are: one—an eye for details and also for the salient points in any undertaking; two—a convincing manner; three—considerable foresight. Your business weaknesses are: one—a lack of patience, you are apt to push things too fast for their logical development; two—too little confidence in the other fellow.

Your social assets are: one—a delightful sense of humor; two—the ability to listen as well as to talk; three—the ability to talk in an entertaining manner; four—an appreciation of sports, and the ability to play games well.

You are slightly the victim of moods, and it is hard for you to smile under adverse circumstances. Your nature is a sensitive one, and you do not know how to bear the little difficulties of life.

Successful people born November 11.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

PRETTY PINK PRIMROSES.

OR lavender or white, if you prefer those colors. The Chinese variety, of primrose (primula sinensis), which can be had in so many tints and tones of white, pink or lavender, is one of the most satisfactory plants we have for house culture. It requires only an ordinary amount of care and is a free and constant bloomer.

There is one important point that must be observed in the culture of this primrose. If potted low—that is, with the crown below the level of the soil in the pot, water will run in and stand there too long for the good of the plant before it is absorbed by the soil. This induces decay, and a plant seldom has the strength to recuperate afterward. Plants received from a florist are never planted too low, but when removed from the pot and planted in a window box frequently are. Always set the plant so the soil slants toward the outer edge of the box, so that the water, when applied in quantity, will run away from the crown instead of collecting about it.

Another thing that must be kept in mind, primroses must never be overpotted (meaning too large pots). This plant does not have many or large roots, and it is made to have indigestion by putting it in a pot that contains more soil than it can make use of. For this very reason it is really more practical to set potted plants in a window box than to plant them directly in the soil.

The primrose requires a great deal of water. It is a perpetual bloomer in the winter, provided it has not been allowed to exhaust itself by summer flowering. Its flowers are produced in clusters of ten or twenty on stems four to five inches tall, just tall enough to lift them well above the foliage. Not all the flowers in a cluster are produced at one time; they come on in successive stages. Thus the flowering period of each stalk is prolonged a month or more. Often there will be three or four stalks in bloom at one time.

The Chinese primrose does best in a window with a southern or eastern exposure. It has no insect enemy unless it might be the mealy bug, which occasionally attacks it. This can be kept in check by any nicotine spray. It is not well to shower this plant constantly, for its soft, downy leaves are always injured if water stands on them in drops.

(Copyright, 1931.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

15,000 Cubes of Sugar Used In Model of U. S. Capital

Reproduction of Building Exhibited at Annual Culinary Show in New York; Public Barred to Insure Safety of Daintily Flavored Pieces.

New York, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—A reproduction of the United States Capitol Building, constructed of 15,000 cubes of sugar, stood today as the centerpiece of the Internatoinal Societie de Cullinaire's annual exhibit, with little danger of having its left wing or its glistening dome snipped off by a greedy public.

The public has been barred from this year's exhibit because of its deportment last year.

The societie is made up of the world's leading chefs, and each year its members produce such things as Indians on horseback, skyscrapers, wooden shoes, oil wells and other gadgets, all made out of chocolate, or sugar, or caviar, or pie dough.

At the show last year the public was permitted to roam up and down the aisles and examine the various pieces. As a result, certain complications arose—complications which sent genial old Papa Escoffier, president of the societie, into a series of tantrums.

It seems that every time Papa Escoffier turned his head, some one would snap a penthouse off a sugar skyscraper. While the good Papa shouted for the police, some other unscrupulous member of the general public would snatch a cornice off the White House and gobble it down. One individual went so far as to eat the ears off of an elegant sugar bust of the Emperor Napoleon.

This, to Papa Escoffier, was sacrilege and he let it be known that the 1931 exhibition would be for "artists" or "artists' employers," which means hotel keepers.

A delegation from the press, permitted to enter today only after they had checked their overcoats and promised to keep their hands in their pockets, found several new and interesting exhibits (all very tasty looking). The Capitol Building, constructed of 15,000 sugar cubes by Peter Kamm and Joseph Schass, of Lancaster, Pa., is the largest single exhibit.

MORE ON MIGRAINE.

W. B. S. writes: I have been subject to migraine for 47 years; I am rather familiar with its voluminous literature, am fairly well versed in what little is known about the human metabolism; have conducted countless experiments on myself and others in this connection; and regard myself as a witness of some competence.

Migraine is not an ache but an acute pain. It is a distinct pathological entity, always inherited, though the inheritance is not always true to type, and is thus often obscured. The precise nature and basic etiology of the disorder are as shrouded in mystery today as ever. No explanation fits the facts, not even the recent ascription to sensitization. Anything that lowers the threshold of resistance may precipitate a seizure, may pull the trigger, so to speak. But what loads the gun is wholly unknown.

All theories break down upon impact with the clinical histories, the chief stumbling block being the unquestioned tendency of the disorder to end, in woman with the climacteric, and with men at about the same relative age, although many sufferers find relief in the grave alone.

There is but little trustworthy evidence going to show the migraine has anything but a fortuitous or coincidental relation to urticaria, asthma, or hay fever. Few laymen know anything worth while about hygiene or diet, and in the early years of migraine almost any medication, or improvement in regimen, or removal of any proximate cause, such as caries or constipation, may effect a cure, which is not permanent. Cures, when they do occur, are purely spontaneous. The most plausible explanation of the migraine complex, as yet totally unsubstantiated, is to ascribe it to some specific metabolic idiosyncracy. It is not possible, in my opinion, to account for the spontaneous recoveries which in women are often abruptly synchronous with the menopause. That cessation of gonadal activity has any casual relation to anaphylaxis is a tax on credulity. It is in the later decades that resistance should be at its lowest ebb, so far as anaphylactic shock is concerned. It is precisely in these decades that recoveries from migraine should never occur, if this theory is valid.

There seems ample cause to suspect that the spontaneous recoveries are related to a diminishing or suspended supply of some hormone that has been thrown into the blood stream in excess or of faulty quality. This notion seems to accord with the invariable tendency of nearly all glands, unless the prostate, to subinvolute in later life. And with the fact that anatomical and functional abnormalities are prone to be transmitted.

REPLY.

The record of your experience is valuable, and we hope that others may follow your example in more ways than one. It is the common opinion that there are a number of disorders which go by the names "sick headache" and "migrain," and they differ in cause and in the treatment they require.

There are people who have found treatment based on allegory as the cause to be just what they needed and others who, having had no help in that direction, have turned to other theories and treatments based on them.

A HARD BOILED EGG.

M. L. M. writes: How long does it take to digest a hard boiled egg? Soft boiled? Fried?

REPLY.

About two hours.

There is no particular difference in the time required nor in the ease of digestion. Some experiments have shown that there is a few minutes' difference in the time required, but the difference is trivial. The building up of "dos" and "don'ts" in such trivial matters is unwarranted.

Many unwarranted statements have been made about fried eggs and other fried foods. These statements have been handed down for generations.

Fat Frying Hens Will Buy Dentistry in Dallas

Dallas, Tex., (U.P.).—Prices of dental work in at least one Dallas office was quoted in terms of fat frying hens, fresh eggs and country butter.

Dr. H. S. Thomas, one of the pioneers of the profession here, announced recently that to "do his bit toward helping the farmer," he would accept farm produce, at market prices, in payment for professional services.

"Dental work should not be neglected, even during hard times," he explained, "and the farmer's health is just as important as that of his neighbor."

Mile of Dimes for Rectory.

Chicago (U.P.).—St. Edmund's Episcopal Church is going to build a new parish house with a mile of dimes, if it can get them. Church members were asked to contribute a foot apiece —equivalent to sixteen dimes.

MISSING

WALTER G. MARSH.

The mother of Walter G. Marsh, 14 years old, of 619 Olive street, Clarendon, Va., once promised him that she would bring him back and punish him if he ran away. Now that he is missing from home she is about ready to go back on that promise.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Marsh, left home to go to the Washington-Lee High School on November 6. He was apparently in the best of spirits. He never reached the school, however, his teachers told the parents.

Mrs. Marsh said she knew of no reason for her son's disappearance. He had only 20 cents in his pockets when he left home. He was dressed in gray trousers, a red sweater, white shirt and a bluish-gray cap, his mother said.

TAXES IN ARLINGTON ARE DUE THIS MONTH

Five Per Cent Penalty Will Be Added December 5, Treasurer Says.

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Real estate and personal property taxes for the year 1932, totaling nearly $615,000 are now due, says County Treasurer E. Wade Ball.

Mr. Ball announced that a penalty of 5 per cent will be added to all taxes and levies unpaid by December 5.

As a means of assisting taxpayers to make their payments, Mr. Ball said deputies from his office today will be at the real estate office of H. H. Anderson, at East Falls Church; tomorrow, at Mrs. Martha Langton's store, at Walkers Chapel, and Friday at the People's State Bank at Cherrydale. The office at the county courthouse is open each day until 4:30 o'clock except Saturdays, when it is closed at 1 o'clock.

Mr. Ball has an extra force of clerks at the office and there will be no delays in receiving payment.

Speaking at annual meeting of the Men's Bible Class of Arlington Methodist Church last night, former Representative R. Walton Moore told of elaborate preparations for celebration of the 200th birthday anniversary of George Washington next year.

He urged the people of northern Virginia to be prepared to receive thousands of visitors. A portrait of Washington presented to the class by Representative Jesse Walcott, of Michigan, was ordered framed and a letter of thanks sent to him.

Newly elected officers of the class are A. J. Stevens, president; A. M. Fetzer, vice president; Homer Cooper, secretary, and Vernon Chewning, financial secretary. The program included instrumental selections by Miss Madaline Whitlock, musical director at Washington-Lee High School, and vocal solos by Charles Applebee. It was announced that future business meetings of the will be held the second Monday of each month.

Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of the circuit court of Arlington County, yesterday appointed Ernest Miller, of Barcroft, as special traffic officer. The appointment was upon recommendation of Sheriff Howard B. Fields. Miller immediately took the oath of office before Deputy Court Clerk Ralph Remmington.

Robert I. Mount, resident State highway engineer, today will meet with C. L. Kinnier, county engineer, and C. H. Powell, member of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, to plan a cut-oof road leading from Lee boulevard in the direction of Bailes Cross Roads. It is pointed out that such a road would aid traffic going in the direction of Alexandria and Bailies Cross Roads by way of the Leesburg pike.

FALLS CHURCH SETS SPEED AT 15 MILES

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

A new traffic ordinance, limiting speed through the Falls Church business district to 15 miles an hour was adopted yesterday at a meeting of the Falls Church Town Council.

The 15-mile limit will apply as well to all street intersections and school zones, according to Mayor L. P. Daniel, who in a warning to motorists, declared the new code will be strictly enforced. A limit of 25 miles an hour was provided for the residential sections.

Action on an ordinance proposing a license tax on all persons, firms and corporations doing business within the town limits was postponed until the December meeting. The town now derives less revenue from this source than any other of similar size in Virginia, Mayor Daniel said.

Seeks House Delivery.

The council's support of the movement for consolidation of its three postoffices into a central office with house-to-house delivery was presented by a delegation from the East Falls Church, Columbia and South street and the Northwest Citizens Association. Their petition was referred to the town's finance committee.

A representative of a bonding company from Ohio offered the council up to $18,000 worth of the town's water bonds issued during the past summer if the town wants to repurchase them for a sinking fund. The town was able to install its water system more economically than was estimated and out of the bond issue for the municipal water system, amounting to $125,000, the town will have a large surplus.

The only large indebtedness now pending is the purchase from Arlington County of that portion of the system in East Falls Church. With this completed the town water committee was authorized to purchase any amount of the bonds possible, so as to reduce the town's bonded indebtedness and to decrease interest charges.

Range of Taxes.

The proposed schedule of license taxes under the ordinance to come before the council's December meeting provides taxes ranging from $15 for grocers to $250 for pawn or money brokers. Automobiles or buses transporting passengers for hire would be taxed 20 cents per hundredweight or fraction thereof. Dance halls would have to pay $5 a night or $50 a year and circuses or carnivals $50 a day or $250 a week.

Merchants doing business in the town would have to pay a town tax similar to the merchants' tax now collected by the county, the amount graduated according to the purchases reported to the commissioner of revenue. A license tag would be issued for each truck or wagon, to be prominently displayed at all times, under the ordinance.

"Miss Maryland" will be crowned at the festival, and girls of the county are engaged in a spirited contest for the honor. Headquarters for the event have been established at 416 Washington-Baltimore boulevard, Riverdale, Md.

County Policeman to Sue Hyattsville in Curb Fight

Failing to gain permission from the Hyattsville town council to cut down the street curb in front of his garage, Sergt. H. G. Machen, of the Prince Georges County police force, has threatened to start suit against the town.

Sergt. Machen, who operates a public garage on Baltimore boulevard at Guy avenue, asked permission to cut down the curb so that autos would have ample room to drive beside his gas pumps. He said that teams and autos had done this for years, and that the council had no right to refuse permission. Councilmen who opposed the change said that pedestrians would be endangered by autos driving across the sidewalk.

After receiving a complaint, signed by 40 residents of Prospect and Chillum avenues, against the bus service rendered by the Washington Railway & Electric Co., the council appointed a committee to interview the company. The committee is composed of Councilmen P. F. Brookens, T. D. Jarrell and C. D. Anderson. The company will also be asked to send a representative to the next council meeting.

The complaint said that the buses were old, and often overcrowded, and that they were filled with gas. It also stated that the half-hour schedule in force during the day was inadequate and that at least some of the buses should go into downtown Hyattsville.

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—With the exception of a two-minute period of silence at 11 a. m., business will be conducted as usual tomorrow in the financial district. Armistice Day is not a legal holiday in New York State.

All of the security and commodity exchanges and the banks will remain open. The tickers will be silent and all trading will be suspended for two minutes at 11 o'clock. The Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago Stock Exchange, however, will be closed for the entire day.

ROOM FOR NURSERY IS GRANTED SCHOOL

Prince Georges Board Puts Conditional Clause in Approval Permit.

Permission to use a vacant room in the College Park School for a nursery school was granted yesterday to the University Park branch of the American Association of University Women by the Prince Georges County school board on three conditions.

The board stipulated that the principal and trustees of the school must give their consent, that the new school shall not interfere with the regular school work, and that the permission may be withdrawn at any time. The teacher for the nursery school, for children of prekindergarten age, will be paid out of fees charged pupils in the nursery school.

Because of lack of funds, a petition asking a school-bus line from Lanham to the Bladensburg Junior High School was turned down. The board also decided that a store to sell school supplies should not be established in the Mitchellville School, and disapproved plans for a garage to house teachers' cars at this point. The Mitchellville Parent-Teacher Association had asked permission to do both these things.

The manager of the Tidewater Transportation Lines told the board that he intended to ask the Maryland Public Service Commission for permission to change his schedule of buses on the southern Maryland pike serving the Surrattsville School. A number of students use this line, which runs to La Plata, and the commission has refused to allow him to cease operation.

His new schedule, as explained to the board, will keep the regular morning bus. There will be no trip from La Plata to Washington in the afternoon, however. Instead, a bus will be sent from Washington as far at the Surrattsville School, to give service to pupils living between the school and Washington.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

CREDIT POOL STIRS FAITH, BANKER SAYS

Investment Convention Given Explanation of Lending Under Plan.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—New confidence has been instilled in America's economic consciousness as a result of the activities of the National Credit Corporation, one of its directors, John M. Miller, jr., of Richmond, Va., said today.

Mr. Miller explained the workings of the pool, which is to free the frozen but sound assets of the Nation's banks, to the convention of the Investment Bankers Association, and afterward told newspapermen that $400,000,000 of the $500,000,000 sought had been pledged. Mr. Miller's figures were the first from an official source about the financial condition of the corporation.

"The beneficial effects of the pool have already been felt," Mr. Miller said. "We can not claim credit for having energized the commodity markets, but I believe our work has renewed faith in the banks and in our economic structure, which has accordingly had an easing effect on money."

Mr. Miller urged that every banker enter the pool as a patriotic duty. He stressed that the funds would be used to aid the weaker banks; that the stronger banks which would subscribe most of the money had no intention of reabsorbing it.

He described the loans which will be made as penalty money, explaining that borrowers may be required to pay as high as 9 per cent, following the customary rates charged in various States. Ten per cent of the funds will be called early next week—the first actual money thus far demanded by the corporation.

He denied the pool plan will be inflationary, because loans will not be made that are not absolutely necessary, "and necessary is a big word to use. It means necessary for the conduct of a sound bank, when it is faced with a run or when its reserve is too low.

"We shall be careful also not to call for more money than actually is needed, because we certainly do not propose to carry idle funds, nor to drain the resources of needy districts."

Only collateral next in strength to that eligible for Federal Reserve discount will be accepted by the corporation.

Sixteenth Street Group Hears Talk by Cottrell

The association indorsed a resolution approving the Fine Arts Commission's plan to abolish parking in the downtown congested area, but do not agree with the commission's plan to abolish parking from the Potomac River to Florida avenue.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ONE of the popular stars of stage, screen and radio will take up the duties of master of ceremonies at the Fox Theater a week from Friday, or on November 20, if you are a stickler for dates, viz: Al Mitchell transferred to other fields for the exercise of his talents.

The newcomer is Les Stevens, who brings with him a trio of talented young men known as The Diplomats.

Mr. Stevens, I am led to believe, is a debonair sort of chap, possessing a well-trained barytone voice and conspicuous ability as a tooter of saxophones and clarinets, in addition to which it is bruited about that he knows how to conduct an orchestra like nobody's business.

The Diplomats, who accompany Mr. Stevens, are Georgie Bersch, singer, pianist and vocal arranger; Andy Hamilton, tenor, who doubles on drums and guitar, and Johnnie Ferrara, basso profundo, who doubles on guitar, reeds and violin.

Les Stevens, of course, knows what the theater is all about, having played engagements in many of the foremost vaudeville and picture houses in the country, as well as having made short-reel subjects for various motion picture concerns and phonograph records no end. Among the night clubs in which he has appeared may be mentioned—in fact we will mention them—the Helen Morgan Club, Club Lido, Surf Club, Stork Club, Cafe des Beaux Arts, Castillian Gardens, Blossom Heath Inn and the Clover Gardens.

In bringing Les Stevens and The Diplomats to Washington for an indefinite engagement, Managing Director Harry W. Crull is not dealing with any unknown quantity. He has presented the boys in other cities with marked success and proposes to make unusual uses of their talents on F street.

I note that among other charges made by Mrs. Bull Montana in her divorce complaint against the former wrestler and bodyguard of Douglas Fairbanks, pere, there is one to the effect that the champion ugly man of the films "made faces at her."

Mrs. Montana, I take it, must be a young woman of exceedingly minute discernment!

There can be no gainsaying the superlative excellence of Helen Hayes' portrayal of the role of Madelon Claudet in the feature current at the Palace, "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," but Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has made the same mistake with Miss Hayes that First National years ago made with Colleen Moore, when they cast her as the mother in Edna Ferber's "So Big." Or so it seems to me.

When these vibrant young actresses are made up for old age, the simulation of a feeble and tottering senility is apt to be well-nigh perfect when viewed in full face. It is so in Miss Hayes' case. Her assumption of the heavily burdened years is a masterpiece of make-up and the suiting of voice, gait and action to the closing interval of a broken life, but when the side face is turned, or Madelon's face is glimpsed over her shoulder, the illusion is almost completely shattered.

She then is still, in contour, Miss Helen Hayes, most charming and most gifted of the theater's younger stars.

Next week might with all propriety be designated an exceptional seven-day period of amusement in the local picture houses.

At the Earle, the double anniversary bill, already dwelt upon here at some length, will be celebrated; at the Palace, William Haines in person and on the screen in "The New Adventures of Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," in which he is supported by Ernest Torrence and "Schnozzle" Durante, may be relied upon to hang the customers even from the chandeliers, and at the Fox "Football Week" will be observed.

This last named innovation may need a little going into. Well, then, the Fox has made sound pictures of all the favorite high school teams in the District, which will be shown as a special added attraction, beginning this Friday, which will be Eastern night. Monday will be Central night; Tuesday, Western night; Wednesday, Business night, and Thursday, Tech night.

The film producers are finally getting smart. Instead of binding themselves by ironclad contracts to series of pictures by foreign stars, on the hazardous assumption that they will click with American audiences, they are contracting for one definite picture with an optional clause for two more.

That is what has been done with Lil Dagover, the German beauty, latest of the cinema's widely publicized importations. Frau Dagover—who, like Marlene Dietrich, has a husband and daughter in that dear Vaterland—has made her one picture and is now returning to Europe for a stage engagement while it is determined how it turns out as a box-office attraction. If a hit, two more for Frau Lil; if not, that will be that.

It is reported that Estelle Taylor and Lupe Velez, warmest of friends for lo, these many years, have severed diplomatic relations and are sniping at each other from the dugouts. If those two temperaments ever get properly steamed up and decide to have at each other, they will make Manchuria look like Sleepy Hollow itself!

On the strength of their vehicle, and their performance of it, at the National this week, if for no other reason, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne should pack the Columbia until the walls bulge when they make their local screen debut on F street Friday in "The Guardsman."

What with Lunt and Fontanne, Helen Hayes and a few other supposed novices in the films coming to the front as they are, some of the strictly celluloid stars had best look to their laurels—if any!

And if an Armistice could be signed with Hard Times, I dare say the world-wide celebration that would greet the announcement would match that of thirteen years ago in hilarity, thanksgiving and frenzied intensity.

Or haven't you felt the pinch yet, you lucky stiff?

VICTIM OF ILLINOIS KIDNAPERS IS FREED

Capone Aid and 5 Others Are Held as Abductors of More Than 100.

Chicago, Nov. 10 (A.P.). — While Chicago police were searching tonight for members of a kidnaping ring said to have preyed upon 100 persons, a victim of the organization was reported to have been released on payment of $6,000 ransom.

The man reported released was Ralph J. ("Fuzzy") Pearce, a gambler abducted from near his home, in Rockford, Ill., last Friday. Orders were dispatched immediately for city and suburban police to be on the lookout for an automobile from which he reportedly was released.

No word was received concerning the fate of Alexander Berg, wealthy St. Louis (Mo.) furrier, believed held by the same band for $25,000. Detectives were reported en route here from St. Louis.

Arrested and in cells, despite objections of their attorneys, were "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, Capone henchman, and six companions.

Chicago police directed their attention to the Rockford case after receiving a telephone call from Pat Roche, chief investigator for the State's attorney's office, who had been there on a secret mission. Roche's call came more than an hour after Pearce's relatives in Rockford had been advised of his release.

$2,825,000 IS ASKED OF INSURANCE FIRM

Receiver of National Benefit Life Submits Plan for Reorganization.

The National Benefit Life Insurance Co., largest colored organization in the United States, will have to raise $2,825,000 to meet the required legal reserve, Daniel C. Roper, receiver, informed the District Supreme Court yesterday in submitting to the court a plan for reorganization.

If the stockholders fail to make good the impairment in the legal reserve, Mr. Roper suggested that the company might be transformed into a mutual life insurance company.

In the event that the stockholders, in order to protect their investment, decide to make good the impairment, Mr. Roper asked the court to set a time and place for them to appear and note their acceptance of his proposal.

Should the plan to mutualize the company be adopted, Mr. Roper suggested that a transfer of the company's stock to the new company on a pro rata basis be made. This process, he said, would assure the policyholders of the highest possible value for their shares. The receiver informed the court that the company has $60,000,000 insurance in force. Attorneys W. Gwynn Gardiner, South Trimble, jr., and Minor, Gatley & Drury represented Mr. Roper.

GREEN GOES DIRECT TO CLERKS IN MOVE TO HALT WITHDRAWAL

islation sought by the clerks he would see that the American Federation supported such legislation.

The time for him to have given his support was when the matter was before the convention, Mr. Steward replied in a letter which also was signed by Miss Gertrude McNally, secretary-treasurer of the employes federation.

After reading this correspondence at the meeting, Mr. Green repeated his assurance that the federation would support reclassification legislation wholeheartedly if the clerks would not withdraw, explaining that he interpreted his convention's action as meaning merely that the American Federation was opposed to having certain classes of Government employes who do not wish it brought within the scope of reclassification legislation.

Some of those present, it is said, expressed their willingness to remain affiliated with the American Federation, but, according to available accounts, the appeal met with little response and the gathering came to an end with many walking out while one local officer was in the midst of a declaration of support of the American Federation.

Neither Mr. Green nor Mr. Coleman nor others who attended the meeting would make any statement about it. Mr. Green referred inquirers to Mr. Coleman and Mr. Coleman referred them to Mr. Green. Mr. Coleman refused to discuss the purpose of the meeting, saying to do so would perhaps disclose more than he felt he should inasmuch as he felt bound by unwritten federation law that whatever was made public should come from the president.

In Mr. Green's argument against withdrawal, in correspondence exchanged between him and the heads of the employes' chiefs which he read at the meeting, he referred to "threats" which already have been made "by those who occupy influential positions in Congress that the salaries and wages of all Government employes must be reduced," and warned that "there is some sentiment in favor of such action."

What might have been a veiled threat was contained in his statement that "the Federal employes represented by your organization will expect organized labor to fight against reductions in wages and salaries paid them and to resist any attempt which may be made during the next session of Congress to lower their living standards.

Urging that despite the convention disapproval of reclassification legislation, some plan agreeable to all could be drafted, Mr. Green said that "it was my firm purpose" to call a conference of "all those interested and affected by classification legislation" to develop an acceptable plan.

Reminding Mr. Green that he had warned him that if the convention in Vancouver voted against the reclassification legislation desired by the employes there would be nothing left for them to do but sever their affiliation, Mr. Steward and Miss McNally replied:

"The time for you to have acted was then, and it is a source of sincere regret to us that you failed to take command of a situation where the vital interests of an affiliated organization had been ruthlessly sacrificed.

"Candor compels us to state that protestations of cooperation and assistance couched in generalities can not be expected to impress us, in view of the indifference displayed by you after the whole subject had been presented to you and the gravity of the situation fully explained."

In his reply Mr. Green said that the report of the executive committee to the Vancouver convention had been prepared and printed before the reclassification resolution had been called to his attention and therefore could not be changed. But he had spoken to the chairman of the committee and it was agreed that the committee would ask to have the matter referred back to it for further consideration, but this was overruled on the convention floor and the disapproving resolution was adopted.

Although it does not show in the correspondence, leaders of the employes have charged to their membership that Mr. Green refused to take sides in the fight on the convention floor and expressed their belief that he could have swayed the convention decision had he wished to do so.

In his correspondence with the federation leaders last week, however, he gave them "the official assurance of the executive officers of the American Federation of Labor that they will give full and unqualified support to classification legislation drafted and introduced into the Congress of the United States for the purpose of providing classification for all Federal employes over whom your organization has been granted jurisdiction by the American Federation of Labor."

Mr. Green, the employes leaders replied, had been formally and definitely notified "of the grave misstatements" contained in the committee report which "injuriously affected" the membership of the employes federation.

"When the subject came before the convention," they wrote, "it was your responsibility to inform the delegates the truth as to the manner in which the portion of the executive council's report dealing with classification was prepared. You remained silent on this point.

"The conclusion is inevitable that your concept of your duties and responsibilities as titular head of the American Federation of Labor, does not include a reasonable amount of watchfulness for the interests of an affiliated organization.

"You have literally forced us to make the statement that organized Federal employes should not have to depend on the type of leadership that you have displayed in this connection."

HOOVER REJECTS PROPOSAL THAT WORKERS SHARE JOBS

posals aimed at employment of married women in the Government service nor the employment of more than one member of a family by the Government, the chairman said. President Hoover did not mention these phases in announcing his rejection of the staggered employment scheme and substitution of a plea for voluntary contributions.

40 Officials on Committee.

The committee was composed of 40 officials of various Government departments and bureaus. They were named by Mr. Campbell, who appointed a small executive committee, the membership of which includes Mr. Campbell, chairman; Charles P. Sisson, Assistant Attorney General, R. C. White, Assistant Secretary of Labor; Ferry K. Heath, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Herbert F. Brown, chief of the United States Bureau of Efficiency; Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, District Commissioner, and Mr. Steward.

This committee is expected to have worked out by the end of the week a detailed plan for handling the contributions of employes. One suggestion is that employes give directly to the Community Chest. Another is that some person be designated to receive contributions once each month from the employes in each bureau or departmental division. This latter method would expedite the handling of the funds and save expense to the Community Chest, it was said.

Based on 83,200 Clerks.

The $1,000,000 quota was based on an estimate of 83,200 Government and municipal employes in the District and the belief that between 70 and 80 per cent of these would be willing to contribute as much or more than one day's pay in each of three months during the winter.

The contribution plan does not include members of the Congressional staff nor members of the judicial staff.

It is planned to launch the drive for contributions as soon as practicable with pledges to be asked of employes not later than December 12 and the first payment to be made on January 15.

Employment Code Urged for Agents

Letter to Committee Asks Standards Be Adopted in Washington.

The District committee on employment was asked to draw up a code of standards for employment agencies, classifying the agencies in the District according to those standards, in a letter yesterday to George Adams, chairman of the committee.

The letter, drafted by Mrs. Holly W. Shinn, director of personnel service, 1420 New York avenue northwest, suggested that the code require that charge applicants for jobs "only for actual services rendered."

"Another practice in which no reputable employment agency would indulge is that of extorting extra charges from applicants on the promise of giving the applicant preference," she wrote. A similar letter was sent to the Better Business Bureau.

Churches to Name Welfare Groups

Social Committee to Work With Community Chest, Society Decides.

A resolution recommending that a social welfare committee be created in all churches to cooperate with social agencies through the Community Chest was adopted last night by the Protestant subcommittee of the Community Chest committee on church cooperation, which met in the Calvary Baptist Church.

At the meeting, which was attended by pastors and keymen from 40 of the city's Protestant churches, white and colored, it was decided that the creation of "relief committees" in the churches would be the primary step in formulating of plans for the churches to aid in year-round and city-wide social work.

The meeting, which was presided over by the Rev. Allen A. Stockdale, pastor of the First Congregational Church, was merely an open discussion in which the machinations of the organized charities were frankly debated so that the church members would recognize their problems, and be able to give both the agencies and the needy understanding help.

Ministers Elect Dr. Regester.

The Rev. Dr. E. V. Regester was chosen president of the Alexandria Ministerial Association at a meeting held yesterday. The Rev. Percy Roster Hall was elected as vice president and the Rev. Norris A. Lineweaver, secretary-treasurer.

PARMELEE SPEAKS ON RAIL PROBLEMS

Bond Club Hears Explanation of Compromise Proposal in Rates Case.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Julius H. Parmelee, director of the Bureau of Railway Economics, addressed the monthly luncheon meeting of the Bond Club of Washington at the Carlton Hotel yesterday, on "Railway Credit and Rates."

Discussing the compromise offered the steam railways by the Interstate Commerce Commission following its denial of their application for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates and charges, he said in the presentation of this compromise the commission recognized the emergency, and frankly admitted the importance of maintaining railway credit at this critical period in the Nation's economic history.

This compromise, he reminded, offered to approve specific increases of certain amounts per car or per ton on specified commodities, agricultural commodities being largely excepted, with the further condition that the money derived from these increases should be placed in a common fund or pool and distributed as needed to railways failing to earn their interest charges. The commission estimated the amount of these increases at from $100,000,000 to $125,000,000 per year.

New Factor Introduced.

This condition, according to the speaker, introduces a completely new factor into railway operation and finance and there is some question among lawyers regarding its legality. Nevertheless, the railways are now considering the offer and it is believed they will shortly approach the commission with a request to permit this pool to be set up along somewhat the lines of the National Credit Corporation recently organized by the banking industry.

On this basis, the pool would be a common fund, out of which loans but not gifts would be made to individual railways, which would carry a definite rate of interest and eventually would be repaid. When the emergency has passed, the fund would then be distributed back to the railways from which originally received, together with any earnings which may have accrued in the meantime.

"What the outcome of the negotiations shortly to be entered upon between the railways and the Interstate Commerce Commission may be, no one can foretell, Mr. Parmelee said, "but I trust I have made it clear how important it is to investment bankers that railway credit shall be maintained in full degree, and how impelling were the motives which led the railways to file an application for increased freight rates.

"In the meantime, many problems confront the railways. They are met with increasing competition from waterways, from motor trucks and motor buses on the highways, and even from airways. Many problems of regulation, competition and coordination must be met, but I have faith to believe that they will be met, in order that this, our largest consolidated industry, may develop along normal lines and may continue to supply the fundamental service of transportation to the American people.

Any Plan Will Aid.

"In addition, any plan that may now be set up, whether it is initiated by the railways themselves or by the administration at Washington, will assist the railway industry to meet its interest payments and its maturing funded obligations promptly and fully. The effect of such a result will be to hearten public confidence in all investments and will unquestionably improve the market for rail securities in the future."

Floyd Gilbert Blair, formerly located here as legal adviser to the World War Foreign Debt Commission and to the Secretary of the Treasury on foreign financial matters, was elected vice president of the National City Bank of New York yesterday.

Mr. Blair became identified with the National City Bank of New York in 1927 and two years later went with the National City Co. In his new work he will function in connection with the office of the chairman, Charles E. Mitchell, where he will act as a special assistant and liaison officer.

Curb Review

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—The curb market fell back substantially under realizing sales today in sympathy with financial markets generally.

Losses ranged from fractions to 3 points in prominent issues, but stock was not pressed for sale in large volume, the turnover approximately 270,000 shares, or 130,000 less than yesterday's.

The market stiffened a little in the late trading, and final prices were somewhat above the lowest in some of the more active shares. Late support for Electric Bond & Share was notable. This issue regained most of a decline of ¾ of a point.

American Gas & Electric recovered more than half of a loss of 2⅝ points, United Light "A" held up well, closing unchanged, after a temporary sag of a minor fraction. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore lost 1¼ points in a small turnover.

In the industrials, Aluminum Co. of America lost 3 points, and Deere & Mead Johnson nearly 2. Some issues moved against the trend. A. O. Smith, which is traded in very small volume, closed nearly 5 points higher, and Pan-American Airways rose about a point.

Oils were notably heavy. Gulf and Humble dropped 2 points each, and Indiana was off a fraction at the finish. In the mines, Bunker Hill lost 2 points, and Newmont nearly as much.

STOCK MARKET SAGS WITH PROFIT-TAKING

Losses in Prices Are Small; Rails Add Some Gains in General Decline.

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Recent speculators for the advance accepted profits in the financial markets today, giving a lower direction to security and grain prices.

Wheat's reaction had been quite expected here; some brokerage houses were surprised that it had not come sooner. Therefore the losses of around 3 cents a bushel, accompanied by larger declines in rye and somewhat smaller recessions in corn, caused little concern, although the immediate effect was a sympathetically heavy share market. Bonds, too, gave ground after their advance of eight days' duration.

Bar silver advanced a cent and a half to 37¼ cents an ounce, but heavy realizing was encountered by futures which spent a busy day. Rubber lost more than half a cent a pound.

Rail stocks offered the best resistance in shares, many principal issues of that description closing with small gains as the result of a last-minute mark-up. Earlier attempts to bolster bullish spirits through the medium of the same group failed; nevertheless the decline by utilities and industrials was slow, and net losses in most instances were confined to a point or so. The turnover dropped to 1,717,552 shares, against yesterday's volume of slightly over 3,000,000.

Prices Above Bottom.

Prices generally finished above the bottom. U. S. Steel reduced an extreme loss of more than 2 to 1¼. Net declines in Bethlehem, National Biscuit, American Can, General Electric, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Westinghouse and Union Carbide ran from 1 to 1¾. American Telephone and Corn Products were off about 2. Beechnut Packing and Bethlehem preferred showed independent strength. In the rails, Santa Fe, Norfolk & Western, Union Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania ranged from a fraction to a point higher.

Metal issues were off, possibly because of the reported deadlock reached by the international producers who have been discussing curtailment.

The day's industrial and trade news was largely negative. United States Steel Corporation's October unfilled tonnage statement showed a decline of 25,401 tons, which was in line with predictions. Although operations increased slightly toward the end of last month new business was meager at best, and most of the improvement seen in the industry has come in November. Commenting on prospects, American Metal Market said: "The course of affairs to date indicates that November will show a substantial decrease over October, perhaps two or three points, but the balance of probability is that December will show a corresponding loss." Prices remain steady.

Car Loadings Decline.

Loadings of revenue freight in the week ended October 31 declined 29,310 cars. Shipments tend downward after October, but this loss was probably larger than Wall street had expected.

The new British government's announced intention of stabilizing sterling had a firming effect on that exchange during most of the day, although a gain of around a cent and a half was more than lost. The final cable rate was $3.80½, off a cent. German marks and French francs improved, while Shanghai was strong. The Japanese yen recovered yesterday's small loss.

Wheat closed slightly above the session's lowest quotations, the range of losses being about 2¾ to 3¼. Rye was down 4 to 5 cents and corn yielded 2 cents or more. Cotton, steadier than the grains, finished 40 to 70 cents a bale lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Grains lurched heavily downward today, and at the last were sprawling 5 cents and more a bushel below the recent top figures.

Wheat and rye specially showed signs of having been much overbought for at least the time being, with opinions prevalent that a swift advance here of 2¼ cents for wheat and rye of late, with 16¾ cents gain in corn, was making a better export market for Argentine and Australian wheat at the expense of North American. Indications that United States farmers were rushing their grain shipments forward wholesale to take advantage of high prices added to widespread belief that a topheavy market condition had come about, with some reaction inevitable.

Wheat closed nervous, 2¾@3¼ cents lower than yesterday's finish, rye 3⅞@5⅝, corn showing 2⅜@2⅞ loss, oats at 7⅛@11¼ decline and provisions varying from 27 cents drop to 5 cents gain.

Correct anticipation that the Government crop report, due after the close of trading today, would prove bearish had a disturbing effect from the outset, and so, too, did preholiday urgency to realize profits, the Board of Trade being closed tomorrow, Armistice Day. Acute weakness which developed in rye had a further unsettling influence on the entire list. Rye toppled over more readily than other cereals owing to the fact that scarcely a dozen brokers are devoted themselves to rye, whereas the wheat, corn and oats pits have an attendance totaling many hundreds.

Rye reached its lowest level during the final dealings, showing a maximum setback of 5⅜ cents. The extreme drop in wheat was 5 cents below its recent high point, and was also experienced just before the close. An outstanding bearish factor as to wheat was word that only 600,000 bushels of North American wheat had been taken for shipment overseas, and that even of this total the bulk was from Canada, not the United States.

Stock market downturns and some moisture relief in domestic winter wheat territory Southwest added to the handicaps of bulls in grain. Confirmation of frost damage to Argentina wheat failed to act as a counterbalance.

Corn and oats traders saw their enthusiasm for higher prices stifled by the action of wheat and rye. The Government crop report showed a 1931 yield of corn of 23,000,000 bushels in excess of private estimates, making the total available supply of corn for the 1931-32 season 2,774,000,000 bushels, compared with 2,171,000,000 last year.

Provisions followed the downward trend of grains.

Rails, Utilities and Foreigns Score Varying Declines; Industrials Gain.

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—The bond market declined irregularly today, interrupting the upward movement which had prevailed since October 30.

Railroad, public utility, and foreign issues scored varying declines, which ranged as high as 7 points in the last-named group. Industrial obligations made small irregular gains. United State Government loans divided their net changes about evenly between gains and losses.

Argentine and German obligations made many of the larger losses. The turnover in them was heavier than in other loans of their group. The weakness in the former was not surprising in view of the sharp gains made by them when the upward trend prevailed.

German bonds dropped sharply. The 7s of 1949 of the federal government dropped 3⅜ points and the 5½s of 1965 lost 3 points. Berlin City Electric 6s lost 7 points. Japanese 5½s and 6½s recovered early losses and closed with net gains of 2 and 2½ points, respectively. Loans of the City of Tokyo, Toho Electric Power, Oriental Development, and Taiwan Electric Power suffered sizable losses.

The slump among the domestic issues was not so sharp as in the foreign group. Industrial obligations even rose irregularly. Armour 4½s of 1939, Consolidation Coal 5s, Goodyear 5s, Lorillard debenture 5s, Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 5s and 6s, Union Oil 5s, Standard Oil of New York 4½s, and Shell Union Oil 5s closed with good gains.

Southern Railway general 6s, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s, Pennsylvania Power & Light 4½s, several loans of the Missouri Pacific, Interborough stamped and refunding 5s, International Telephone 5s and debenture and convertible 4½s, and American Telephone 5s of 1965 receded on active trading.

G. U. PERFECTS AIR DEFENSE FOR WEST VA. INVASION

Shimmins to Play Full Back; Callahan at Center Post.

Doyle, Mountaineers' Pass-Tossing Ace, Reputed Clever.

By JACK ESPEY.

PASS defense is being stressed as Georgetown prepares for West Virginia, its homecoming game foe next Saturday, and one or two changes in the Hilltop starting line-up may be effected to build the strongest possible fortification against the famed Mountaineer aerial attack.

In all probability big Fred Callahan, 6-foot-5-inch sophomore, will supplant the veteran Charley McManus at the center position, while Johnny Shimmins, another sophomore but a midget in comparison with Callahan, is likely to replace Leroy Bordeau, the battering ram, at full back.

With both Callahan and Shimmins in the game, Georgetown should present its best defense against passes, for these two players have displayed better than average ability to frustrate enemy toses. Shimmins, though he lacks an inch or two of the height of Bordeau, is adjudged a "more cagey" player when it comes to anticipating and knocking down aerials

Callahan's Height Is Advantage.

Callahan, by virtue of his extreme height, needs little else to stress his value in this respect, but in addition the tall center does possess a knack of getting to the very spot, or objective, of a passing attack where it is fairly simple for him to make an interception or bat the ball to the ground, as circumstances warrant.

The West Virginia forward passing offense is built around Johnny Doyle, veteran half back. Georgetown scouts who have watched him in a couple of games, declare he is one of the best passers in college ranks today.

Doyle is cool under fire, refuses to allow on-rushing line men to hurry him, and throws with unerring accuracy, according to the scouts. When a West Virginia pass misses fire, for a reason other than good work by the defensive side, they claim, the fault lies not with Doyle but with the receiver.

Gellis' Return Unlikely.

Hopes for the return of Ben Gellis, clever-running half back, to Georgetown's regular line-up were all but squashed yesterday, only a day after they had arisen, because Gellis showed marked effects of his knee injury while attempting to exercise during the afternoon practice at Griffith Stadium. When he tried to run other than on a straight course, he was brought to a sudden stop by severe pains. A cartilage in the knee was torn more than a month ago, and it seems now that he will not be in proper condition to play for a week or ten days longer, possibly the balance of the season.

Sweden and Spain Will Enter Olympics

Stockholm, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Sweden's participation in the 1932 Olympic games, both at Lake Placid, N. Y., and Los Angeles, has been decided upon.

Among the more prominent members of the winter sports team are Sven Utterstron, famous long-distance skiier; Gillis Grafstrom, several times world and Olympic fancy skating champion and Vivi-Anne Hulten, a fancy skater who has won many European awards.

Madrid, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—The Spanish cabinet has authorized the sending of a team to the 1932 Olympic games, it was announced today.

The national athletic federation is hopeful the cabinet will be generous in its appropriation so a representative team may be sent to Los Angeles. Spain is especially strong in fencing, football, tennis and track.

Helsingfors, Finland, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—The Finnish Olympic committee today decided not to send any representatives to compete in the skiing events of the 1932 winter Olympic games at Lake Placid.

Gledhill Rated No. 1 In College Tennis

Stanford Ace Leads 1931 Rankings; Jacobs Is Placed Sixth.

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Keith Gledhill, Intercollegiate Tennis champion from Stanford, has been named No. 1 on the intercollegiate ranking list filed with the United States Lawn Tennis Association by Prof. Burnham Dell, of Princeton, chairman of the intercollegiate committee.

Gledhill, doubles mate of the national champion, Ellsworth Vines, won the intercollegiate title at Haverford, Pa., last June from Bruce Barnes, of the University of Texas, 1—6, 6—2, 6—1, 6—4.

Barnes is No. 2 followed by David Jones, Columbia; Ted Burwell, Sewanee; Bryant Grant, North Carolina; Eddie Jacobs, Pittsburgh; Robert Ryan, Yale; Junior Coen, Kansas; Don Strachan, Princeton and Earl Taylor, Texas.

Barnes and his doubles partner, Karl Kamrath, were ranked No. 1 in doubles, followed by Strachan and Walter Thomas, of Princeton, Joseph Case and Charles Green, Pennsylvania, Ryan and William Bascom, Yale, and Jones and Raymond Stone, Columbia.

WIDENER WINS ABROAD.

Lincoln Park, England, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—J. E. Widener's Victory VI, at odds of 9 to 4, today won the Elsham Maiden Plate at 1½ miles by two lengths from B. Dennis' Caress and three others. The purse was £110 (about $418).

Alabama Back Field to Be Seen in Charity Game Here

The quartet of ball carriers who carried the Alabama Crimson Tide through an undefeated season in 1930 and who ran roughshod over Washington State in the Pasadena Rose Bowl game, is pictured above. They will be seen in action here when the Alabamans meet Georgetown, Catholic University and George Washington for the benefit of the District's unemployed on December 12. Left to right, John "Hurry" Cain, full back; Johnny "Soup" Campbell, quarter back; "Flash" Suther, half back, and Ralph McRight, half back.

C. U. ELEVEN MUST STOP BRUBAKER

St. Francis Star Real Threat to Cards Friday Night.

ONE of the most colorful athletes in the history of Western Maryland will be here in a St. Francis uniform when Catholic University is met at Griffith Stadium Friday night, 8:15 o'clock. Speese Brubaker, half back with the undefeated "Green Terrors" of 1929 and a year ago, looms as the outstanding threat to be offered by the "Red Flashes" when play is launched.

Versatile to a marked degree, Brubaker is best known for his spectacular broken-field running and driving power. Both likely will be utilized in an effort to upset the high-stepping Cardinals.

Saints Boast Strong Line.

Franklin Brubaker will be a smart and aggressive collection of backs and a rugged, powerful forward wall. Both were prominent in an early season triumph over Buffalo and Canisius and in a near upset of Geneva College.

Having checked the high scoring proclivities of Davis Elkins a few weeks ago, the Red Flashes Friday night will be out to sew up Tom Whelan, fleet C. U. half back. Having scouted the Cardinals in Pittsburgh recently, Head Coach Stringer this week is planning a defense calculated to hold Whelan well in check.

Warned to prepare thoroughly for Friday night's game, the Cardinals yesterday resumed work in high gear. Dusk had gathered over the field and night was approaching before the athletes were released.

C. U. Tackling Pleases Coach.

Tackling, passing and a brisk scrimmage instituted the routine stressed by Coach Bergman and his assistants. The tackling was particularly pleasing to the Cardinal mentor who commended his players for their general improvement in this department.

Army Scrubs Score Twice With Pitt Plays

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 10 (U.P.).—After two days of rest Army's squad was back on the gridiron today and went through a long workout. The Cadets were drilled in new plays designed for the Pittsburgh battle Saturday. The varsity line, intact, worked with three sets of backs. The one consisting of Carver at quarter, Brown and Sticker at the halves and Kilday at full, displayed the best form.

During the varsity's defensive drill a strong scrub eleven scored twice with Pittsburgh plays. Tomorrow and Thursday Maj. Sasse will again send the Cadets through lengthy periods of practice against Pitsburgh formations.

Nurmi Sets Marathon As 1932 Olympic Goal

Helsingfors, Finland., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Paavo Nurmi, world's greatest distance runner, today said he would run the marathon at the 1932 Olympic games at Los Angeles and promised to do it under 2 hours, 30 minutes for a new all-time record.

Nurmi, called the "Phantom Finn," has held every record from a mile up to 10,000 meters and has competed in three Olympics, but never at more than 10,000 meters.

His speed decreasing with age, he is 34, Nurmi has been turning to the longer distances where his sense of pace and the stamina stored up on black bread and fish count.

Baer's $5,000 Purse Held Up in Squabble

San Francisco, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—A $5,000 purse due Max Baer, Oakland (Calif.) heavyweight, for his fight last night with Johnny Risko was held up today by the State athletic commission because of a squabble between the fighter and his manager, Ham Lorimer. Baer won the bout by a decision.

Baer demanded the money be paid him direct. The commission stood on its rule that all purses be paid through its offices. The ruling states the fighter must be paid two-thirds of the purse and the manager one-third.

Both Baer and Lorimer claim the other owes him money.

Only Schmeling Bout Interests Jack Dempsey

Des Moines, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey is interested mainly in a fight with only one ranking heavyweight, champion Max Schmeling.

Leonard Sacks, his business manager, said that when Dempsey was convinced that he was ready he would prefer to meet the champion.

Sacks denied he had wired Jimmy Johnston, manager of the New York Madison Square Garden, that he would be in New York soon to discuss fights. He said he and Dempsey would go to New York in January on a visit but "not to talk fights."

Young French Team Ties for Bike Lead

Chicago, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—During two hours of wild jamming tonight, the French youngsters, Georges Coupry and Michel Mecqueux, and the German-American team of Franz Deulberg and Willie Grimm, forged into a tie for the lead in Chicago's twenty-sixth international six-day bicycle race at the Chicago Stadium. The leaders had covered 896 miles, nine laps.

The French Red Devil Team, Alfred Letourner and Marcel Guimbretiere, which had been in the lead or tied almost since the start, dropped back a lap behind the leaders, and the Italian-American pair, Learco Guerra and Reggie McNamara, which had been involved in the tie, was another lap farther back.

Tulane-Georgia Stake Title Hopes

Loser Out of Conference, National Race; Smith and Dalrymple in Duel.

Atlanta, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—A football drama of the first magnitude, with a national and a conference championship at stake, and with an incidental sideshow which probably will settle one all-American selection if not more, will be presented at Athens, Ga., next Saturday.

The Undefeated Georgia Bulldogs meet the undefeated Tulane Green Wave with the memory that last year the Green Wave triumphed, 25 to 0, wrecking a hitherto untarnished record. Both teams have national and Southern Conference aspirations, and furthermore, Tulane has been mentioned as a possible Rose Bowl nominee.

On the side—in fact, on the left end of the Georgia Team and on the right of the Tulane Team—will be two men mentioned above any others this year for all-America end positions, Vernon Shelton (Catfish) Smith and Jerry Dalrymple, respectively. The scrap between Catfish and Jerry will be worth miles of travel to see, and will go a long way toward establishing the individual supremacy of possibly the two most talked-of players in Dixie. Both have been mentioned prominently for two years or more as the ultimate pick in their jobs.

Eastern Grid Ranking in Balance

Ithacans Will Oppose Dartmouth; Only 3 Teams Unbeaten.

By L. S. CAMERON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—Supremacy of Eastern College football stands in a way of being determined this week. The so-called championship of this sector will hang in the balance at the three best games of Saturday. They are Cornell-Dartmouth, Syracuse-Colgate, Harvard-Holy Cross.

The rapidly waning season has left Cornell, Syracuse and Harvard with the finest records of the East. These teams have escaped defeat or tie, although their escutcheons were risked in honest competition.

None of Three Has Soft Spot.

Not one of this glorified triumvirate has a soft touch this week. The much sung Barry Wood, of Harvard, will have his hands full of such Holy Cross stars as Cavalieri and Colucci, probably the best pair of ends in the East. Although Holy Cross lost to Dartmouth and tied Fordham, this eleven is possessed of the confidence that bespeaks possible victory, and a defeat for Harvard would not be a rank upset.

Cornell, perhaps, has the toughest assignment of the three Eastern aces. Cornell's record of no defeat or tie was made at the expense of no more rugged adversaries than Columbia and Princeton. Cornell has a fine pair of backs in Ferraro and Viviano, but these lads have yet to meet a strictly first flight eleven. They will find such a combination in the Dartmouth varsity headed by McCall and Norton. Dartmouth has suffered a surprising defeat by Columbia, a paper-thin 7-6 defeat by Harvard and scored a brilliant 33-33 tie with Yale. Thus it would seem that Dartmouth is primed for victory.

The oldest football development of the latter day, a team without a star, will be facing a heavy team and a traditional rival in the Syracuse-Colgate game. Friends at Syracuse have told the writer that Coach Vic Hanson has stressed the nonstarring idea. The plan has borne success, as witness the Syracuse record of victory against Ohio Wesleyan, Florida, Penn State, Michigan State and Western Reserve.

Syracuse Coach Stresses Teamwork.

The Syracuse campus rings the praises of Bullet Joe Moran, plunging half back, and Fishel, full back, but Hanson talks about teamwork. Colgate, on the other hand, has a grand collection of individual stars, notably Orsi, at end; Ask, half back, and Litster, full back.

Defeat of Harvard, Cornell and Syracuse would leave the East with no team boasting a perfect record. This would be a fine thing for sports conversations but it wouldn't help Eastern prestige which already is quite low enough.

Irish Amateurs Beat American Boxers, 4-3

Dublin, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Irish amateur boxers defeated the visiting American team four matches to three tonight before a large crowd, which included Governor General MacNeill. All matches were won by decisions except the light-heavyweight bout in which Jim Murphy scored a technical knockout over Joe Melham, of Kansas City.

King James Was Pioneer Enemy of Football With Royal Edict Back in 1314

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The game of football, which will come under the usual attack at the end of the present season, has always been a troublesome sport. The historians of the game report that football, like golf, was forbidden by royal order in England as early as 1314 because men played it to the neglect of their archery.

It seems a definite human trait to kick a ball, however, for football has been discovered in one crude form or another among primitive peoples, in all latitudes, who apparently thought of this sport themselves. So the English clods probably continued to play their game of football, risking death not only at play but by the royal displeasure, just as the stubborn Tyroleans somehow have managed to yodel in secret since Mussolini forbade the yodel as an unpatriotic and pernicious practice. It is reported that the Tyroleans of the captured provinces indulge in secret illegal yodeling to this day in a spirit akin to that of those obdurate Americans who continue to drink intoxicating beverages contrary to law.

Subsequent royal orders in England confirmed the earliest one on the same grounds, and King James forbade football on the additional and now familiar ground of brutality. The more venerable American football coaches, in their studies of the game, have learned from the encyclopedia and reported in their professional lectures and writings, without crediting their information to its source, as I hasten to do, that this monarch denounces football as being "meeter for laming than making able the users thereof."

For that matter, if he lived today and perused the midweek casualty reports from various colleges in the United States he would have no trouble at all presenting an argument to the effect that football, the man-builder, as the coaches and other pleaders for the game and their various pertinent jobs describe it, is really a man-wrecker and still "meeter for laming than making able the users thereof."

However, I do not wish to join the denunciations of the games, series of 1931, on this ground, realizing that more men are damaged worse by indiscreet eating than by football and that the casualties on the field, including even the deplorable major injuries and deaths, are few by comparison with the casualties of other pleasures which draw no general condemnation.

A man can't spend his life hiding under the bed. In Boston the other day I read that in Maine, where extraordinary legal precautions are taken to protect the hunters from one another in the fall, there had been nevertheless either eight or twelve—I forget which—fatalities in the woods. It was frightful to watch

Columbia U. Student Paper Hits Football As "Semipro Racket"

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Spectator, student daily of Columbia University, today fired an editorial broadside at intercollegiate football, terming it a "semiprofessional racket operated largely for the alumni and the general public."

Members of college football teams under the present arrangements, Spectator said, are little more than "semiprofessional athletes hired by assistant coaches who make annual pilgrimages to prep schools and high schools in search of football material" and the coach, a "czar who dominates the life and activities of his team."

Football now has no place on intercollegiate fields, it continued, but "belongs in professional stadia."

Spectator urged that coaches be placed on the same salaries as professors, football players be required to have a high academic standing and that the game be given back to the students.

Holy Cross Is Hit Hard by Injuries

Kelly, Full Back, Out of Game With Harvard; Understudy Hurt.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 10 (A.P.).—The news in Holy Cross' camp today was bad. Don Kelly, first-string full back, is definitely out of the Harvard game. Kelly's understudy, Hanus, is suffering from a shoulder injury and Coach McEwan has been forced to switch Griffin to full back and put Bob Donovan in at half back. The other back field members are the veterans O'Connell and Murray.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 10 (U.P.).—The Harvard back field that faces Holy Cross Saturday probably will include some sophomores, although Coach Eddie Casey said he plans to send his best men into the fray. Jack Crickard, ball-carrying ace, may not be able to play because of bruises received in the Dartmouth game, and Casey busied himself today looking for a full back to replace Bernie White.

Notre Dame To Practice In Capital

Will Drill Friday at Congressional Club for Navy Game.

Low Score Seen as Chief Hope of Midshipmen.

WASHINGTON is a stopping-over point on the itinerary of Notre Dame's unbeaten football team, which comes East from South Bend this week-end to meet Navy in Baltimore Saturday. Coach Heartley "Hunk" Anderson and the latest edition of the "Irish" eleven are due to arrive at Brookland, D. C., Friday morning at 8 o'clock.

The squad at that time will attend church services at the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception on the grounds of Catholic University and will breakfast in the university dining hall.

For the remainder of the day and until Saturday morning at 11 o'clock the Ramblers will be quartered at the Congressional Country Club. A secret practice is scheduled Friday afternoon. The trip to Baltimore will be made by train.

Long Hike for Navy Regulars.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 10.—Following a day of rest yesterday in the wake of the bruising game against Ohio State last Saturday, the regular Navy football players were taken on a long cross-country hike today and appeared to enjoy it immensely. The junket served the purpose of working out joint and muscle kinks preparatory to getting back to gridiron activities tomorrow afternoon for the final polish and pep for the herculean task that confronts them Saturday in the battle with the all-powerful Notre Dame outfit to be staged in Baltimore Stadium.

The Middies have been going at a lively pace since the start of the season, taking rather unexpected bumps with only three victories out of six starts to their credit. And coaches and players alike realize that the Ramblers will be the toughest assignment of all. With each succeeding game the Tars have been tightening up and showing improvement here and there, but their chief weakness seems to be inability to develop a real scoring punch.

Navy Hopes to Keep Scoring Low.

Navy by no means has the manpower or perfection of team play such as Notre Dame possesses; but it is certain that the Sailors will be full of fight, as Navy teams always are, and prepared to put forth their best efforts, with hopes built chiefly upon holding the score to as low a margin as possible. Players who suffered from the battering with the Buckeyes are coming around in fine shape, and Head Coach Rip Miller is ready to trot the best he has in stock on the field to start hostilities with the South Benders. It is thought here that the policy of the Navy mentors will be to make frequent replacements in the course of the battle in an effort to check the Irish.

Coach Miller has not determined whether "Bert" Davis will continue at quarter back or that Jack Denny, who has been the field general since the start of the season, will be returned to the job. Davis played throughout the Ohio State game. It was his first start in a regular varsity contest, and Miller was much impressed with his showing. No other changes in the line-up are indicated, with the possible exception that "Laurie" Elliott may not be in shape to hold down the right flank. If he does not get in, the choice will be between Born and Pray.

Extra! Jim Londos Retains Mat Crown

New York, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Jim Londos, of Greece, claimant of the heavyweight wrestling championship, threw Herb Freeman, of New York, with a head scissors and wrist lock after 24 minutes and 51 seconds of grappling in their finish bout tonight. Londos weighed 200 pounds, Freeman 220.

In the semifinal, Sammy Stein, 200, of Newark, N. J., tossed Jean La Due, 205, of France, in 12 minutes 57 seconds. Ralph Wilson, 206, of Philadelphia, threw Ivan Zaharoff, 218, of Russia, in 25 minutes 45 seconds. Justino Giraldi, 206, Italy, threw Gene Bruce, 205, Finland, in 15 minutes 9 seconds. Renato Gardini, 200, Italy, and Babe Caddock, 198, New Haven, Conn., drew in a 30-minute-limit match.

Sailor McKenna Set For Burns Go Monday

Though defeated on decision by Vince Serio in Baltimore last Monday night, Sailor McKenna, local lightweight star, emerged from the bout in good physical condition and will be ready to engage Bobby Burns next Monday night in the eight-round semifinal on the Billy Schwartz-Sammy Weiss card at Alexandria.

McKenna drew with Burns in their first meeting last month at Fort Washington. He is anxious to gain the verdict this time.

Finishing touches on the remodeling of the old Portner Building, scene of the show, will be made today. The program is being arranged under auspices of the Day Nursery Athletic Association, which will turn over the proceeds, minus expenses, to the Alexandria Day Nursery.

Tickets are on sale in Washington at Vic Gauzza's sport store.

SACHS SUED BY WIFE.

Chicago, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Leonard Sacks, manager of Jack Dempsey, was made defendant today in a suit for separate maintenance filed by Mrs Gladys Marie Sacks, whom he married last January 27, at Jersey City, N. J. Her petition alleged Sacks deserted her on October 11, and that he has an income of $5,000 weekly.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE East will be able to feast its eyes on the first post-Rockne edition of Notre Dame's football team for the first time this season when the rampaging Ramblers from South Bend sally into Baltimore Municipal Stadium on Saturday for the game with Navy's embattled forces.

Heartly Anderson has done well, with the material bequeathed him by the old master. There has been no need to exhort his lads to "carry on for Rockne." They took the bit in their teeth from the start of the season and with the exception of a scoreless tie with Northwestern in the mud have exhibited a positive lust for touchdowns that was not appeased until the opposition was thoroughly whipped.

Rockne gave the Nation the tip-off on the 1931 team a few weeks before he met his sad fate in an airplane crash last year. "It would do the boys a lot of good to lose a couple of games next season," he said. "But on the other hand, I don't think they will."

The graduation of Frank Carideo and Marty Brill, coheroes of Marchy Schwartz in the 1930 back field, seriously impaired the outlook for this season. But their loss has been offset by the smart improvement in the Notre Dame line which now is hailed as the greatest set of forwards ever to represent any Notre Dame team or any other team.

It is significant that only one team has been able to score against Notre Dame this season. That was Pittsburgh, which accounted for two touchdowns. Indiana, Northwestern, Carnegie Tech, and Pennsylvania were held scoreless. And all of these teams were unbeaten when met by the Ramblers, who alone have ruined the championship aspirations of three of the East's top-ranking elevens.

In their march to greater gridiron glory for Notre Dame the Rambler regulars have averaged only twenty minutes to each game, testimony of the reserve strength that Anderson packs on the bench. In one contest, against Drake, Anderson sent 57 players into action, with no noticeable slack in scoring power or defensive play. The injury bugaboo means nothing to Notre Dame.

Navy's position in the game Saturday is extremely unfortunate. The Midshipmen, on past performances, are expected to offer only a workout for the Ramblers. A respectable score is the chief hope of Navy, although the Middies won't admit it.

The coming of the Navy-Notre Dame game is reminiscent of the last clash of the two teams at Baltimore. The score was close, won by Notre Dame by one touchdown, but the scoring of that touchdown was epic.

Christy Flanagan, who had been the hero of the Army game the year before, crawled from under his blanket on the Notre Dame bench in the second half to do something about the tie that existed. Navy was giving the Ramblers a fierce battle and had scored a touchdown early.

Notre Dame received the ball deep in its own territory on a punt. Then Flanagan took up the offensive. He ripped a first down through tackle. He plunged and danced to another first down. He was given the ball on no less than seven straight plays and single-handed advanced it to the Navy 3-yard line. They couldn't stop him.

Navy's defense massed at the goal line for the next play. All eyes were on Flanagan, who had ripped the Middies' defense to shreds on a 70-yard march. The ball was snapped and Flanagan crashed through. He was met by a stalwart wall of Midshipmen and thrown for no gain. But he didn't have the ball. Little Johnny Niemic, quarter back, had faked passing the ball to Flanagan and then withdrew it as Flanagan hit the line. Niemic calmly walked around left end for the decisive touchdown, untouched by a Navy hand. Just one of Rockne's scoring plays.

Swiderski and Sekyra Ordered Out of Ring

Boston, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Paul Swiderski, Syracuse heavyweight, and Joe Sekyra, of Dayton, Ohio, tonight were ordered from the ring in the eighth round by Referee Joe O'Connor, who declared their scheduled ten-round bout a no-contest. Swiderski appeared to have a slight lead when the tame action was halted. He weighed 189 and Sekyra scaled 181.

Court Practices Under Way at C.U.

Ten Candidates Report to Cotton, New Coach, at Initial Drill.

Ten candidates answered Coach Forrest Cotton's call when Catholic University's basket ball material was summoned out at Brookland Auditorium last night. The squad was depleted due to the inability of football-playing aspirants to put in an appearance.

A brief address by Cotton, who was making his debut as basket ball director, and passing the ball comprised the initial workout. The routine will be lengthened as the week progresses.

Those turning out last night were McNerney, Cannazzarro, Darowish and Daly, forwards; Donovan and Galiher, centers, and Cacciola, Cubeta, Spinelli and Myers, guards.

HIGH DEVINE WINS PIMLICO HOMEBRED SPRINT IN ROMP

Bonnie Prince, Long Shot, Triumphs in First Race.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Nov. 10.—Audley Farm's High Divine, coupled with Wise Count, won the day's feature, the Home Bred, for 2-year-olds, $2,500 added, at 6 furlongs. Greentree Stable's Espinaca was second, beaten a length and a half and W. N. Coe's Masked Knight got third money, and Hey There fourth. The race was an upset, J. E. Widener's Stagecraft, odds-on favorite, being out of the money, and the crowd jeered at Mack Garner when he came back to the scales after the defeat of the Widener filly.

High Divine led most of the way and was followed for a time by his stablemate, Wise Count, which dropped out of contention. Hey There was in front for a short time before Wise Count, ridden by Peter Walls, took the track. Espinaca, far out of it entering the stretch, came fast on the outside, passing the field, with the sole exception of High Divine. The time for the race was 1:11 3-5. The value to the winner was $3,020. The winner paid $9.30. Espinaca was $21.60 for place.

Bonnie Prince Captures Opener.

A Schuttinger, former jockey, who now has a small stable of racers, sent a good one to the post in the first race for maiden 2-year-olds, in Bonnie Prince, which led all the way, winning easily at a mile and 70 yards, with Ambrose up, in 1:45 1-5. He paid $19.80. Morris' Pennywise was second and Mrs. Grace Denny's Spanfair third. The start was good, with little delay. Bonnie Prince was rushed at once to the front and kept going.

Syriac, owned by Mayor Frank Hayes, of Waterbury, won the second race by five lengths, showing improvement under Workman, in place of Jockey Gilbert. Arras, Nertney's mount, and the pacemaker to the stretch, was second, four lengths in front of the third horse, Squeeze Play, the favorite. Bright Day was fourth. The distance was a mile and a furlong, the time being 1:52 2-5. The only change during the order of running by the three money horses was when Syriac, who had been second, moved up to take the lead and draw away. The winner paid $9.30.

H. G. Bedwell's entry ran first and second in the Bred-at-Home Purse for horses foaled in Maryland, the winner being Fair Folly, Nertney up, and Justiciary was second, a length and a half back, ridden by Gaither. S. W. Labrot's Annapolitan was third. The entry was favorite, paying $4.60 to win and $4.50 for place.

Fair Folly in Front at Far Turn.

There was a long delay at the barrier. Tewsenelda, who was fourth, was first away. Annapolitan took the lead on the back stretch, which Fair Folly overcame at the far turn, and her running mate also closed in the stretch to get ahead of the Labrot horse.

Greentree Stable's Byzantine won the fourth race for 2-year-old maidens, finishing a length away from C. V. Whitney's Habanero. Seagram Stable's Dark Secret was third. The time was 1:45 3-5, a mile and 70 yards. C. Kurtsinger kept Byzantine well up all the way, and Lanson, Marshall Field colt, saved ground on the first turn and for a time was second. The field was bunched a good part of the trip. Entering the stretch the Greenttree colt and Habanero fought it out. The winner paid $5.

Mack Garner made amends in the sixth race by a good ride on Mrs. Milton W. Holden's St. Francis, which overhauled Solace at the far turn and withstood a mild drive in the home stretch to win by two lengths going away. Bub McFarland was second and Honey Grove a poor third.

Solace set up a long lead for 7 furlongs, but fell out of contention. The winner, much the best of the field, had been installed favorite and paid $4.30.

Wayfarer Finishes Fast In Final.

Wayfarer, carrying the colors of R. P. Watts, won the seventh race going away. Double O was second, and Fair Avis, third. Sir John Alden went to the front, taking a long lead on the back stretch, but was overtaken by Wayfarer, raced into defeat and dropped out of contention. Double O made a strong bid in the stretch, and was in front at one time. They ran the 9 furlongs in 1:54. The winner paid $13.30.

BONNIE PRINCE, avoiding interference going to the first turn, was taken under slight restraint when reaching the back stretch, responded stoutly when shaken up entering the home stretch and held PENNYWISE safe. Latter, prominent from the start, swerved badly all during the stretch run, but held on gamely. SPANFAIR worked his way up on the outside and was going willingly under pressure. JUSTA PEAK offered good contention in the early stages. He was badly blocked during the stretch run when PENNYWISE swerved in front of him. POPCORN could not menace the leaders. RENEWED was in much trouble at the first turn, recovered, but tired badly after entering contention.

SECOND RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 1:46. Off at 1:47½. Winner, F. Hayes' br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SYRIAC, $9.30, $4.60, $2.70; ARRAS, $3.10, $2.30; SQUEEZE PLAY, $2.50.

SYRIAC, rated close in pursuit of ARRAS, came determinedly to displace the latter when straightened into the home stretch, was kept under mild pressure thereafter and drew out steadily. ARRAS took command without effort, raced under slight restraint while saving ground, but was unable to meet the winner's effort when put to a drive. SQUEEZE PLAY, well up in the early stages, faltered fast when the real test came. BRIGHT DAY had and the others were held perfectly safe.

THIRD RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,500; claiming. The Bred at Home. For all ages, foaled in Maryland. Start good from gates. Won ridden out. Place, driving. Went to post at 2:18½. Off at 2:29. Winner, H. G. Bedwell's b. f. (4), by Fair Gain—Charlotte C. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $200. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:14, 1:40 3-5, 1:45 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIR FOLLY (entry), $4.60, $4.50, $3.10; JUSTICIARY (entry), $4.50, $3.10; ANNAPOLITAN, $4.80.

FAIR FOLLY, fractious at the barrier and outrun for the first five furlongs, went to the outside for racing room, reached the leaders to take command when straightened into the home stretch and was under urging until the end. JUSTICIARY, stoutly ridden from the start, was in tight quarters when entering the home stretch, forced her way through a narrow opening and outfinished ANNAPOLITAN. Latter, hurried to the front, saved ground, shook off TEWSENELDA and held on gamely. TEWSENELDA made repeated efforts early, but faltered in the final drive. FAIR BETH could not threaten the leaders early. BLACK PATRICIA had no mishaps. WANDERING GOLD tired.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300. For maiden 2-year-old colts and geldings. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:03. Off at 3:05½. Winner, Greentree Stable's br. c. (2), by Brown Prince II—Theodora. Trained by W. Brennan. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:14 4-5, 1:40 4-5, 1:45 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BYZANTINE, $5.00, $3.70, $2.40; HABANERO, $8.20, $3.10; DARK CELT, $2.30.

BYZANTINE, going forwardly from the start, wore the leaders down to take command at the far turn, resisted stout contention from HABANERO and drew out slowly when put to punishment in the closing furlong. HABANERO worked his way up on the outside, made a stout bid, but faltered in the final drive. DARK CELT began slowly, entered contention by saving ground at the first turn, was taken up repeatedly during the run down the back stretch, finally came to the outside for racing room and closed gamely after losing a great deal of ground. LANSON showed speed in spots and between calls. GENERAL COURT raced well. UPRISE was used up early. NIGHT EDITION tired, as did HOW.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $2,500 added; allowances. The Pimlico Home Bred. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:36½. Off at 3:39. Winner, Audley Farm's b. c. (2), by High Cloud—Deviniere. Trained by E. Trueman. Value to winner, $3,020; second, $500; third, $300; fourth, $100. Time, 0:23, 0:47 1-5, 1:11 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HIGH DIVINE (entry), $9.30, $4.00, $3.50; ESPINACA, $21.60, $12.50; MASKED KNIGHT, $12.00.

HIGH DIVINE, rushed hard from the start, displaced HEY THERE leaving the back stretch, saved ground and, under good handling, had enough in reserve to stall off ESPINACA. Latter, unable to keep up with the leaders after breaking well, settled in her stride and closed full of run. MASKED KNIGHT slow to break, entered contention rapidly and continued gamely when the final drive came. HEY THERE was stoutly ridden all the way and had no excuses. AIR PILOT dropped back midway of the turn, but came again at the end. He was worked out a mile. STAGECRAFT was clear of interference the entire trip, but showed a dull effort under strong pressure. SPRINGSTEEL had a rough trip.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming; handicap. The Madison. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:10½. Off at 4:13½. Winner, Mrs. M. Holden's br. g. (3), by Stefan the Great—Franconia. Trained by H. McDaniel. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ST. FRANCIS, $4.30, $3.30, $2.40; BUB M'FARLAND, $3.80, $2.80; HONEY GROVE, $3.10.

ST. FRANCIS, taken under strong restraint for the first six furlongs, raced into the lead without effort, drew clear and was being eased inside the final furlong. BUB M'FARLAND improved his speed stoutly through the stretch and closed full of run in the final test. HONEY GROVE, kept under pressure from the start, was unable to reach the leaders. TRY IT was never a factor. SOLACE weakened badly after being overtaken. PRINCE PEST had no speed.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:45½. Off at 4:48. Winner, R. P. Two-dollar mutuels paid—WAYFARER, $13.30, $6.40, $4.30. DOUBLE O, $4.30, $3.80; FAIR AVIS, $6.60.

WAYFARER, kept within striking distance of SIR JOHN ALDEN, responded readily when shaken up, took command in the final furlong and had enough in reserve to withstand DOUBLE O. Latter, restrained off the pace for six furlongs, gained steadily when put to a drive and finished courageously. FAIR AVIS secured racing room on the inside to record contention. She came determinedly in the closing drive. CALL PLAY fought it out willingly. GOLD STAR finished with a rush. SIR JOHN ALDEN weakened badly. HERENDEEN was badly messed about after being taken up sharply after the break. The others were outrun.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Pimlico Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 10.—Masters of Fox Hounds Steeplechase, which besides being a society affair of proportions also is a severe test of 3 miles over the brush for horses, is up for its fourth running tomorrow, third on the program. Luncheons, chief of which will be the gathering of the masters of fox hounds from several States to break bread as guests of the Maryland Jockey Club, will make both clubhouses scenes of Old Line State fetes, and ceremonies also will mark the occasion in observance of Armistice Day.

The field of hunters is small, but has quality, and the main interest will be a chance to determine the question, often up for argument, which is the better, LAND BOY or ANNAPOLIS. LAND BOY won the last renewal of the race and in the record time of 6:05 3-5. The year previous Mabro won, and in its first running Bridge was victor. ANNAPOLIS and LAND BOY have never met, but comparative records make the two very close together. LAND BOY is regarded the best brush horse at 3 miles in the country and is selected to win. He carries about as much weight as a horse is allotted, 172 pounds, and ANNAPOLIS has 2 pounds less. TONY THE CLOWN is rated third in the field, and he is coupled with ROYAL DOULTON. The stake has an added value of $2,500. The trophy is now held by Mrs. Thomas H. Somerville, of Virginia.

FIRST RACE—SENADO looks best. He showed that 6 furlongs was his limit the last time out. MAD FRUMP will be the favorite, and with a fast start, which is improbable, he might take the purse. FREDERICK, like SENADO, is a front runner, and the result largely depends on whether MAD FRUMP can come from behind and win.

SECOND RACE—PLAYBILL will have WHAT HAVE YOU to beat. WHAT HAVE YOU ran an improved race last time out, but quit when in front. ANNIMASSIC has raced herself into condition and should be in the money.

The graded handicaps are to take up three races of the card, Class A, B and C.

FOURTH RACE—Grade A has a field of twelve, with one eligible. CON AMORE, giving away much weight, has a chance to win, at a mile and 70 yards. The filly equaled the record last week for 6 furlongs and can go on. Her chief danger is the Trainer Fitzsimmons entry of BLENHEIM and TOTE, the latter having run two impressive races here, winning both. MISSTEP is in light and may be dangerous.

FIFTH RACE—ORMESBY looks best in Grade B. ERIN QUEEN and BLIND LANE will offer most serious opposition. These three seem to outclass the opposition, and ORMESBY is best of the trio at the weights.

SIXTH RACE—PENNATE is selected, with MINE SWEEPER chief rival for the purse. ERIN QUEEN, if she starts in this race instead of the handicap, would be dangerous.

SEVENTH RACE—CAPLIN, far down on the eligible list, is much the best, but probably will fail to get in. Three scratches would let him in. Next best is HIEAWAY. WESTKO should be among the contenders and is picked for third money.

CAREY TALKS FRANKLY OF ROBINS

Says No Player on Team Is Immune From Trade.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Max Carey, former fleet-footed outfielder of the National League, rolled up his sleeves today and took over the management of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The man who succeeds "Uncle Wilbert" Robinson as curator of the Flatbush flock gave a lengthy audience to an office-full of newspapermen and discussed his aspirations. Not once, under a withering barrage of questions, did he dodge the issue, but looked the boys squarely in the eyes and gave his own answers.

The first question popped at him concerned Hack Wilson and Pat Malone. Was he in the market for the pair the Chicago Cubs have offered to the highest bidder?

"Positively not," said Carey. "I'd rather somebody else would take the gamble. Wilson is a fine ball player when he's going right and Malone is a good pitcher, but they're too big a gamble. I might take a chance on them at the waiver price, but I wouldn't pay big for them or exchange any of my stars for them."

Would Trade Any On Roster.

Were there any players on the Brooklyn roster he was particularly impressed with, whom he wouldn't consider trading?

"Not a one. We've got a bunch of good baseball players, but I'll trade any one of them in a minute if I figure it will help our chances at a pennant. Yes, I've got some trades in mind, but it's against the rules to discuss them now. I'm going to try to build up this club and win a flag at the same time. It can be done."

About his coaching staff Carey doesn't know. It is rumored Casey Stengel will be his right-hand man, but Carey hasn't fully decided.

"What I'm mostly concerned with right now is my pitching staff. It needs strengthening. We have some fine right-handers, but need a couple of good southpaws. There are several rookies who might fill the bill. If they don't come through, we will look elsewhere. Pitchers always are a gamble.

"Take Babe Phelps. He was one of the best in the league in 1930, but he never did get going last season. He might come back big next year and again he might not. Vance was the same way. If both of them should have a good year, we would be hard to beat.

Although he gives the impression he has taken a firm hold on his new job and intends to run the Robins the way Max Carey thinks best, he plans nothing radical.

KING JAMES FIRST ENEMY OF FOOTBALL

Dick Sheridan, the little cadet of the West Point team, dying of football injury a short time ago, but it would be quite as horrible to watch in an intimate way the expiring struggles of the people who are destroyed by traffic accidents on the highways leading to and from the football arenas. One night, coming from a big game at Yale, I counted five thorough wrecks between New Haven and Westport, Conn., and since it is the desire, almost the patriotic duty, of Americans to get more or less tight on big occasions nowadays, football undoubtedly entails worse consequences to the spectators than to the players.

Game Derived From Gang Battles.

The original game from which American football, soccer and English rugby were derived was that unformulated free-style ruckus which the English people were forbidden to play, but played, anyway, until the need for archery had been outlived and long beyond. In its beginning it was a sort of pleasure fight between gangs, often played in the narrow streets of London, and there is a suggestion of a moral problem in the fact that there was no stag rule. Robust ladies of the humbler social orders took part in the sport, and in a newspaper which goes into the American home it would not be nice to dwell upon the sinister aspects of mixed football.

At that stage, however, football was strictly a game or disorder of the lower classes and scorned by the upper classes, on the ground, no doubt, that no good ideas could come from below.

In my reading on the subject—and I may as well confess that I am not recalling all this from my personal observation—I have been unable to discover when football invaded the English schools which were upper-class, of course, but my encyclopedia tells me that football of a sort was played at Cambridge in 1697, as shown by an order forbidding, in effect, the students to get drunk in celebration of their football games.

Freshmen Compelled To Buy Drinks.

This would seem unduly severe in the United States today. It appears, also, that on Michaelmas Day there was always a big game, comparable, let us say, to a modern homecoming game in this country, and that the freshmen had to make speeches or buy drinks for the crowd. It is barely possible that this was the origin of the custom still practiced at West Point of making the plebes "unsound off" with "fixed opinions" at mess. I believe something happens to a plebe who does not sound off satisfactorily, but one thing I am certain of, he is not compelled to buy beer or ale for the crowd.

As the schools took up football, however, they modified it. The lower classes had played it in huge gangs with no apparent limit on the number to a side and, aside from a general object of kicking or carrying the ball somehow across the goal, there were no rules. In the schools, however, limits were set, objectives were stated and tackling was forbidden or encouraged, according to the nature of the battleground. Where the game was played in stone courts, the kicking and dribbling style was favored, and tackling, butting and so forth were avoided. At Rugby, where there was a grassy field, the opposite style was favored, and here began the division.

The kicking game developed into association football or soccer, which is a corruption of the word association, and rugby football was established as a distinct game of itself. The American national dementia was presently derived from rugby.

PIMLICO NOTES

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Nov. 10.—Members of the Hunts Committee from New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the Middle West, donors of the trophy of the Masters of Foxhounds Steeplechase to be run tomorrow, have been invited by the Maryland Jockey Club to a luncheon before the race, in the clubhouse.

The trophy now is held by Mrs. Thomas H. Somerville, of the Montpelier, Va., hunt. Masters of the four Maryland hunts, the Eldridge, Green Spring Valley, Harford and Howard County, also are invited to the luncheon.

EASTERN TO HAVE BEST ELEVEN AGAINST TECH TOMORROW

Kelley Plans Shifts in Line-Up

Campbell, Back, Adds Strength to Forward Line.

Beuchler and Lewis, New End Combine, to Face Tech.

THE return of "Ox" Campbell, big Eastern tackle, to the line-up will give Eastern the best combination it has had all year to send against Tech tomorrow afternoon in Central Stadium in the eighth game of the high school series. And Coach Mike Kelley is counting on that line to personally attend to the outcome of the game.

Campbell brings order to a frontal wall which has been shifted around in radical fashion since he was injured early in the season. Wolf and Smith, who have alternated between tackle, guard and end all season, are now back definitely in guard, their best post. Campbell will slip into tackle, while Capt. Charlie Mades is the other tackle. Bernie Lieb, center, is on a par, offensively and defensively, with any snapback in the series.

New Ends for Eastern Tomorrow.

Kelley will try a new combination of ends tomorrow, Beuchler and Lewis. Beuchler earned a place on the team in the Western game last week by some good wing attending, while Lewis has looked good enough this week to oust Courtney, regular end.

Back of the line Eastern will dodder along at best. Bus Boyd, quarter back, is back after being spilled about badly against Western, but Tony Palmer is not among the active. "Sparky" Adams, a good enough half back, is out with a twisted ankle, but may play.

Coach Kelley realizes that a line can never beat Tech, but he far from agrees that the game will be won by runaway scores.

Eastern Must Rebuild High Title Track Team

The long and tedious job of rebuilding the Eastern Track Team to caliber of the Eastern teams which have carried the school's colors to three successive high school championships, will begin after the opening of December. The job, once more, is up to Mike Kelley.

Eastern lost just two-thirds of its 1930 championship team last June when the school diplomaed Grover Everett, hurdler and broad jumper, and Fred Hutchison, pole vaulter and field events satellite. Together they accounted for approximately two-thirds of all the points Eastern won last year in track. Around Bob Slye, hurdler and broad jumper, and the remaining "third," Kelley will build his 1932 team. The first meet will be at the Catholic University indoor.

ALEXANDRIA HIGH LISTS NIGHT GAME

Meets "Fives" Under Arcs Monday Night at Charlottesville.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, VA., Nov. 10.—The first night game for the Alexandria High School gridders will be played next Monday, November 16, at Charlotsville, Va., when the "Twins" lock horns with the crack Charlotsville Schol for Boys eleven.

Alexandria was listed to play the Culpeper High team, but this game was canceled by the latter eleven. Coach Maurice Given immediately communicated with the Charlotsville authorities and the battle was booked.

The Charlotsville team is known as "The Fives." It has played eleven teams this season and has won from Staunton "Y," Fredericksburg High, Waynesboro, Culpeper, R. E. Lee, of Staunton, Randolph-Macon College "B" team, South Boston, Thomas Jefferson, of Richmond, and Emerson, of Washington. Hargrave Military Academy and Hampden-Sidney frosh have been the only two clubs to beat The Fives this season. Athletic Director Givens, of the Twins, hopes to give The Fives a tough battle. As his team plays Fredericksburg High in a District game on November 20, the locals' mentor will give his reserves a chance in the contest.

Special attention is being given to a defense on forward passes. Alexandria looked weak in this department against W. & L. last Saturday.

It is expected a number of followers of the team will make the trip to Charlottesville to see this game.

"Doggie" Hamilton, former star football player, with the Old Cardinal Athletic Club, today was named as coach of the Del Ray Athletic Club Football Team. He will succeed Dick Allen, who is now starring for the Mohawks in the South Atlantic Football League in Washington.

Hamilton has called an important practice for Friday. He requests all players to be present at 7:30 on Duncan's Field. The Red Birds defeated the Griffiths' Bluecoals in Sunday's game.

Hitting the Head Pin

THE second-place Takoma Park entrant in the choice National Capital League came out second best to the inspired pin bashing of the sixth-place Temple outfit last night at Lucky Strike, largely through the work of the brick-topped Mr. Megaw, whose hefty 161 game and 400 set did not exactly hurt the 1,788 set the Temps turned in.

Takoma started out well and got worse quickly. Its 607 first game was 92 pins better than the initial effort of the eventual winners. But then Temple came hrough with a brilliant 661 game and followed it up with one of 612. Takoma was sliding down the hill on top of 533 and 524 sets, its only consistent bowler being Walker, whose 136 game and 363 set gave him second honors to Megaw.

It is something of a red letter night when one of the Columbia Heights League records are broken. And they, of course, are hard to break. For instance, last night, over the slick blind alleys at Arcadia, Vic Kebler, of the Liondale Shirt, tossed a 172 game and a 410 set. Well, the 172 game gives him high game for the season. His 410 set, noteworthy as it is, falls way short of Paully Harrison's 441.

Swann's took high team game and set in the same league, with marks of 608 and 1,758.

The King Pin Business Men's League functioned once more last night at King Pin No. 2. Lansburgh's No. 1 had no trouble in winning all three games from the No. 2 outfit of the same store. Union Wall Paper took two from Hecht Annex and the Maccabees did the same to the Nationals.

In the Ladies' Independent League, at the same alleys, Capitols and Kanns took two from Tip Tips and Columbias, while Lansburgh's was winning by forfeit.

The Wrens, of the Postoffice Department League broke the team game record of their respected league last night at Arcadia. They hung up a 544 mark against the old record of 539, held by the Nixies. On the Wrens' roster were Clinton, Ream, Devine, Curtin and Kinnahan.

Kinnahan, by the way, established a league record for the year with his 356 set, helped a bit by his 129 game.

In the Ladies' Lutheran league, also at Arcadia, honors went to Klier and Broeker, of Christ and Zion, respectively. Trinity No. 2 took high game with 1,332, beating, while they were doing it, the Incarnations. Zion took all three from St. Matthews, while Christ and Takoma were winning from Trinity No. 1 and Georgetown by the margin of 2-1.

In the Men's Lutheran League, Laue, of Trinity, had high game with 139 and set with 362. Trinity took team game at 585 and set at 1,630.

The National Capital League did not provide all the noise at Lucky Strike last night. Part of it came from the Insurance League, in which Fessenden, of Acacia, startled the all and sundry with a 131 game and a 362 set, to help his club hang up a 575 game. Then, too, the Supervising Architects had a hand in it, but it was mostly Lowe, with a 146 game; Brodie, with a 392 game and the Gothics, with a 543 game.

Mrs. Viehmeyer, of the Joseph Milans, in the Eastern Star League, rolled a nifty 135 game and a 347 set last night, also at Lucky.

Lorraine Gulli's 345 was, as usual, the best bet in the Washington Ladies League, at Columbia. The Columbians, by the way, beat University Park, 3-0, as did the Beeques beat the Keenos.

It is not often that anybody steals the show from Lorraine Gulli, but last night Billie Butler rolled a nice 356 set (115, 125 116) to take high honors in the Washington Ladies League, in which Lorraine Gulli is usually the headliner. Billie's mark helped the Beeques to beat the Keenos, 3-0. Miss Gulli rolled a 345 set, but the University Parks lost all three to the Columbians. The Veterans' Bureau outfit perked up a little and beat the Cardinals, 2-1, and the Shamrocks won all three from Hilltoppers, in a match dominated by Jennie Egan's 341 set and the 326 same thing of Betty Hoffman's.

The Blick Midgets and the Lustine-Nicholson boys will roll the first block of a three-game series Saturday. On the Blick outfit are R. Sisler, Chalfonte, B. Sisler, Baer and Harrison, while the L.-N. Team is made up of Franklin, DuVall, Corrick, Hafrison and Wood.

In the Washington Post League yesterday the Pearls beat the Gothics, 2-1; the Agates trimmed the Ionics by the same score, the Minions did the same to the Picas, and the Quads swamped the Ionics. Gordon Scott's 127 was high for the afternoon. Edgar Hummer and Tom Kinney had 126. The Agates, their team, rolled a 554 game.

The 20-berry gold piece Fred Buchholtz gives the Washington Ladies League to raffle off each year was won yesterday by Miss Eva Lieberman, of the Veterans' Bureau Team.

Joan Blick, who has so many bowling alleys that they get in his hair, caviar, and floating island, and rated a "power" in local and out-of-town bowling, can't get in his own tournament the Greater Washington Handicap Sweepstakes, which opens Saturday at Columbia.

Blick set the entrance mark so that bowlers who averaged under 110 would be the only ones admitted. Now Blick, heretofore, has been just one of the boys, so far as bowling skill was concerned. He figured he could well slip in under a 110 wire; but when his season's average was investigated by a committee headed by Senator Lonnie Krauss, he was found to be bowling a 120 average in the mixed doubles league.

Entries continue to pour in for the event. More than 50 are now lined up. It will cost $8, including fifteen games to be rolled. The regatta will open at Columbia, go on to Arcadia, and wind up at Convention Hall.

BANK BOWLING OFF.

The death of John B. Larner, president of the Washington Loan & Trust, has caused tonight's bowling match between the No. 1 and 2 teams of the institution to be called off.

Cochrane-Hoppe Cue Match to Attract Fans

Much interest has been aroused in District billiard circles at the announcement that the two masters, Walker Cochrane and Willie Hoppe, will appear at the Lewis and Krauss parlors next Monday in a combination balkline and three-cushion match. The two will cross cues twice, at 3 in the afternoon and again in the evening.

Cochrane is present 18.1 champion and a contender for the 18.2 crown, while Hoppe has held both titles during his career. The two will play 250 points at 18.2 and 25 points at three-cushions in each match, following which will be exhibitions of trick and fancy shots.

Clerk Court League Lists Meeting Friday

Representatives of Government Printing Office, Census Bureau, Agriculture, Treasury, Union Printers, Army War College, Naval Air Station and Constructioneers are expected to attend a meeting Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Vic Sport Shop to effect the preliminary details of organization of a Departmental Basket Ball League.

Vic Gauzza, president of the Departmental Baseball loop, assisted by Earle Moser, manager last season of the Census Enumerators, will preside at the gathering. Others interested in the proposed circuit are invited to attend.

Goldblatt, McMeniman Sign With Vic's Five

Jakie Goldblatt and Les McMeniman, noted semiprofessional basket ball players, have been added to the array of stars who will make up the Vic's Sport Shop team this year.

Their names go down alongside of those of Joe Sweeney, Dick Streets, Tubba Farrell, Bill Banta, Doc Hessler, Shorty Harris and Dave Keppel. Keppel is coach of the team and will stage a practice session Friday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Silver Spring High School gym.

V. M. I.-V. P. I. Frosh Play for Charity Today

Blacksburg, Va., Nov. 10.—Something new in Virginia Tech football awaits Coach Henry Redd's freshman eleven tomorrow. The Tech yearlings will meet the V. M. I. freshmen in an Armistice Day charity battle at Roanoke in the first game ever played by a Tech freshman team on neutral ground.

Athletic authorities at V. M. I. and V. P. I. will donate part of the gate receipts of the game to the Roanoke community fund for unemployment relief. The game is to be a part of a varied Armistice Day celebration at Roanoke and is expected to draw the largest crowds ever to see a Tech freshman eleven in action.

Fresh from a smashing 19-to-0 win over the University of Virginia Freshmen, the Tech yearlings are primed for a great battle. They have been pointing for this game all year and will hurl at the little Keydets a versatile eleven that has more than once battled the Gobbler varsity to a standstill in scrimmages. Coach Redd has a heavier line and a more diversified attack than his 1930 State champions could show.

LIGHT-HEAVIES HALTED.

Dartmouth-Cornell Game To See D. C Youths Opposed

Central Classmates, Careers Parallel, Face on Gridiron.

TWO former Central High School students, both outstanding athletes, who later roomed together and were teammates at Mercersburg Academy, will probably play football against each other in the Cornell-Dartmouth game at Hanover, N. H., Saturday.

The boys, Philip Kline, son of Dr. and Mrs. Walter L. Kline, 115 Prospect place northwest, who attends Cornell, and Robert Michelet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Michelet, 1636 Argonne place northwest, a Dartmouth student, are both members of the teams at their schools, although they are only sophomores.

In the recent Cornell-Princeton game, when the Red team from Ithaca gave the Tigers the worst beating they have ever suffered in the history of the school, young Kline scored 9 points, intercepting a pass and running 70 yards for a touchdown and kicking 3 points after touchdown. He plays full back on "Gloomy" Gil Dobie's great back field combination of Viviano, Ferraro, Hedden and Kline, which has averaged 37 points a game to date to their opponents' total of 6. Kline is 5 feet 11 inches, weighs 165 and is 21 years old.

Michelet Finds Rival In Capital Youth.

Michelet is a guard and has run into stiff competition at Dartmouth from John Pyles and Arthur Hoffman, two senior members of the team, who last year received all-American consideration.

Pyles also is a Washington boy, being the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Chester Pyles, of 806 D street southeast. He is a close friend of Kline and Michelet, so should the latter fail to get into the game it is a certainty that Pyles and Kline will play on opposite sides of the line. In addition to playing his third year of football, Pyles is captain of the Dartmouth Lacrosse Team. He attended Eastern High School here. He is 6 feet 1 inch, weighs 198 and is 20 years old.

While at Central, Kline was best known for his track work, being an excellent field event man. Michelet played on the football team, being all-high guard in 1929. Both were members of Lambda Sigma Fraternity.

Together they entered Mercersburg as roommates where football attracted their attention, both being regulars for the two years that they attended the school, and Kline being elected captain of the Mercersburg eleven his last year.

College Records Parallel.

At the end of their preparatory school careers, however, their paths separated, Michelet going to Hanover while Kline went to Ithaca for his college work.

During their first years at college their records were outstanding and closely parallel each other. Both were elected presidents of their respective classes and both captained the Freshman Football Teams. Michelet became a member of Psi Upsilon, while Kline joined Beta Theta Pi.

At the end of last year Michelet was awarded the Dartmouth medal for being "the most outstanding member of the freshman class."

Families of the boys and several friends are planning to attend the Dartmouth-Cornell game next Saturday to see the pair, who for so many years played and studied together, pitted against each other for the first time.

MERIDIANS TUNE UP.

The Meridians, 150-pound Capital City League team, will drill tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Iowa Avenue Playgrounds in preparation for Sunday's Post Capital City League game with the Northerns. The Meridians, who are confident that Sunday's tiff is "in the bag," are anxions that all men show up tonight.

BLUE COALS DRAW BYE.

The Griffith Blue Coals have drawn a bye in the Capital City League this Sunday and would like to schedule a game. Interested parties can get in touch with Manager Greg Gerdom at Atlantic 2639-J.

BOSS & PHELPS,

25 Years Ago Today

NOVEMBER 11, 1906.

It is understood that President Roosevelt's message to Congress will touch on some means by which the growth of great fortunes in the country can be limited by taxation. The President believes that "it has an unwholesome effect on the common weal for swollen estates to pass from generation to generation." The divorce evil will also be touched upon by the President as it is known that he feels that the ever-increasing number of separations is a menace.

Mrs. Russell Sage, who has been left "a score of millions of dollars" by her husband, has announced that in the distribution of the money she will favor individuals and not institutions, and that she will not endow churches and the like "as the very endowments put them beyond the necessity of work, making them dead."

Due to the resignation of President David Starr Jordan, of Leland Stanford University, from the executive committee of the organization for simplified spelling, it is believed that the group advocating simplicity in spelling will have an internal controversy which will greatly threaten its future.

Mrs. Hetty Green said yesterday, "There is going to be a revolution in this country and the people are going to revolt against the oppression of the trusts. There will be a deluge, and these streets will run with blood. The people are aroused."

GIRL CLOSET VICTIM WILL LEARN FUTURE FROM COURT TODAY

CHILD IS ABLE TO WALK TO GRAND JURY HEARING

Relatives and Others Tell Quiz Body of Conditions at Riley Home.

The question of Edith Riley's future home will be decided today by Judge Kathryn Sellers at a hearing in Gallinger Hospital, where the child was taken for treatment after being rescued from a closet in which she is alleged to have been imprisoned for four years.

Her maternal grandmother and aunt are anxious to bring Edith and her 15-year-old brother, Francis, into their home, and Judge Kathryn Sellers will be asked today to award the custody of the children to them.

Grand Jury Weighs Case.

Meanwhile, the fates of Mr. and Mrs. Lester N. Riley, father and stepmother of the children, rested in the hands of the grand jury, which yesterday heard testimony of relatives of the girl and others who had access to the Riley home. They described the alleged imprisonment of the child, while others, who knew her long ago, said she seemed mentally and physically normal.

The grand jury is being asked to indict the parents of the child on a charge of cruelty to children. Conviction on this charge carries with it a penalty of $250 fine or two years in prison.

Girl Gains 4 Pounds.

Edith was able to walk into the grand jury room. Her aunt, Mrs. Louis Hall, of 1414 V street northwest, took the child before the grand jurors. Her appearance yesterday was much healthier than when she was brought to the hospital. Since her admission to Gallinger Hospital she has gained 4 pounds.

It will be two weeks before physicians can determine whether she is a mentally normal child or is the victim of her alleged imprisonment in her parents' home at 1110 Rhode Island avenue northwest.

Enforcement Is Urged For Traffic Signaling

Strict enforcement of the traffic regulation requiring drivers of vehicles about to draw out from a parking space to "give unmistakable signal" of intention thereof was enjoined upon police yesterday by Acting Superintendent E. W. Brown, of the Metropolitan Police Department.

"Members of the force will strictly enforce the provisions of this regulation, as compliance with same is a most important factor in safety," the order said. "Many accidents have been caused by failure to comply with this regulation, and the department is in receipt of numerous complaints of its nonobservance."

Skyviews of Washington, No. 11

Fairchild Aerial Surveys, Inc.

WHERE uptown Washington begins apartment house dwellings range side by side with conventional row houses and palatial homes of the socially elite, in the area south and east of Meridian Park, shown in the upper left-hand corner.

Boundary Castle, home of the late Mrs. John B. Henderson, is shown facing the white square of park land, on the left-hand side of Sixteenth street, which cuts the photograph at an angle.

On the Fifteenth street side of Meridian Park, running left to right, may be seen the Netherlands Legation, 2437 Fifteenth street, part of Mrs. Henderson's estate, and the Nicaraguan Legation, willed to her Japanese secretary, Jesse Shima, by the late mistress of Boundary Castle. It has since been deeded back to the estate.

The five-winged building just south of Meridian Park is the Roosevelt Hotel, and the tall square structure facing Sixteenth street from the corner, a block below is the Balfour. The shaded thoroughfare cutting the picture vertically is New Hampshire avenue.

On the right side of New Hampshire avenue east of Sixteenth street is shown, respectively, the Congressional Club, Hampton Court, the Northumerland Apartments and Wakefield Hall. The two-spired structure to the right of the hall is St. Paul's Catholic Church, and the apartment building to the right of this is the Portner.

NEW HORACE MANN SCHOOL DEDICATED BEFORE BIG CROWD

Picture of Noted Educator, Given by Association, Is Unveiled.

ROPER AND BALLOU TELL OF AIMS FOR EDUCATION

Music and Songs Are Among Features of Program in Wesley Heights.

Erected both as a tribute to the man who started the public school system in the United States and to fill a long-desired need in Wesley Heights community, the new Horace Mann Elementary School was dedicated last night in the presence of several hundred parents and officials of the District school system.

Like the Lafayette School, in Chevy Chase, which was dedicated Monday night, the new Wesley Heights School lacks an auditorium for the present, and the ceremony was conducted in one of the larger classrooms, with a large number of persons overflowing into the main corridor.

The feature of the dedication was the unveiling of a picture of Horace Mann by Virginia Wilkinson, one of the pupils in the school. The picture was obtained through the efforts of Mrs. Horace Albright, wife of the director of the National Park Service, and was given to the school by the Home and School Association. The presentation last night was made by Mrs. Charles R. Stark in the absence of Gustavus A. Weber. Miss Rosemary L. McNamara, principal of the school, accepted the gift.

Roper Makes Address.

The dedicatory address was made by Daniel C. Roper, Board of Education member. He referred to the new building as the type of school that Mr. Mann must have visualized 100 years ago as the ideal public school type.

Mr. Roper opined that good teachers are as important as good buildings and declared that the Board of Education is striving to get better pay for teachers "because we want better ones."

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, and a resident of Wesley Heights, spoke of the growth of elementary schools in recent years and told of the large number of new schools that will be added to the system in the next year. He pointed out that building elementary schools is only half the problem, and that high school accommodations must be substantially increased to care for the tide of pupils which will flow from the elementary schools.

Expresses His Gratitude.

He expresses gratitude for the part played by Congress, the District engineers office, the District municipal architect and other departments in helping to complete the new elementary schools ahead of schedule. The superintendent revealed that E. C. Graham, a former president of the Board of Education, was mainly instrumental in causing the Mann School to be made an eight-room building instead of four as originally planned. Dr. Ballou was introduced by C. W. Mitman, president of the Wesley Heights Community Club.

Henry W Draper, supervising principal of the First Division, presided, the new school being under his supervision as well as the new Lafayette. Dr James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives, pronounced the invocation. Mrs. Max Proffit, president of the Horace Mann Home and School Association, gave the address of welcome. A. L. Harris, municipal architect who designed the new school, presented the keys of the building to the new principal, Miss McNamara. The speeches were interspersed with music by the Western High School orchestra and songs by James Marshall. Dr. Lucius Charles Clark, chancellor of American University, pronounced the benediction.

Floral decorations in the school included roses from the White House garden, the gift of Theodore Joslin, secretary to President Hoover, whose son, Robert Joslin, is a pupil at the school.

FESS URGES CAPITAL AS MODEL FOR U. S.

Senator Tells Bicentennial Group of Aims; Other Speakers Heard.

"I should like to see Washington become the laboratory city of the country so that when any other municipality wanted to construct the latest in streets, buildings and parks or to improve the sanitation and protective systems, they would come here for their model," declared Senator Simeon D. Fess last night addressing the Northeast Suburban Bicentennial Committee at Sherwood Hall, Twenty-second and Jackson streets northeast.

The meeting, which was preceded by a community dinner, was held on the first anniversary of the establishment of the suburban bicentennial committee and was featured by the announcement of the prize winners of the 1931 lawn and garden contest.

Other Speakers Heard.

Others who attended and spoke briefly included: Dr. Luther H. Richelderfer, president of the Board of Commissioners; Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Commissioner of the District; Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director, public buildings and public parks of the National Capital, and Dr. George Havenner, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations and executive vice chairman of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

Dr. Richelderfer lauded the fact that Washington, fortunately, has public spirited citizens who are willing and capable to undertake special work of the nature being done to celebrate the birth of George Washington.

Col. Grant pointed out the importance of keeping the parks and lawns of the city, and especially the Northeast section, it being the gateway to Washington, in an attractive appearance from the coming influx of visitors, which he estimated at 6,000,000

M. C. Wilson presided at the meeting. The Rev. Walter F. Eagelson pronounced the invocation and musical numbers were offered by Mrs. Eppa L. Norris, Miss Lillian Llewellyn, Kenneth Frisbie and Miss Ina Holtzcheiter. Clare Jean Speaker gave a dramatic reading.

$25,000 Asked for Injuries.

John R. Smith, 3804 Jenifer street northwest, was named defendant in a suit for $25,000 yesterday filed by Jessie Blase, 813 Hamilton street northwest, who asserted that she was seriously injured August 10, when an automobile driven by Smith was in collision with a machine in which she was riding at Webster street and Kansas avenue northwest.

VISITORS WHO PARK HERE OUTNUMBERED BY WASHINGTONIANS

Survey Made by Post Finds Two Capital Cars for One From Out of Town.

COMMISSION DELAYS ACTION ON COMPLAINT

Informal Opinion Given That No More Limitation Is Possible Downtown.

District motorists outnumber by more than 2 to 1 visitors from out of town, according to the number of cars parked in parks, a census taken by a representative of The Post discloses.

The survey, made following the proposal of the Fine Arts Commission to reduce parking in this area and Col. U. S. Grant 3d's denunciation of the use of parks as 'open-air garages," did not sustain conclusion that the grounds are used for parking wholly by Government employes or downtown workers.

District Commissioners yesterday postponed consideration of the Fine Arts Commission's complaint, transmitted to District officials by William Tyler Page, executive secretary to the National Bicentennial Commission. Action was delayed, due to the absence of Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the board.

Commissioners, however, expressed the informal opinion that they are not willing to go any farther in limiting parking downtown because of the lack of facilities to accommodate the cars.

Checks on Cars.

The Post's check made yesterday to determine the number of cars parked in the various sections of Potomac Park disclosed 171 automobiles bearing District licenses parked in the entire area, as against 73 vehicles from out of town.

Parking appeared most concentrated in the Tidal Basin grounds, where 43 District cars were parked, as against 26 from out of town. Inversely, fewer cars were parked in the Monument Grounds than in any other section. The parking limit here was reduced to one hour last week. The Post check showed only 16 cars parked here at one time, and 7 of these were from out of town.

The Speedway likewise was popular with parkers, although it is obvious that parking in this section is not of the "all day" variety. There were 43 District cars parked in the 5 miles of roadway around Hains Point and 26 cars were from out of the city.

The next largest concentration was found in the vicinity of the Lincoln Memorial, where 44 automobiles were counted. Of these 11 were nonresident.

Bans All Day Parking.

It is Col. Grant's purpose to discontinue all day parking to the North of the Memorial, when the road encircling it is reopened.

Thirty cars were counted parked at one time in the Mall Grounds yesterday, and thirteen of these were owned by visitors. In the Smithsonian Grounds there were only eighteen, including three from out of town; and around the Polo Grounds but fourteen, four of which were visitors.

Because of the Treasury Department's decision to close streets in the Mall Triangle, so that construction work might go forward, routes of a dozen bus lines which have been using C and D streets will be changed at once, it was learned yesterday.

Work of rerouting the bus lines, by way of Pennsylvania and Constitution avenues, was begun yesterday by Earl V. Fisher, executive secretary of the Public Utilities Commission.

Takoma Park Group Hits Downtown Area Parking

The abolition of all downtown parking was approved last night at a meeting of the Takoma Park Citizens Association held in the Takoma Park Branch Library, Fifth and Cedar streets northwest.

For the benefit of motorists who are in the habit of driving their automobiles to and from work, it was suggested that in the event parking was prohibited in the downtown area a special express service could be inaugurated by local bus companies. This, it was pointed out, would tend to eliminate morning and later afternoon traffic jams.

The erection of a gas storage tower in the Takoma Park section, recently proposed by the Washington Gas Light Co., was approved by the association, providing it is built in a commercial or manufacturing district. A motion was adopted to request the proper authorities to close all bowling alleys by 11 p. m.

$25,000 Is Demanded For Automobile Hurts

Helen Kirstein, 1315 Randolph street northwest, yesterday brought suit against the Neumeyer Motor Co. and Wallace B. Keesee for $25,000 damages because of injuries suffered February 22 when she was hit by an automobile.

Attorney Alvin L. Newmyer, for the plaintiff, alleged that the automobile, driven by Keesee, struck her while she was crossing Woodley place near Calvert street northwest. The suit also charges that the driver could not apply his brakes quickly enough because a small child was sitting in the seat between the driver and another person.

Two Policemen to Face Decision of Trial Board

Private Joseph Burns, suspended Second Precinct policeman, will appear before the Police Trial Board today on charges of being intoxicated while on duty. Burns is alleged to have been found under influence of liquor by a superior officer while detailed as guard over a wounded colored man in Gallinger Hospital.

Private Hugh F. Cornwell, of the Fourteenth Precinct, is also to go before the tribunal today on charges of neglect of duty. He is charged with having been found asleep during his tour of duty in an automobile parked in front of 2601 Connecticut avenue northwest.

CATHOLIC U. BOARD DISCUSSES PROGRAM

Mgr. O'Dwyer Is Selected as Procurator; Two Named on Trustee Group.

The expansion program of the Catholic University of America was discussed yesterday at a meeting of the board of trustees, at which his eminence, William Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston, presided.

Announcement was made of the appointment of the Right Rev. Mgr. David T. O'Dwyer to the office of procurator of the university and the Rev. Maurice S. Sheehy to assistant to the rector. Mgr. O'Dwyer has been serving as vice chancellor during the past two years and Dr. Sheehy as director of the survey council.

The Right Rev. Mgr. James Hugh Ryan, rector of the university, announced that special gifts to the university during the past year totaled $131,810, besides the contributions from the Duvall estate, the extent of which is not known at present. Mgr. Ryan also informed the board that the enrollment in the Graduate School of Arts and Science, from which the Catholic education system depends largely for its teachers, is now more than 500.

The Right Rev. T. J. O'Connell, of Toledo, Ohio, and William H. Albers, of Cincinnati, Ohio, were elected to the board of trustees.

Mgr. Ryan, in addressing the board, told of the support given the university during the past year by members of the American hierarchy. "Here I can not let pass an opportunity to thank those prelates, 92 in number, who have consented graciously to serve on the three university committees," he said.

Bride Begins Work On Gasoline Ruling

Opinion Expected to Hold Invalid Regulation Banning Street Sales.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride yesterday began preparation of his opinion as to the legality of the District Commissioners' regulation banning gasoline hucksters from operation on the streets after he had received briefs from counsel of the hucksters.

The opinion, which is expected to hold the regulation invalid, will be submitted to the Commissioners before their next regular meeting Friday.

Counsel for the hucksters, John Paul Jones, W. Gywnn Gardiner and H. M. Goldstein, contended that the District government is without authority to drive the gasoline venders off the street because of the provision for their licensing by Congress.

Donor of $5,000,000 in Art To Nation Given Plain Burial

John Gellatly, Who Died Penniless, Leaving Wife Destitute, Is Interred in Congressional Cemetery, Attended by Dozen Friends.

In a tiny chapel at the Congressional Cemetery, burial services were held yesterday for John Gellatly, 78 years old, who gave to the country $5,000,000 in art treasures, and left his wife destitute.

Hardly a dozen persons attended the services. On one side of the chapel sat Charlyne Whitley Gellatly, his youthful widow, and a few of her friends. On the other side were a few curious art connoisseurs, who had been bound to Gellatly by the love of art.

On the plain gray casket were two bouquets of chrysanthemums. The Rev. Clyde Brown, of Pinkney Memorial Church, read the services from the Episcopal prayer book. The services were simple, with no suggestion of the ornateness of the Gellatly collection, which was described when given to the country as "One hundred works of American art, some choice European paintings, and large collections of glass, jewels, tapestries, Oriental specimens and other valuable material—all provided with beautiful cases."

Although Mrs. Gellatly had been estranged from her husband, she said, she respected his wish that he be buried in her plot in Congressional Cemetery. Her burial plot is there, she said, because her grandfather, Richard Nash Whitely, was a senator.

After the services, Mrs. Gellatly announced that she would leave immediately for New York to pack up some household belongings, because she will have to vacate her apartment at the first of the month for nonpayment of rent.

Just a year after her marriage, in September, 1930, she sued her husband for nonpayment of rent, saying her reduced financial circumstances were caused by her husband's desire to live beyond his means.

"He was old," she said. "He wanted his name glorified. I gave up my career as an actress for him because I thought I'd have enough to take care of me always. I'm going to try to get a bill put through Congress to have them give me back the collection. If I can't do that, I shall take my case to the courts."

Jewelry Firm Files Creditors' Assignment

An assignment for the benefit of creditors was filed in the recorder of deeds office yesterday by the Schmedtie Brothers Co., proprietors of a jewelry store at 1306 G street northwest. The assignment shows indebtedness of $26,570.86 and assets of $25,627.95.

Albert E. Steinem and George E. Edelin, the assignees, asked the District Supreme Court to take charge and to fix their bond. Creditors whose accounts exceed $1,000 include the collector of taxes, $4,196.92; J. H. Duehring, president of the company, salary and loans, $5,336.71; Henry Freund & Bro., New York, $1,279.58; H. O. Hurlburt & Sons, Philadelphia, $2,285.83, and Max-Kohner, Baltimore, $1,669.93.

Burleith Citizens Name J. F. Gorrell President

J. F. Gorrell was elected president of the Burleith Citizens Association last night at a meeting held at the Gordon Junior High School. Other officers elected are: Mrs. H. L. Parkinson, vice president; Geoffrey Crayke, secretary-treasurer; Harry E Radcliffe and Charles E. Embrey, delegates to the federation and H. B. Rogers and J. L. Bost, executive committee.

The club voted to sponsor a Christmas entertainment at the school to be held on a date to be decided upon later. A committee was appointed to cooperate with the District's committee on unemployment.

Baby Girl Shaken in Crash.

Two-year-old Thelma Cash was badly shaken up last night when an automobile in which she was riding with her mother, Mrs. Addie Cash, 28 years old, of 924 Fourteenth street southeast, collided with another machine at Eighth and Gallatin streets northwest.

ATTORNEY FLETCHER DISBARRED BY COURT

Three Judges Act as Tribunal on Charges Including Malpractice.

Edmond C. Fletcher, for many years a prominent figure at the District bar, was ordered disbarred by the District Supreme Court yesterday because of "malpractice and unethical and unprofessional conduct rendering him unfit to be a member of the bar of this court."

The formal order was signed by Justices Jesse C. Adkins, F. Dickinson Letts and Oscar R. Luhring, who sat as a three-judge tribunal to hear the charges preferred by the Bar Association.

The charge was based on an assignment Fletcher made in favor of Herman W. Van Senden, who had loaned him $3,000. The assignment gave a portion of a $5,000 fee Fletcher was to receive from the City of Cape May, N. J., to Van Senden, but Fletcher repudiated the assignment and collected the full fee, the court found.

Van Senden died before the claim could be prosecuted by him, and the administrators of his estate, the National Savings & Trust Co., and Jesse M. and Otto G. Van Senden, brought suit against the City of Capt May for not paying the assignment, and collected the amount due the assignee. Fletcher, it was held, had made no effort to reimburse Cape May and had also not paid the Van Senden estate the assignment.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELMER TWITCHELL ON THE MANCHURIAN MESS.

DEAR ED:

I am dropping you a few lines just to urge that you do all you can to make America realize the importance of keeping its nose out of this Chinese-Japanese trouble. Eighty per cent of the American people think Manchuria is some kind of a fur, anyhow.

• • • •

If Secretary Stimson sends any more notes to Japan he should make them anonymous. Manchuria is too far away for the average American to take any interest in a war there, and from the time it took a bar of chocolate to get from Hoboken to Brest in the World War you can get a fair idea how long an American doughboy would be in Asia before he would get a pack of cigarettes from New Jersey. A war in Manchuria would be so far away that even our representatives would refuse to go over and visit the trenches for the news reels.

• • • •

This war should be confined strictly to the Chinamen and the Japanese. It's their war and they can have it. The Chinese have been at war so many years that they won't even notice that this is a new one. As for the Japanese, they have been wanting a war for a long time as a matter of national prestige, as they realize that they can no longer depend on those Japanese acrobatic troupes for publicity.

• • • •

America couldn't conveniently get into another world war at this time anyhow, as Smedley Butler has retired, Gene Tunney is married and settled down, Newt Baker is back practicing law and Col. House isn't the man he used to be. We would be up against it for a good slogan, too. We don't know any Chinaman or Japanese well enough to kindle up any such lusty hatred as we managed to work up against Kaiser Bill, and I ask you if you can imagine the American people rallying 'round a battle cry of "Marshal Lai Chang Fu must go!" or anything like that?

STILL, I am afraid that we may get into it if we don't pull in our necks. I have no convictions one way or the other; in fact, some of my best friends are Japanese, but I urge all Americans to be neutral. My advice can be summed up in three warnings:

1. Don't be seen talking with Manchurians in public places.

2. Keep away from both Chinese and Japanese for the present.

3. If you have neighbors who are Chinese, Japanese or Manchurians, avoid intimate contact until the crisis passes.

Hoping that you will do what you can to keep America out of the conflict, I am,

Yours very truly,
ELMER TWITCHELL.

Boiling Lye Guards Owens' Gold Cache

Wife of Capitol Heights Man Held for Murder Defies Seekers.

A pot of boiling lye is the weapon held in readiness by Mrs. Maggie Owens, for anyone who tries to remove the hoard of $15,300, which her husband William, 71 years old, claims he cached underneath their home at Capitol Heights, Md.

Her husband, is under indictment for the murder of Elsie Louise Bryant, 14 years old, and was denied a plea to leave the jail to retrieve the money from its hiding place. He said he buried the money when the Bryant girl and a boy tried to take it from him.

John D. Mullen and Joseph Di Leo, his attorneys, searched for the money without success. "If they would let me see him," Mrs. Owens said, "he could tell me exactly where he put it," Mrs. Owens said.

Region Above Human Ears Unemployed, Says Gillilan

The world's greatest unemployment problem "is the region north of the human ears," Strickland Gillilan, humorist of "Off Agin, On Agin, Finnegan" fame, told a mirthfully appreciative audience last night in Central High School audtiorium during an evening of entertainment arranged by the Central High Parent-Teacher Association.

Gillilan rambled along for nearly an hour in his inimitable style, on the subject "North of the Ears." Decrying the much talked about belief that the Englishman is the slowest of all nationals to "get" a joke, Gillilan said some of the wittiest and keenest people he had ever met were English, while some of the "dumbest" he had ever contacted were fellow countrymen.

Another feature of the evening's program was the George Washington University Glee Club, which rendered four numbers. "Pilgrim's Chorus," from "Tannhauser;" "Lo, How a Rose 'ere Blooming," "Old Man Noah," and "Hail George Washington."

Two spirituals were sung by Eugene Kressin with Miss Katherine Latimer as accompanist. "Polonaise in A Flat,' was rendered by Adolf Torovsky, violinist. Ballet numbers were danced by Adelaide Flanagan, William Rodon, Marjorie Beall, and Sarah Beller. Miss Elizabeth Gardner Coombs acted as accompanist for the terpischorean numbers.

Other selections were rendered by Dr. and Mrs. Russell McNitt, and a xylophone solo, "Poet and Peasant," was given by Miss Miriam Fisher, accompanied by Miss Latimer.

Widely Sought Schoolgirl, Tiring of City, Picks Apples

While newspapers carried headlines and radio broadcasts continually announced the absence of Belle Cohen, 16-year-old high school girl, who has been missing from her home at 1444 Oak street northwest for the last few weeks, the adventure-seeking miss has been working in the apple orchards of Winchester, Va.

A bus ride into the apple country was the beginning of a glamorous tale of adventure told by the young lady yesterday, when her father, Nathan Cohen, brought her back to the arms of her mother, who has been ill as a result of prolonged worry over her absence.

Arriving in Winchester, the pretty schoolgirl noticed a group of young folks merrily engaged in the making of cider. Asking if she could get a job there she was told to report to work the next day.

The rustic delights of apple picking appealed to Belle, who always has lived in a large city. She also was interested in working in a silk factory, planning to get a job there after the apple season. She did not communicate with her parents as to her whereabouts, fearing that they would not let her remain.

Learning of her mother's illness when she returned, a note of remorse tempered the feeling of elation over her experience. She was glad to get back home and to school, she said, but the apple-picking adventure always will be a tender memory.
